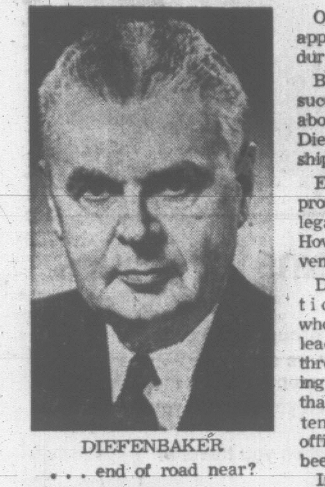
Dief Suffers Big Setback At Meeting

OTAWA (CP) — The anti-Diefenbaker faction in the Conservative party won a smashing victory Sunday night that may signal the approaching end of the Rt. Hon. John G. Diefenbaker as party leader.



DIEFENBAKER

MALONEY
. . . agenda changed

On the surface, the victory appeared to be only a procedural one.

But in effect it was the first successful step, after three abortive revolts against Mr. Diefenbaker, toward a leadership convention.

Even before the convention proper opened today, many delegates were asking each other: How soon can a leadership convention be called?

Dalton Camp of Toronto, national Conservative president who seeks a review of the party leadership, announced after a three-hour Sunday night meeting of the national executive that party headquarters' attempt to relegate the election of officers to late Wednesday had been overturned.

Instead, by a "comfortable margin," the 140-member executive had re-scheduled the crucial election of officers for 2:30 p.m. EST Tuesday.

SEEKS RE-ELECTION

Mr. Camp is seeking re-election as president on the understanding that his return would mean a call for a leadership convention, probably within a year.

Arthur Maloney, Toronto lawyer, is opposing Mr. Camp for the presidency as a self-styled Diefenbaker admirer and advocate of an end to factional strife within the party over the leadership question.

The change in agenda means that the some 1,300 delegates will vote by secret ballot on the presidency before the usual vote of confidence in the leader.

It remains to be decided whether the vote on the leadership will be by secret ballot or as in the past, by a standing vote. At the 1964 convention, a move for a secret ballot on the leadership was overwhelmingly defeated.

Mr. Diefenbaker, 71, and party leader since 1956, survived a cabinet rebellion in 1963 and a national executive insurrection last year.

Mr. Maloney said he would support, despite misgivings, a periodic leadership review if a majority favored changing the constitution to this effect.

Mr. Maloney described the agenda fight as a "ridiculous fiasco" and "perfectly disgraceful." If he were elected, it would never happen again.

However, he would not contest the new agenda and knew of no moves to do so.

A smiling Mr. Camp told a press conference that the principal officers of the party voted 6 to 1 with one abstention to recommend to the executive that it change the agenda.

There had been "almost total

TORIES TOLD:

'Liberal Eyes Are Upon Us'

OTTAWA (CP) — Conservative Leader Diefenbaker delivered a "blast the Liberals" speech today to a cheering, applauding audience of 300 women delegates to his party's annual meeting.

He came out on the offensive as expected against a group within the party seeking a reassessment of his leadership. And he warned that Liberals want a Conservative party "frozen in reaction."

"The eyes of the Liberal party are upon us," Mr. Diefenbaker told members of the

Mailmen to Set Date Wednesday

OTTAWA (CP) — A deadline will be announced Wednesday, not Tuesday, for a wildcat strike of postal workers across the country, a postal union leader said today.

Bill Kay, president of the Canadian Union of Postal Workers, said mediation talks with Mr. Justice Andre Montpetit of Montreal likely will continue for at least two more days.

"If we're not successful between now and then we'll set a strike date Wednesday," he told reporters after a morning session with the mediator.

Earlier reports said the strike deadline would be announced Tuesday, the date announced two weeks ago for such action.

Further talks between the mediator and union negotiators were scheduled this afternoon.

The unions are demanding a pay increase of 20 per cent immediately and a further 19 per cent next year. The civil service commission has offered an interim increase of six per cent for the 20,000 post office workers.

Under law, federal employees cannot go on strike. They are subject to dismissal if they are off work for more than a few days without good reason.

CONVENTION ALL BUT OVER?

Go-Go Girls Departed After Maloney Defeat

By DAVE McINTOSH

OTTAWA (CP)—Room 380 in the Chateau Laurier was subdued and almost empty late Sunday night.

Room 580, two floors directly above, was boiling with activity, singing and shouting. The party spilled into the corridor.

Room 380 belongs to Arthur Maloney, pro-Diefenbaker candidate for the national presidency of the Conservative party.

Room 580 is occupied by Dalton Camp, anti-Diefenbaker candidate seeking re-election as president.

The stunning contrast developed less than an hour after a smiling Mr. Camp announced that party headquarters' attempt to hold the all-important election of officers late Wednesday had been overturned by the national executive. The election will be held Tuesday.

Only a few hours before, the Maloney faction with girls in mini-skirts and a band had all but taken over the hotel lobby.

After the agenda announcement, Mr. Maloney sat disconsolately in his room with a small group of reporters.

He talked bravely — as bravely, one thought, as Paul Martin when he tried for the Liberal leadership against Lester B. Pearson in 1958.

There was only a handful of delegates in the room. It was littered with empty cups and glasses, discarded papers, soiled tablecloths and crackers ground into the rug.

Mr. Maloney could be heard very easily by the reporters—

Israel Attacks Jordan

Arab Nations Volunteer Aid

JERUSALEM (UPI) — Jordan's Arab neighbors flocked to her side today, vowing to liquidate "Zionist imperialism" in retaliation for Israel's land and air attacks Sunday inside Jordan.

United Nations observers worked frantically to keep the conflict from engulfing the Middle East in war.

UN peace teams arranged a shaky cease-fire along the Jordan border. But Syria, backing its threats with actions, struck back on a second front with a day-long attack on a collective farm near the Sea of Galilee.

Israeli armored columns slashed into Jordan in a four-hour raid starting at dawn Sunday. They smashed a police post, seized one and attacked two others, blew up 40 homes and fought pitched battles with crack Arab legion troops.

AIR DUELS

Overhead Israeli jets fought air duels with Jordanian fighters seeking to repulse the attack. Both sides threw tanks and artillery into the battle.

Both sides claimed to have inflicted heavy blows on the other. Some of the casualties were civilians.

The outburst was the most serious Arab-Israeli confrontation since the Israeli invasion of Sinai in 1956 which brought war with the United Arab Republic and triggered intervention by French and British troops.

Jordan went on a war footing and Arab radios throughout the Middle East filled the air waves with martial music.

Israeli officials said the attack was launched in "self-defence" after a series of 14 inside Israel. The latest was a mine explosion Saturday in raids by Arab terrorist squads which three Israeli soldiers were killed and six wounded.

FORCES ALERTED

In Jordan, Amman radio said all civil defence forces had been alerted, leaves for military personnel cancelled and doctors and nurses ordered to their posts.

Pakistani President Mohammad Ayub Khan, who flew into Amman for a state visit as the Israeli raiders struck, denounced the attack and pledged his nation would back Jordan against "Israeli aggression" with "all means for reaching final victory."

Sayed Noufal, assistant secretary-general of the 13-nation Arab League, said in Cairo the incident was tantamount to aggression against all Arab nations. He said the league was contacting all its members to appraise the situation.

First Tieup In 29 Years

By Times News Services

The first strike in the 29-year history of Air Canada grounded all planes at 1 p.m. today.

The giant Crown-owned airline was struck by 5,200 maintenance men who ignored a last-minute back-to-work appeal by Labor Minister John Nicholson.

The men, members of the International Association of Machinists, rejected a proposal by federal mediator Richard Geddes for an 18-per-cent wage increase over a two-year period.

The union is demanding 20 per cent in a one-year pact.

As Air Canada crews walked off the job, other carriers which included Canadian Pacific Airlines along with Pacific Western in Vancouver, were making arrangements to fly some of the routes normally served by Air Canada.

4,000 LAID OFF

About 4,000 employees, not belonging to the machinists' union, were laid off as the planes trickled back to their home bases.

Only supervisors and clerical staff remained on the job.

The last Air Canada flight, a Vanguard bound for Toronto, left Dorval airport at 11 a.m.

An international flight from London was expected to land at Montreal's International Airport at 2 p.m., one hour after the strike began.

The work stoppage by the machinists stopped what is estimated to be 80 per cent of Canada's civil air transport facilities. Air Canada's domestic and international services are involved.

LONG STRIKE SEEN

As negotiations fizzled in Montreal during the weekend, the two sides seemed far apart and there were indications of a long strike.

The walkout comes at a time when Canadians are concerned over a possible walkout by the country's postal workers.

The postal unions have told a government-appointed mediator they will set a strike date Wednesday if a pay dispute is not resolved by then.

Mr. Nicholson's telegrams were sent to officials of the machinists' associations and Air Canada Sunday night, calling on them to try again for a settlement as a matter of national interest.

Officials of the publicly-owned airline had no comment on the telegram while the union replied to Mr. Nicholson saying the further negotiations he wanted "would serve no useful purpose at this time."

The union was ready to talk if a "reasonable offer" was made but it would take two days to get the union's negotiating team together again.

The talks that had been going in Montreal collapsed com-

LOCAL TRAFFIC STOPPED

Scheduled air flights in Victoria came to a halt this morning as members of the International Association of Machinists joined the national strike against Air Canada.

But a spokesman for Victoria Flying Services reported an upswing in requests for charter service to Vancouver and Seattle.

Air Canada normally runs six flights to Vancouver and two to Seattle each day.

This morning, there were two flights to Vancouver, one from Vancouver, and one to Seattle. Service ended after the 10:40 a.m. flight to Vancouver and the strike officially began at 1 p.m.

Between 20 and 25 union members are involved locally. They load and unload airplanes but no servicing of aircraft is done here.

600 USE SERVICE

Local Air Canada manager Stan Mooney said an average 300 persons fly from Victoria each day to Vancouver and Seattle with about the same number coming in.

The company also handles freight, air express and mail which is being rerouted by truck over ferries to the mainland.

The Post Office said closing times for trucking mail to Vancouver are 1 a.m., noon and 6 p.m. daily. Closing times for mail going east of Vancouver is 1 a.m. and noon.

Similar arrangements have been made to get mail from the mainland to Vancouver Island.

Victoria Flying Services has 12 aircraft ready for charter use. Each one can carry three to six passengers.

A spokesman said federal regulations allow their use only on a charter basis and not as a scheduled run.

Cost for three persons in one airplane is $8 each, or $12 each if there are only two.

The company also runs a seaplane service from the Inner Harbor to Vancouver Harbor although there was "no upswing" in demand for this service this morning.

BUZZ COOLLY CLICKS MILKY WAY, EARTH PICTURES

Fatigue Problem Beaten in Record U.S. Spacewalk

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) Spacewalk champion Edwin E. (Buzz) Aldrin Jr. thrust head and shoulders out a Gemini 12 door today and coolly clicked pictures of the sunrise, Milky Way and earth—the last adventure by a U.S. astronaut outside a spaceship until 1968.

The photo session — most of which was performed out of range from earth tracking stations with a minimum of conversation heard on the ground—lasted slightly longer than the 40 minutes originally planned.

"We've got a little leg room here for a change," command pilot James A. Lovell Jr. said, referring to the fact that Aldrin had dumped unneeded equipment overboard while the hatch was open.

"Keep space clean," Mission Control Centre in Houston, Tex., said.

"NORAD will have a fit keeping track of all those bits and pieces," Lovell quipped. NORAD is the North American Defence Command, which keeps track of all orbiting objects.

The pilots used more fuel than expected during Aldrin's time outside, cutting off plans to remain outside over the United States to photograph terrain.

"That was a pretty expensive EVA (extra-vehicular activity) in the way of fuel," reported Lovell.

"We used 20 to 25 per cent."

The U.S. Space agency said Aldrin's hatch opened about 9:53 a.m. EST and closed 52 minutes later.

While outside, however, Aldrin successfully photographed stars and terrain features. The "space stand" boosted his record space exposure time to 5½ hours.

The next U.S. walk is not scheduled until 1968 on the fourth manned earth - orbital flight planned in the Apollo man-to-the-moon program.

Aldrin first did a series of exercises to evaluate how difficult it is to work in a stiff space suit, as Gemini 12 sped at 17,500 miles an hour over Australia.

"I can't get my arms down too far," he said.

The astronaut then began shooting pictures of some stars.

"That's Jupiter," Lovell said.

Although the hatch was opened earlier than planned in the reshuffled flight plan, it was one orbit later than originally planned, a postponement caused by problems with Gemini control jets and two attempts to photograph a high-flying yellow cloud over the glaring Sahara Desert.

As Lovell wrestled with problems caused by two dead Gemini manoeuvring rockets, Aldrin first dumped overboard a

Mister Diefenbaker won't git on th' march again till he breaks camp.

A good many strikers these days prove they kin be got along without.

Th' mechanics' strike is airborne but th' passengers ain't.

Regional Firms Eye Air Roles

OTTAWA (CP)—A spokesman for Transport Minister Pickersgill said today the minister is discussing with members of the Air Transport Board the possibility of giving regional air carriers authority for expanded service in face of an Air Canada strike set for 4 p.m. EST.

However, other informants said there is little possibility of the smaller carriers moving onto Air Canada routes.

An official of the International Association of Machinists, which was preparing to pull out 5,200 Air Canada maintenance men for the first strike in the 29-year history of the publicly - owned airline, said "government strikebreaking" would be resisted by other IAM locals.

The union also represents maintenance men on Canadian Pacific, Pacific Western, TransAir and Eastern Provincial lines, the country's main secondary carriers.

Presumably, IAM members on these lines would refuse to handle aircraft diverted to Air Canada routes.

Gerald Morriset, chairman of the board which regulates all commercial aviation in Canada, said Sunday night it would be prepared to give immediate consideration to any applications for additional service by regional carriers.

The problem was discussed at an air transport meeting in Vancouver last week attended by Mr. Pickersgill, members of the board and officials of the regional lines.

Meanwhile, the union's Canadian headquarters here said plans are being made to distribute strike pay to members if the walkout extends beyond two weeks. The IAM provides a basic $25 a week beginning in the third week of a strike. Local funds supplement this for large families or cases of hardship. The union also would pay the company's share of insurance and welfare programs.

pletely Sunday — and in an atmosphere of some bitterness.

Mike Rygus of Ottawa, Canadian vice-president of the union, said of a last-minute Air Canada wage offer:

"It is far short of what the negotiating committee feels the membership would accept as a settlement."

Current pay ranges from a maximum of $3.17 for a skilled mechanic with at least eight years experience to $1.56 for a learner with six months' experience or less as a maintenance man.

The final fompany offer included an immediate wage increase of 12 per cent plus an additional 12 cents an hour for skilled workers in the first year of a two-year contract.

One indication of a possibly long walkout was the size of the strike fund claimed by the International Association of Machinists — about $4,500,000.

"Our people are prepared to stay out as long as it is necessary to win a satisfactory settlement," Mr. Rygus said.

An additional $3,000,000 in the association strike fund, as it was earlier this year, was used up during a 43-day strike by the union against five United States airlines last summer.

To help overcome the affects of the strike, six smaller air companies have applied to the Air Transport Board for permission to handle additional passengers.

Railways, bus lines and Canadian Pacific Airlines also hope to be able to accommodate some of the passengers who would normally travel Air Canada.

WILL TAKE OVER

Airmail deliveries in Canada normally handled by Air Canada will be taken over by other air lines.

Airmail deliveries to and from overseas will be taken over by the national airlines of the countries concerned.

A spokesman for the post office said in Ottawa Sunday the Air Canada strike "won't have much effect" on mail delivery.

Trucks and trains could handle most regional and local distribution while the post office was planning to charter aircraft for long-term domestic hauls.

But the walkout has been described as likely to cost the airline $750,000 a day in lost revenues.

Progressive Conservative Association of Canada.

"You'd be amazed the interest there is."

He said Liberals were looking for a return to the days of 39 or 40 Conservative MPs in the House of Commons.

Mr. Diefenbaker joined other delegates during the morning in registering for the three-day meeting of the party's national association.

His speech made no specific reference to the campaign by party President Dalton Camp to put his leadership to a test. But said "if some today who had criticized loudest had worked a little harder" the party would have fared better in last year's general election.

Mr. Diefenbaker attacked the government's plan for unification of the armed forces and said Conservatives "won't be silenced on the issue in the Commons."

He referred to the government's surprise announcement Thursday that it had found enough funds to meet payrolls and avoid a crisis in the current supply debate.

"Ladies, they're not going to get away with this," he said.

The Conservative chief repeated his claim that his party is closer to the Liberals in public opinion polls than it has been in the last nine years. He quoted an observation by Abraham Lincoln that if Lincoln had taken time to read all the criticism of him his office would have been closed for all other business.

He said he stood with Lincoln in saying that the criticism will not amount to anything if he is proved right in the end.

agreement" by the executive to accept the recommendation. He said he couldn't give the actual vote because it was by show of hands.

The resolution embodying the recommendation of the principal officers was presented to the executive meeting by Finlay Macdonald of Halifax, national vice-president.

Mr. Camp said he didn't see the executive's vote as "showdown." The executive had decided the matter on the merits of the case.

Dr. Lewis Brand, Conservative MP for Saskatoon, had tried unsuccessfully to have the election of officers set for Wednesday morning.

Asked who had won, Mr. Camp said: "Democracy."

He said Miss Flora Macdonald, dismissed as a senior party organizer by the pro - Diefenbaker faction at party headquarters last spring, was given a prolonged standing ovation by the executive.

always a bad sign for any candidate in a smoke-filled room.

Two floors up, the party was go-Camp-go all the way.

It was difficult even to approach the Camp suite because of the crush of delegates in the corridor.

Mr. Camp had to retreat into an inner sanctum to get temporary relief from the backslappers.

He fairly oozed confidence as his supporters nearby shouted congratulations at each other. Even in the inner room of the suite, it was difficult to hear what Mr. Camp was saying.

To all intents and purposes, the convention appeared over before it had formally begun.

HOW SOON?

The next question seemed to be: How soon can Mr. Camp call a leadership convention?

Mr. Maloney maintained a confident manner after the executive struck a serious blow to his hopes for the party president.

The Toronto lawyer, who will be 47 Nov. 26, told reporters that he won't fight the executive's decision to reschedule the election of officers for Tuesday afternoon rather than Wednesday

"I have no knowledge of such plans," he said when asked about a convention floor fight to overturn the executive's decision, announced a few hours earlier by his rival, national president Dalton Camp.

He acknowledged he's disturbed that the executive decided to call the election Tuesday because "it puts the MPs in an awkward situation . . . to call an election when it might affect their duties in the House of Commons."

SHOULD DO IT

Told Mr. Camp had suggested putting polling booths on Parliament Hill so MPs could vote, Mr. Maloney commented:

"I think he should have the decency to arrange at least this."

Mr. Maloney's supporters have claimed they have pledges from 76 of the 96 Tory MPs supporting Mr. Maloney over Mr. Camp. Mr. Maloney himself said he's "very happy about the progress of my campaign."

He said he's avoided getting involved in the "ridiculous controversy over the agenda" for the party's annual meeting.

Mr. Camp disowned the agenda issued by party national director James Johnston, claiming it would hurt his chances of re-election because the voting was scheduled for the dying hours of the meeting Wednesday.

Mr. Maloney said:

"If I am elected, there will never, never be a repetition of that fiasco. . . .

"This is perfectly disgraceful."

ACCUSES CAMP

Mr. Maloney charged that Mr. Camp "abandoned" the vital functions of his office "since he started his campaign last May against Mr. Diefenbaker."

Mr. Maloney is campaigning for the presidency on a platform of party unity.

Mr. Camp has toured the country seeking support for re-election and calling for a re-assessment of the party's leadership.

The convention will be getting resolutions calling for a periodic review of leadership and Mr. Maloney pledged himself to carry out the will of the majority if elected.

But, he said, he has some misgivings and questions about a constitutional requirement like this. What happens, he asked, if the party leader is prime minister and is rejected by his party although he still has the confidence of the Commons.

He wondered also whether it is right to change the rules while the party has a leader who took the job without any conditions attached.

International Union Plans Bugging Probe

VANCOUVER (CP) — The International Brotherhood of Pulp, Sulphite and Paper Mill Workers will hold its own investigation into the bugging of a rival union's Vancouver convention.

In a statement issued Sunday, Stan Green, British Columbia and Alberta vice-president of the international, said:

"Prompt and remedial action will be taken if anyone connected with the union has violated any statutes or laws."

Premier Bennett Wednesday ordered a royal commission into the affair, and named former county court Judge R. A. Sargeant commissioner.

Private detective Weldon Graham claimed Pat O'Neal, western regional organizer for the international, paid him $250 to rent electronic equipment to bug the convention of the Pulp and Paper Workers of Canada at a downtown hotel.

He said he was introduced to Mr. O'Neal by a member of the RCMP's Security and Intelligence branch.

Mr. Green's statement came after he returned from a meeting in New York with international president Joseph Tonelli, Canadian director Henry Lorrain, Mr. O'Neal and Francis Tierney, Mr. Tonelli's assistant.

WIFE of a former prime minister, Mrs. Louis St. Laurent, died at her home Sunday night, following a long illness. She married Mr. St. Laurent in 1908. Funeral services will be held Wednesday, in Quebec City, and burial will be at Compton, Mr. St. Laurent's birthplace. She was 80.

Italian Talks Begin

ROME (AP)—External Affairs Minister Paul Martin of Canada opened the final phase of his three-nation European tour today by conferring with Foreign Minister Amintore Fanfani of Italy on peace prospects for Viet Nam.

His talk with Fanfani, last year's president of the UN General Assembly, was the first of a series of conferences with Italian government leaders before Martin meets Pope Paul Tuesday.

The two ministers first met privately for 90 minutes, then called in their experts to discuss details of a wide range of subjects of mutual interest.

These include Italian emigration to Canada. Italy ranks second only to Britain in emigration to Canada.

Martin flew to Rome Sunday night from Moscow. In the Soviet Union and in Poland he had sounded out government leaders on the outlook for getting Viet Nam peace talks started.

TWO CHINAS U.N. BID HITS SNAGS

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — A Canadian idea for having two Chinas in the United Nations was reported during the weekend to have run into opposition from the United States, Japan and other countries.

Diplomatic sources said the idea was that the General Assembly should ask Secretary-General U Thant to explore the possibility of having Communist China on the Security Council and both Communist China and Nationalist China in the assembly. Nationalist China is in both places now and Communist China is not represented in the UN at all.

The informants said Canada has shown three or four governments a working paper for a resolution on the subject, others have heard about it and the U.S., Nationalist China, Australia, Japan, the Philippines and Thailand have taken a stand against it.

Diplomats disagreed whether the opposition had killed the idea. One expressed belief the resolution is dead but another remarked that no one could stop the Canadians from offering it if they are dead set on it.

The Canadian government has given no clear picture. Prime Minister Pearson said in the House of Commons last week he is trying a new approach on the China question.

Spokesmen for the Canadian UN delegation referred reporters to the prime minister's statement when questioned.

MAY OFFER IDEA

Canada may offer the resolution early in the assembly's debate on the question of seating Communist China in the UN, which will start Friday morning.

External Affairs Minister Paul Martin of Canada, now in Italy after talks in Poland and the Soviet Union, is expected here next weekend and will speak in the China debate the following week.

The question before the assembly is "restoration of the lawful rights of the Communist People's Republic of China in the United Nations." Albania, Algeria, Cambodia, the Congo Brazzaville, Cuba, Guinea, Mali, Romania and Syria had it put on the agenda. They will sponsor a resolution to have the assembly seat Communist China and expel Nationalist China.

Backers of Nationalist China will sponsor one to have the assembly reaffirm that a two-third vote is needed to change China's UN representation.

In last year's assembly, a like proposal passed 56 to 49 with 11 abstentions and then a resolution to replace Chinese Nationalists with Chinese Communists failed on a 47-to-47 tie with 20 abstentions. A similar outcome is expected this year.

Communist China and Nationalist China are strongly against any two-China arrangement in the UN and both have many UN members ready to back their positions in the voting.

Road Deaths Soar

CHICAGO (AP) — The National Safety Council reported last week that 38,190 persons died on U.S. highways in the first nine months of 1966, an increase of 10 per cent over the first three quarters of 1965. The council said the U.S. appears headed towards a record number of traffic deaths. Last year's 49,000 total was an all-time high.

Portrait of Irish Chief: Young But Not Forceful

DUBLIN (AP) — The Irish Republican's new premier, Jack Lynch, is sometimes called the "reluctant politician."

He did not seek the job but accepted it to avert a struggle for power that threatened to divide the ruling Fianna Fail party founded by President Eamon De Valera.

"This was the greatest decision I have had to make in my lifetime," said Lynch, formerly finance minister, on emerging as a dark-haired compromise candidate. "And I only allowed my name to go forward after prolonged pressure from members of the party."

The elevation of the 49-year-old lawyer to the premiership marks a milestone in Irish politics and the passing into the shadow of the old guard.

Lynch was too young to have played any part in the rebellion that led to Ireland gaining its freedom from Britain in 1922.

LYNCH
. . . reluctant?

His predecessor, Sean Lemass, fought as a 16-year-old schoolboy in the 1916 Easter Monday uprising when a desperate band of rebels defied the British government in Dublin.

The new premier was not born until 12 months after that insurrection had been crushed.

Married and with no children, Lynch is a popular figure with the Irish but is not regarded as likely to be a strong leader.

"He's retiring, mannerly and has a good line in conversation," said a business acquaintance.

Lynch played in six all-Ireland hurling finals and did not retire until 1950. Hurling is Ireland's national game.

His reputation as a sportsman helped him into politics, earning him many votes in his first election in 1948.

A tall, distinguished figure, Lynch comes from Cork, the largest Irish county.

Some political opponents say his ready charm, good will and administrative ability may not be sufficient for the Irish, who love a strong character.

If he doesn't measure up to voters' ideals, they say, he could lose the governing party the next election, possibly in 1968.

RCMP CHIEF:

No Statement On Involvement

Allegations that an RCMP man was involved in the union bugging in Vancouver last week are still being investigated, it was stated today.

RCMP Assistant Commissioner Frank Spalding also said he doubts a public statement will be made on this aspect at the moment.

"In the face of the royal commission, I would say it would not be advisable for a public statement," he said.

Last week the RCMP said it "in now way authorized or approved of the so-called bugging or use of a listening device in a room in the Ritz Hotel in Vancouver.

"The RCMP has no interest in, nor was it investigating in any way, the activities of this union or its executives."

The bugging equipment was found in rooms occupied by members of the Pulp and Paper Workers of Canada, a group which has broken away from the International Brotherhood of Pulp, Sulphite and Paper Mill Workers.

PAID $250

Private detective W. G. Graham admitted planting the bugs and said Pat O'Neal of the international union paid him $250. Mr. O'Neal confirmed he paid the $250 but said he didn't know bugging devices would be used.

Mr. Graham, a former member of the RCMP security and intelligence section, said Sgt. Harold Reid of the security and intelligence section arranged a meeting with him and O'Neal. Graham said he thought he was acting for the police.

After the bugs were found, Premier Bennett announced a royal commission would look into all aspects of the case.

EDITOR QUITS IN MUDDLE OVER HEADLINE

SAIGON (Reuters) — The editor of the English-language Saigon Post has resigned after a dispute with South Vietnamese government censors over a blue-pencilled headline, the paper reported today.

The editor, Tran Nha, said he was upset because the censors Sunday altered a head which said "Ambassador Lodge still likes Saigon post" to "Ambassador Lodge likes Saigon."

In a page one editorial, the paper commented: "The censor obviously mixed up Mr. Lodge's post in Saigon and the name of this newspaper. . . . They saw no reason for the Saigon Post to boast it was liked by the American . . ."

70,000 Cubans May Take Out U.S. Papers

MIAMI (UPI) — Hundreds of Cuban refugees — the vanguard of an expected 70,000 — applied today for permanent United States' residence, the first step in obtaining American citizenship.

About 500 Cubans, some with babies in arm and pets on leashes, lined up outside the U.S. Immigration Service office when the doors opened for the first day of applying for permanent U.S. residence.

Immigration offices in Tampa, Jacksonville and nearby Port Everglades and West Palm Beach, also began processing residence applications from Cuban refugees.

A bill recently signed into law by President Johnson gives Cuban refugees a 30-month "credit" toward the 60-month (five years) residence required before American citizenship can be obtained.

RUSSIAN President Nikolai Podgorny arrived in Vienna today for a one week state visit. He reecived full military honors and was welcomed by Austrian President Franz Jones. Full talks between the two begin Tuesday.

The Non-Voters

UNITED STATES MID-TERM election results, with their reduced totals and their traditional reaction against the majority party, are explained on the basis of off-year apathy and their lack of direct bearing on the presidency. But they are inevitably interpreted in terms of their effects on the next presidential election.

The American system of government, with its heavy emphasis on the powers of the man in the White House, almost demands that every public choice—from state senatorships and governor's posts to the federal House and Senate—be viewed not only for its local importance but also as an indicator of public feeling in regard to the next presidential poll.

And even though the domestic and world conditions of two years from now are impossible to predict, and the political desirability of any prospective candidate at that time cannot be assessed today without an excessive element of guesswork, Washington observers are already, on the basis of last week's results, speculating on the party conventions of 1968.

Republican victories in the races for state governors have pushed some names into prominence—Mr. Reagan, Mr. Romney, Mr. Rockefeller, Mr. Percy—and these are already being assessed, either as possible White House candidates or for their effects on more likely winners. The election also re-emphasized the state of the Democratic presidential timber and the possibility of a strong Robert Kennedy challenge to President Johnson.

The United States' allies — and particularly Canada — are almost inevitably drawn into discussion of these matters, for each one — and again, paricularly Canada—must be greatly influenced by the course of American politics. The leadership of the Western world is a point of vital importance to each Western country, and the personal stature and policies of the president in Washington must unavoidably have their effects on the future of every allied capital.

What Washington does with tariffs, with interest rates, with income tax levies, with wage scales, must be reflected in Ottawa regardless of what party is in power or how much independence we may claim. This is especially true as regards Washington's policy on war and peace, on disarmament, on co-operation with Communist countries. The concern is not lessened by the fact that America's allies have no vote, that nothing they say can have any effect on the outcome of an election, that the people of the United States call the tune for themselves and to a considerable degree for other countries.

The world has been fortunate in that for the last few decades the United States presidency has been held by men who, either through their own personal interest and abilities or by reason of their choice of able advisers, have had a deep appreciation of their country's position in the world and their responsibility for global events. Their policies have not always been those which their allies would have chosen; there have been elements of the big stick and the over-riding determination which have led to foreseeable trouble and opposition. But there has not been irresponsibility, or lack of concern for world problems. For that the United States' millions of non-voting "constituents" may be thankful.

More Garbage, Higher Cost

VICTORIA'S CITY COUNCIL has taken a reasonable course in approving regional control for garbage disposal and seeking a recommendation from the technical committee studying the question regarding the most suitable system to be adopted.

Several questions were left in the minds of aldermen after they reviewed the committee's report. They involve costs, responsibility for collection and disposal, and location of an area, or areas, in which the refuse should be dumped.

The encouraging development in the city's action is its clear recognition of the importance of the matter. For years this community towed its refuse into the Strait, hoping that wind and tide and gravity would look after the problem. The result, year after year, was a return of garbage to the local beaches.

More recently land tips and fills have been tried with questionable success. Now the whole area needs a system which will end the problems that each of its predecessors brought in its train.

In various parts of the world, particularly in older, more densely populated countries, land fills have been used with double benefit. In the process of disposing of garbage the system has improved the topography by filling quarries and gullies and providing usable level areas.

This method may be suitable in Greater Victoria, although the pressing need for reclaimed land is not so acute. On the other hand, as the committee has pointed out, incineration could provide an answer, but only at very substantial cost.

It is natural that councils should attempt to spare their taxpayers added burdens for garbage disposal. But it is obvious that as the area becomes more congested, thereby creating more refuse, it is going to be a costly task to rid the community of this waste and to avoid the health menace which unsatisfactory disposal brings with it.

Higher costs are an inevitable accompaniment of denser populations and residents must expect to pay them.

Home Stretch

WITH LESS THAN ONE-SIXTH of its objective yet to be collected, the United Appeal campaign is within striking distance of its goal. The target sum of $452,000 is the total request of the 21 agencies of the Community Chest. It was arrived at after careful pruning of all budgets by Community Chest volunteer committees.

It is not the total sum that was asked, for that amount was cut and trimmed until an irreducible amount was reached. Every dollar now contributed will be used to best effect in the work of the agencies engaged in health, welfare and recreational activities for the benefit of the people of this community.

Residents who have given only a token donation or none at all might ask themselves: What part of the agencies' program have I cut off the list? Which activity for babies or children or problem-ridden parents or old folks do I want to see dropped this year?

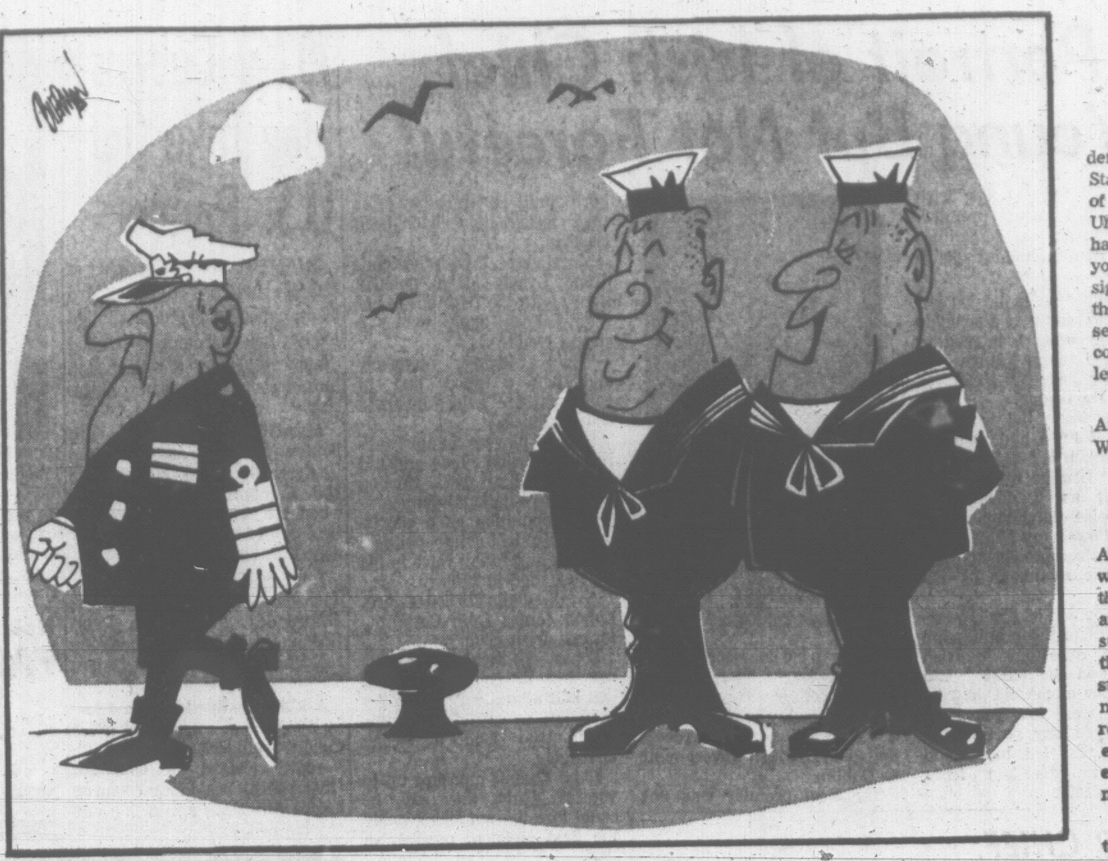
Any agency worker, pressed for time and funds, could show those questions are hard ones to answer. The only real answer is to support these valuable community jobs by putting the campaign over the top.

There are a few days left to do it.

Serve With Cream and Sugar

THE SENATE-COMMONS COMMITTEE on living costs Thursday put Mr. G. D. Robinson, president of Kellog Company of Canada through the hoops both on account of the breakfast food firm's recent 10 per cent price increase and its relatively high profit margin compared with those of other food producers.

Mrs. Grace MacInnis, the NDP member from Vancouver, was particularly scornful of the way in which cereal manufacturers used advertising to create a demand among children that "blackmails" parents into buying. It must be conceded that this is a two-way street. Wouldn't it be just as sensible to scold parents who are so spineless as to let their offspring be influenced by this advertising pressure and then give in to their demands?



"I don't care what his title will be . . . I've got my own name for him . . ."

Letters

In Protest

I am writing in protest at the preponderance of your news coverage of United States news in general and the coverage of the recent national election in the United States, in particular. You seem to have covered the situation very well in your editorial, that the election was not significant for Canada, and I am sure that all the trivial press items that you seem so eager to insert in your news columns, are less significant and even less interesting, for Victorians.

I wish to say that I am not anti-American, but am pro-Canadian.—Ken Walters, 2827 Admirals.

Heart Stimulator

On behalf of the Senior Women's Auxiliary to the Royal Jubilee Hospital I wish to express grateful thanks to all those kind people, visitors to the hospital and staff alike who by their generous support assisted us in providing funds for the purchase of an electronic heart stimulator for the hospital. From the many who passed through the lobby we reecived much encouragement and many expressions of gratitude for this piece of equipment which brought new vigor to malfunctioning hearts.

Thanks go also to my co-workers and to the members of the auxiliary who by their efforts and co-operation throughout the summer brought this project to a successful conclusion.—Mrs. F. D. Lee, Project Convener.

Not All Gloomy

The recent press reports of the monthly meeting of the Greater Victoria Centennial Society, while accurate, only presented the gloomy side of things.

For instance no mention was made of the Art and Essay contest which has been arranged to encourage children in the Greater Victoria area to express and interest themselves in the historical significance of the centennial.

The spectacular Proclamation Day Ceremony in the Arena on Nov. 20 is being sponsored by the society at no cost to the public.

On Dec. 2 an Old-Time Dance with a Fiddlers' Contest is being arranged for the Senior Citizens. Again at no cost to them.

Many sports organizations have been given encouragement and substantial financial assistance. Some of their events have been initiated and actually sponsored by this society. The Emily Carr play was one of the most successful, educational and entertaining projects yet organized by the society. Various schools held their own special Emily Carr Week. Hundreds of students were invited to see the play. The Art Gallery of Greater Victoria was so overwhelmed by attendances that their one week exhibition stretched out to three.

The society has associated itself with many organizations wishing to promote centennial projects of a community nature. And it will be seen that all sections of the public are being catered for. — Gerry Gosley, Greater Victoria Centennial Society.

Interesting Signals from the Communists

IN recent weeks, North Viet Nam's allies of the Communist bloc (though not, of course, the wild-eyed Chinese) have been making some remarkably interesting signals. The signals suggest that Hanoi may well offer to negotiate in the near future, though only on very special terms. The signals must, in some sense, be read backwards. No one has said, positively and forthrightly, that the North Vietnamese will come to the negotiating table at last, if the U.S. bombing of North Viet Nam is only halted. They have said, instead, that there can be no negotiations unless the northern bombing is halted.

Alsop

Theme Emphasized

But this has been said repeatedly, at very high levels and with obvious meaningfulness, by representatives of the Soviet government, and in a sort of chorus by other Eastern European diplomats and officials. Hungary's Foreign Minister Peter even went so far, at the United Nations, as to give an off-the-record press conference on the subject to a number of UN correspondents.

This kind of well-orchestrated chorus is never heard, and cannot indeed occur at all, except by design. The immediate object, clearly, is to see whether President Johnson may be willing to pay for negotiations by halting the bombing, meanwhile leaving Ho Chi Minh free to decide whether he wishes to negotiate if there is another so-called "pause".

But there are also reasons to believe that the signals in question have a good deal more to them than a mere effort to feel out President Johnson. The Soviets and everyone else have denied that they were making these signals at Hanoi's request. They have said, probably quite truthfully, that they cannot talk to the North Vietnamese about ways to end the war, unless the North Vietnamese first bring up the subject themselves.

Soviet Position

In their present situation inside the bloc and vis-a-vis the Chinese, the Soviets must obviously go to the utmost lengths to avoid the smallest semblance of bringing pressure for peace on Hanoi. But that need not prevent the Soviets from making their own judgment of Hanoi's true situation, and basing their actions on that judgment.

The best guess is that this is what has been happening. And no wonder! For the Soviets are quite clever enough to see what Hanoi's true situation really is. They watch the world, after all, with considerably sharper, more realistic eyes than are possessed by Senator J. William Fulbright and others in the United States.

Hanoi's true situation, in turn, may well be nearing the point at which the Chinese and North Koreans did a double somersault about negotiations in the early summer of 1951. For the previous year, both North Koreans and Chinese had repeatedly sworn they would never, never, never negotiate until the last American soldier had left the Korean Peninsula. But when their armies were gravely endangered by a great American offensive, they went to Panmunjom at a run.

Hanoi Mistakes

On the one hand, all the successive theories on which the Hanoi leaders have built their hopes have proven, one by one, to be wholly unfounded. The U.S. troops have not been cowardly greenhorns. The U.S. government has not got tired or frightened. The U.S. voters have most emphatically not seized the opportunity of the election to send a flock of junior Fulbrights to the House and Senate.

On the other hand, and even more important, the successive military plans adopted in Hanoi have all proved sorry busts, one after another. The last was the attempt to win a cheap but showy victory in South Viet Nam's most northerly province, Quang Tri. It has failed resoundingly, owing to the courage and tenacity of our Marine units. And this invasion of Quang Tri, where there was no hope of any real military gain, always had the look of the final expedient, from the very bottom of the barrel.

The Big Question

There is the question—the greatest of all the unanswered questions—whether Hanoi can still follow the course charted by the brilliant Israeli leader, Gen. Moshe Dayan. After studying the war on the spot, Dayan concluded that the Viet Cong were being badly beaten at present. But he argued they might still win by pulling back, reverting to classical, small-unit guerrilla fighting and digging in for a long war lasting an indefinite number of years.

The chances are, however, that Gen. Dayan is wrong simply because Hanoi apparently did not dare to order this kind of Viet Cong pullback in the summer of 1965 when it would have been far more effective. And if Hanoi has exhausted every practical expedient except asking for negotiations on special terms—the terms indicated by the Soviet signals—it is at least prudent to get ready for such a request.

CONSERVATION IN ENGLAND

By JAMES H. GRAY

Slow and Effective Approach to 'Progress'

AS Canada's fouled up rivers, lakes and atmosphere begin to evoke a hesitant and amateurish interest in conservation, a quick look at the old pro's of the conservation business — the embattled English — is in order. At first glance, to link England and conservation seems a contradiction in terms. There is a country in which factory smoke from uncounted thousands of chimneys chokes the atmosphere, industrial waste pollutes the rivers, and the landscape is pock-marked with slag heaps, industrial debris and factory towns ugly beyond description.

Gray

It is because all this is true that the English are fighting back, and doing so with such vigor and determination that they have brought huge industrial developments to a grinding halt. The question: "After all, what can one man do?" is never asked in England, where one conservationist in a community is enough to rouse the countryside against industrial encroachment on "local amenities."

Consider these cases in point:

The huge Imperial Chemical Industries is trying to locate a $90,000,000 complex on the Teeside in northern England. The plant will be an important means of reducing Britain's balance of payments deficit. It will require that a small stream be dammed to create a reservoir to supply fresh water.

Botanically Unique

It happens this stream flows through a botannically unique area, or so the conservationists claim. The dam will flood some meadow on which shrubs of ice-age origin are still growing. I.C.I. admits that. It also points out it will submerge only 17 out of over 400 acres of similar shrubbery and it claims that anyway the shrubs are not that unique, that they grow in many places in Europe.

The conservationists have fought the project to a standstill, delayed construction by two years and are now poised for a final attack before the House of Lords.

A proposal to build a four-mile jetty across the Severn Esturary was opposed with such determination that the company finally agree to move its project to a less objectionable site.

A proposal of the City of Manchester to build an aqueduct to draw water from the Grassmere Lake country was drastically modified following bitter opposition from the conservationists. They have also brought enough pressure to bear to force the highway engineers to change freeway routes and detour around "amenities areas."

Preservation Council

Behind much of this agitation is the parent body of English conservationism — The Council for the Preservation of Rural England. It has around 200 affiliated organizations as well as its own direct representation in every county of England.

Its constituent bodies includes such organizations as: The Ancient Monuments Society; The National Trust for Places of Historic Interest and Natural Beauty; The Commons, Open Spaces and Footpaths Preservation Society; The Society for the Protection of Ancient Buildings; The Society for the Promotion of Nature Reserves; The Country Gentlemen's Association; Country Landowners Association; The Royal Society of Arts; The Royal Forestry Society.

The objective of the Council is to preserve the English countryside from unreasonable encroachment of industry and commerce. It tries to prevent the landscape from being disfigured by chimneys, power pylons or oil derricks. It does not, its officers are quick to emphasize, set its face against all progress.

It works with governments at all levels to focus attention on the retention and enhancement of the beauties of the English countryside. It awards annual prizes for the best kept villages. It presses for better legislation to protect forests and parks. It works to prevent the destruction of scenic walks and drives by housing developments.

There is no doubt that a great deal of the Conservation agitation in England originates with such organizations as the CPRE. But it is far from simply being a matter of a few organization employees beating a drum.

Blessings of Bureaucracy

An expert knowledge of the workings of British bureaucracy serves the conservationists well. Little if anything is ever done in England without a public hearing. And there are boards piled on boards, all of which consume time. If they cannot prevent, the conservationists can at least delay, unwanted industrial or other projects. The urge on the part of the developers to get on with what they are doing brings the opposing parties together and compromises are worked out.

"GEE, I WISH YOU WOULDN'T SQUEEZE ME WHEN I'M CARRYIN' FROGS!"

Looking Back

From the Times of Nov. 14, 1906:

What appears to have been a brazen attempt at a "hold-up" happened here last night. A Vancouver man, John Barber, staying at a local hotel was out for a walk on Government St. when another man came up to him and said, "I say." At once suspecting the man, Barber replied, "No, you don't," and ran into the doorway of a nearby residence. As he did so the man drew a revolver and beckoned to a companion hidden behind a tree. As neighbors' curiosity was aroused the men fled and were thought to have departed on the San Francisco steamer.

ONE MAN'S MUSIC

There's no such thing really as light music — in the great sense of the word. It's a modern name for a modern thing. It seems to be harder to write a good piece of modern light music than it is to write a good piece of modern music. And interpretation's the same. The young conductors come along but they all want to conduct symphonies and nobody wants to become a great conductor of Strauss waltzes or anything of that kind. So I feel it's a sort of dead end at the moment. I just like conducting music. Some of it people call light and some people call it serious, but I don't really recognize any difference.

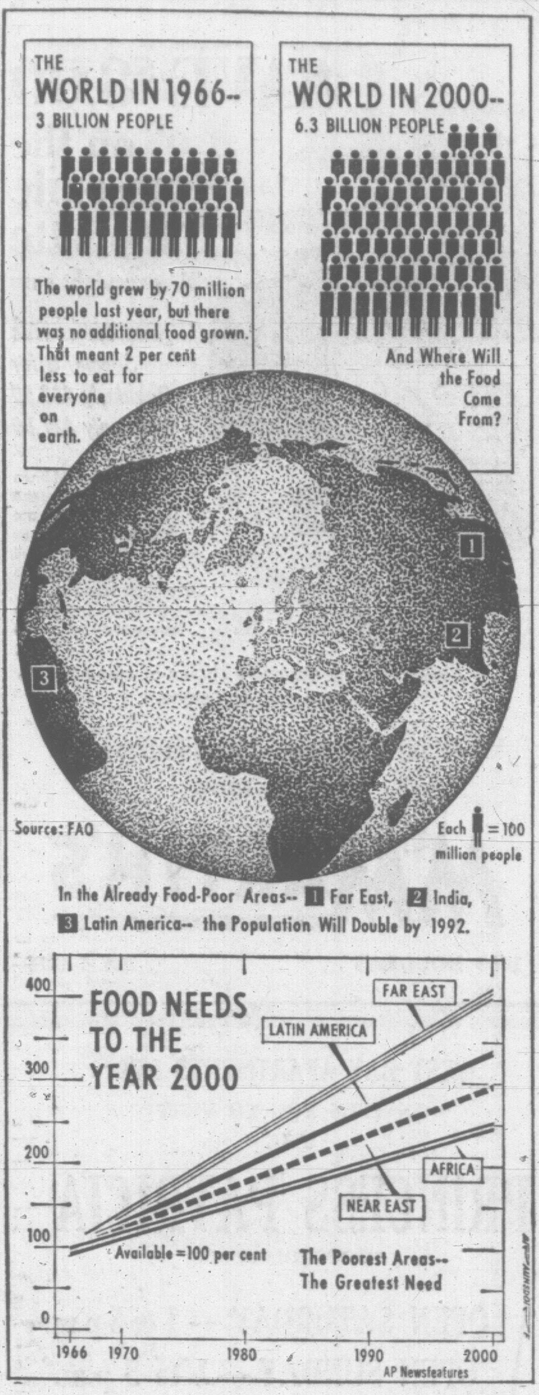
Great Food Crisis Looms Over World



ROME — The United Nations Food and Agriculture Organization (FAO) has made the gloomiest prediction yet on the prospect of a hungry future for mankind.

World food production fell behind population increse last year for the first time. FAO called the situation the most precarious since the dark days at the end of the Second World War.

With population expected to double by the end of the century, a representative of UN Secretary General U Thant came here to tell FAO that the future prospect was causing grave concern at the United Nations.

FAO experts told him:

"No revolution in agricultural production that we can conceive of will bring adequate food supplies for the population expanding at this rate. The resources of the earth can scarcely cope with this."

●

FAO's report on the state of food and agriculture in 1966 said the world's population rose by 70 million last year. But no additional food was grown to feed them. It meant there was an average of two per cent less to eat for everyone on earth.

That trend is expected to increase as the world moves deeper into the gravest hunger crisis mankind has ever known.

FAO's tentative forecast for the 1966-67 season predicted some improvement over 1965-66. But FAO warned that any such increase would be "far less' than the seven per cent gains needed in most countries to win back to the 1964-65 level of production.

U.S. reserve wheat stocks are expected to drop to their lowest level in more than a decade, reducing the margin for even emergency aid in case of threatened famine.

The situation is all the more critical because the greatest population increases and the lowest food production gains are in the areas of the world where hunger already is being felt the worst.

●

The world's population is expected to rocket from something over three billion now to well over six billion in 32 to 34 years — by the end of the century.

But it is estimated that the population will double in less than that time — within 24-28 years — in the Far East, India, Latin America and the developing countries of Africa. That is where tens of millions already are badly undernourished.

And that is where food production gains are expected to fall the most sharply below population increase.

The smallest population gains and the greatest food supplies per capita are expected in North America, Europe and Oceania (Australia-New Zealand) where most people already are adequately fed.

Last year, when world food production per capita dropped two per cent, FAO reports showed increases up to four per cent in North America, and one per cent in Western Europe.

There were drops of six per cent in Oceania, four to five per cent in Africa, the far East and Latin America — except for the River Plate countries of Argentina, Uruguay and Paraguay — and about one per cent in Eastern Europe and the Soviet Union.

FAO's forecast for the 1966-67 season was much the same, except for considerable gains in Canada and the Soviet Union and some gains in Eastern Europe.

The position in Western Europe, most of Latin America and the more productive parts of the Near East is expected to remain relatively unchanged. Some losses, particularly in wheat, were foreseen for the United States.

Further losses were expected in Africa and the far East, except for Japan.

'FLU WAVE COMING

WASHINGTON — Scientists said here that a new worldwide flu epidemic could soon be expected, perhaps in a year or two. They had different ideas about whether it would be caused by an organism that has struck before or by a new one.

The discussion took place on the opening day of the International Conference on Vaccines against Viral and Rickettsial Diseases of Man, sponsored by the Pan American Health Organization and the World Health Organization.

The doctors pointed out that flu epidemics generally come at 10-year intervals, and recalled that the last one was in 1957. W. C. Cockburn of the World Health Organization suggested that the next one was not far off. Just how far, he said, "is the great question."

Flu epidemics come, doctors theorized, because immunity doesn't last. This is so, they said, because the virus that causes flu is highly unstable and, unlike the polio virus, cannot be pinned down and dealt with by a single vaccine.

Dr. Cockburn said the virus that caused the last epidemic, Asian No. 2, which is still being studied in laboratories, is beginning to change its form rapidly, meaning that it might cause new difficulties in the near future.

Dr. Werner Henle of the Children's Hospital of Pennsylvania suggested that new forms of influenza virus, as yet unknown, might be on the horizon.

Will U.S. Have to Move Into Guatemala Next?

By NORMAN GALL
The Washington Post

GUATEMALA CITY — "Two or three nicely dressed young men come into the saleroom and admire one of out latest models," a car dealer said. "The salesman offers to take them for a demonstration drive.

"A few blocks away, they pull a gun and force the salesman out of the car. Later in the day, they phone to arrange for secret delivery of the registration papers." And the frightened auto dealer denies to police that a car has been stolen.

This is a new but no longer unusual story in Guatemala, where many owners of large haciendas have fled after being threatened, businessmen pay protection and politicians have been whisked from the streets of the capital to be returned in exchange for money.

The money, or "revolutionary taxes," ends up in the hands of two small Communist guerrilla armies ideologically at odds but united in their determination to bring socialist revolution to Guatemala.

The leadership of the guerrilla movement came initially from young army officers who rebelled against the government Nov. 13, 1960, and fled when their uprising was crushed. But in the last three years since these men began to work with the peasants along the lines of warfare largely derived from Mao Tse-tung, their movement has become the most serious guerrilla threat in Latin America.

They have frustrated the army's attempts to root them out of the countryside and have found growing support among the peasants in this land of nearly five million people where one-tenth of 1 per cent of the rural families control 40 per cent of the farmland.

Army a Joke

The army's inability to find its enemy has provoked jokes in the cafes and anger from the most liberal Guatemalan government in 12 years, that of President Julio Cesar Mendez Montenegro. Taking office July 1, it rushed attempts at land reform to steal some of the guerrillas' appeal. If offered the rebels an amnesty, which was refused, and on Nov. 3 it announced a state of siege.

In an improvised camp in his Oriente (eastern) region stronghold, the commander of the lesser of the two guerrilla forces — the Nov. 13 revolutionary movement (MR-13), which takes its name from the abortive barracks uprising — talked to me recently of his people.

"Our peasants," Marco Antonio Yon Sosa said, "make excellent guerrilla fighters. The rich in Guatemala frighten easily and run away; the peasant has nowhere to go and accepts death when it comes.

Yon Sosa, the son of a Chinese merchant, does not speak of an imminent takeover. He thinks in terms of a war lasting many years to achieve agrarian reform, end "imperialist domination" and gradually incorporate the masses of workers and peasants into the armed struggle.

He shares Mao Tse-tung's confidence in the power of the peasants and the power of Mao's Thought.

Yon Sosa's campesinos wear sandals cut from old rubber tires, baggy blue trousers and grimy, half-buttoned white shirts. They are the descendants of early Spanish settlers who fared badly and became farmers, lightly mixing with the Indians and Negroes of the region, becoming violent as well as poor.

Main Targets

The camp was located between two of the main targets of MR-13 propaganda, the lands of the United Fruit Co. and the Honduran border. One of the guerrillas' primary aims is the nationalization of the United Fruit Co.'s huge land holdings. The guerrillas say that their strongest support comes from the landless peasants living at the edge of La Frutera's territory.

Probably a greater psychological weapon for the guerrillas than the hatred of the Frutera is the bitter memory of the CIA-backed invasion from across the Honduran border that ousted pro-Communist president Jacobo Arbenz Guzman in 1954. Many of the Oriente peasants were accused of being Communists, and many died.

A potent theme in the propaganda of the guerrillas, particularly of the Rebel Armed Forces (FAR), Yon Sosa's rivals, is that right-wing forces and foreign elements will organize another invasion.

The structural differences between the MR-13 and the FAR are profound. The FAR has a classic Communist cell system while the MR-13 depends largely on peasant committees and village militias.

According to Communist sources, the FAR is based principally in Guatemala City. Its guerrillas often venture into the countryside to carry out an action, but then return to the capital.

The FAR, moreover, commands the services of many disciplined Communists who have received revolutionary training in Soviet bloc countries since the Arbenz ouster. The MR-13 depends largely on untrained peasants and students.

The FAR generally follows the line of the pro-Moscow Guatemalan Workers (Communist) party while Yon Sosa has been denounced by Fidel Castro for letting his movement come under "trotskyites" domination because he "was ignorant of the profound problem of politics and of the history of revolutionary thought."

The guerrillas are "an invisible enemy, and against an invisible enemy it is always difficult to fight," Vice-President Clemente Marroquin Rojas wrote recently. "But I confess my suspicion that the Guatemalan army does not want to fight."

"The one thing you'll never do in this country," says a strongly anti-Communist landlord, "is to get a man in uniform to fight."

"The United States should intervene if the Guatemalan army can't handle this," Marroquin Rojas said in an interview. "The domino theory applies in Central America, too. If Guatemala goes Communist, the other small countries near us will go also."

The 10,000-man army gets nearly all its combat equipment free under U.S. military aid. Also, half its officer corps has been trained in counter-insurgency techniques at U.S. bases in Panama and the United States, but the army and its officers are still strangers to the world of unconventional warfare.

"We have spent a lot of the U.S. taxpayers' money to train Guatemalan officers and we have nothing to show for it," one American official here said recently. "Tonight, the general staff is scared stiff because the FAR has sent them all threatening letters."

The army has jailed, tortured and killed peasants in its clumsy attempts to smash the guerrillas and its actions have given the insurgents new converts, although this brutality has been sharply reduced since the inauguration of President Mendez.

Treasure of Troy Missing Since 1945 May Still Turn Up

By NEAL ASCHERSON

BERLIN—Where is Priam's Treasure?

Seventy-five years after the death of Heinrich Schliemann, excavator of Troy and father of German archaeology, there is still no trace of the mass of gold and silver and electrum which he saw one day in the spring of 1873, gleaming among the foundations of the Trojan city wall.

It vanished in 1945, in the weeks between the Russian storm of Berlin and the arrival of the Western Allies to take over their sectors among the ruins.

The great Museum of Prehistory, where it was so proudly displayed, is now a ghostly shell leaning against the Berlin Wall. A succession of roofless halls and galleries with trees growing high out of its pavements. The concrete fortress of the flak bunker in the Zoo, where it was stored in a chest against air raids, was blown up by British sappers many years ago.

The old man who last had charge of the treasure says that three Russian soldiers called for it and took it away from the makeshift strongroom in the Zoo bunker with several other chests of gold and silver from the museum. They gave him no receipt, a sure sign of villainy to the German mind.

But the quick inference—that Priam's Treasure is in a Moscow vault—is probably wrong, although many West Germans believe it.

All Catalogued

Everything the Russians removed as part of their operation to "protect art treasures" was sedulously catalogued and in the course of time returned, like the Dresden paintings and the marbles of the Pergamon altar. Somewhere between the Berlin bunker and Moscow, the treasure disappeared. The East Berlin commemorative exhibition remarks only: "Many significant parts of the Trojan exhibit fell victim to the destructions and removals of the war."

The treasure was, in fact, not Priam's. Schliemann, a typical Victorian obsessed, as he wrote, "with the sole aim to discover Troy," drove gigantic trenches like railway cuttings through the mound of Hissarlik in Asia Minor until—near bedrock—he hit a layer of ashes.

This to him was Homer's Troy. The discovery of the treasure at this level merely confirmed his views. Now, however, we know that this was the far earlier "Troy II," sacked around 2,300 B.C. The Troy of the Iliad, burned in about 1275 B.C., had lain above it.

When Schliemann spied the first gleam, he prudently dismissed his digging force to sleep and eat.

"I pried loose the treasure from its stone-hard setting with a large knife, an operation which not only demanded the greatest exertion but was in the highest degree perilous, for the great fortress wall under which I had to dig threatened at any moment to collapse on top of me." His Greek wife, Sophie, stood behind him, hiding each vase and necklace in her shawl as it emerged.

It was his friend Rudolf Virchow who persuaded him not to give the treasure to the British Museum but to keep all the Troy finds together in Berlin. Two-thirds of the material is now lost. From "Priam's Treasure," the East Berliners have only a silver pot lid and a few bronze spearheads, the West Berliners only half-a-dozen casts and copies.

One West Berlin archaeologist adopts a distinctly sour grapes attitude. "It wasn't really very important," he says. "We have bought far more expensive things since the war." He pinged the tin replica of a golden bottle disdainfully. "Just an old pot . . ." He doubted if his museum would even make a bid for the Treasure if it turned up at an auction.

Russians Voracious Readers

MOSCOW — Russians read books anywhere it is convenient and at any time.

People rushing to work by train or bus in the morning are more likely to be reading a book than a newspaper.

Taxi-drivers carry a book on the seat next to them to read while waiting for a passenger.

Westerners here believe that if Russia had a best-sellers' list it would be headed more often than not by a volume of poetry, with young poets Yevgeny Yevtushenko and Andrei Voznesensky among the favorites.

They would almost certainly be followed by a volume of science fiction, perhaps a translation of American writer Ray Bradbury, or a book by one of the Russian writers in this field, Ivan Yefremov.

Other writers always certain of a quick sale on the state bookstalls are young novelist Vasily Aksionov, who has come under Communist party fire in the past, and classical authors such as Chekhov, Tolstoy and Dostoyevsky. There are never enough copies of their works to meet demand.

Very Different

The book trade is so completely different from that in the West that it is impossible to give accurately a list of best-sellers.

A certain number of copies of each book are printed to conform with a plan worked out by the publishing house. No matter how quickly an edition sells out it is unlikely to be reprinted for months, even years.

There is a lively trade in the official stores in second-hand volumes, which sell at their original purchase price.

Russian hard-backed books are normally cheaper than in the West, although not so well produced and presented. There is no real need here for paperbacks, although some books are published in soft covers.

Average price of a work of fiction, printed on rough paper with a cardboard cover, is about 80 kopeks (about $1).

A total of 78,204 titles were published in 1964, the last year for which figures are available. Total number of volumes was 1,253,000,000 — for a population of about 230,000,000.

Canada Could Follow U.K. In Televising Parliament

By DOUGLAS FISHER and HARRY S. CROWE

(Mr. Crowe is associate professor of history at Atkinson College, York University. Mr. Fisher, a former NDP MP, lectures in Canadian government at Carleton University.)

A few weeks ago the Hon. Lucien Lamoureux, Speaker of the Commons, returned from a visit to what Mr. Diefenbaker fondly reminds us is the Mother of Parliaments.

Fisher

One item of British parliamentary trends in which Mr. Lamoureux is most interested is the broadcasting of proceedings of the House of Commons. Only a few months ago, a select committee of the British House published a lengthy report which favored radio and television broadcasting of House and committee proceedings, It seems certain that the recommendations will be followed up. If the British move, can we be far behind? Apparently not. Our Speaker feels he is charged with the responsibility to examine the prospect thoroughly.

Crowe

In this session all the party leaders, especially Mr. Diefenbaker, have expressed general approval of telecasting house proceedings, providing a number of problems can be met. What are the problems? Costs, facilities, fairness, protection of house privileges and a likely public response and interest.

Since we and the British share common parliamentary traditions, much of the analysis of the British committee is relevant to our parliamentarians. Therefore, we give a synopsis of the main points made in Britain.

The committee summarized its conclusions thus:

1. Continuous live broadcasting of all or most of the proceedings of the House is impracticable and undesirable.

2. The House could make available to the British broadcasting organizations, for recording and editing by them for use in their radio and television programs, a "feed" of all the proceedings of the House. This "feed" could also be supplied to other interested organizations at home or overseas.

3. An experiment in closed circuits, in sound and vision, should be conducted for members of Parliament only. After such an experiment the House should be invited to decide whether or not permanent arrangements for broadcasting should be made.

★ ★ ★

The British House is comparatively more cramped than ours. But the committee foresaw few difficulties in placing eight cameras in the chamber, several of which would be fixed and most of which would be handled by remote control.

Relatively little step-up in lighting intensity would be necessary. Since we cannot recollect the British House is any brighter than ours this would indicate that our parliamentarians need not fear television means lighting glare and heat.

The British recommend monitors in viewing rooms for MPs, plus sound broadcasting listening points around the buildings. They believe that proceedings of several of the larger, more important committees should be televised, particularly when they are dealing with regional affairs, for example Scotland and Wales.

The estimated capital cost for providing and installing equipment for a continuous TV feed would be about $280,000. The operating cost of such a feed annually was estimated at $170,000. If both TV networks in Britain were allowed to record and edit programs in the buildings, using video-tape recorders, the installations for this would cost $1.1 millions.

If British costs translate fairly to Canada, the CBC and CTV could move in to take complete coverage and edit this for use at a total capital cost of roughly $1,500,000.

The British rejected any idea of clearing a channel or channels for live, continuous telecasting. A major factor was the simple fact (also relevant in Canada), that the most interesting exchanges, such as the in question period, take place when the viewing audience would be very small. The committee reported that study of telecasting in other countries such as Sweden, Germany and Australia convinced them that the danger of members "playing the camera" is much exaggerated. "Nevertheless the chance of this happening would be greater if there were continuous live coverage and possibly greater still if live broadcasts were included intermittently but at pre-arranged times." It continued: ". . . the most interesting, informative and shapely program would consist of edited extracts from proceedings of the House."

The British may trust the fairness and skill of BBC and ITV editors and technicians more than Canadian MPs do the CBC and CTV. The British committee suggested the continuous feed into the video-tape recorders would provide material for the following kinds of programs: daily and weekly summaries, news bulletins, news magazines, current-affairs and documentary programs; regional, historical and educational programs.

The British rejected any idea that the House would have the power to withhold the material from any user or to impose any editorial controls. The obligations of broadcasting organizations are already spelled out to present politics with accuracy, balance and impartiality. Similar statutory and regulatory obligations exist in Canada. The British surveyed carefully the likely demand for parliamentary broadcasting in Britain and through analysing foreign experience. It seemed clear that a relatively small but important audience would be certain, with indications from other experience that this grows.

Perhaps the most important conclusion for our MPs was that "the introduction of broadcasting in the form we have suggested would lead to few changes in the procedure and atmosphere of the House."

The main purpose of the experimental closed-circuit run in Britain was not to satisfy the committee, but all MPs that they could live with the physical presence of cameras. The key questions it left open for the House to satisfy itself are two: First, how the experimental coverage they see could be edited for balance between liveliness and informativeness, between front and back-bench contributions and between parties; and second, how fair the editorial ties and linking comment of extracts can be.

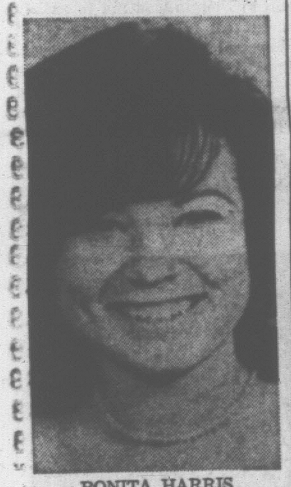
PLANNED MASS MURDER FOR THREE MONTHS

'Wanted Name in Headlines'

GLENDA CARTER

MARY OLSEN

CAROL FARMER



BONITA HARRIS

By DAVE SMITH

MESA, Ariz. (AP)—A quiet young man who felt nobody cared for him was under psychiatric care today, after the pistol killing of four women and a little girl because he "wanted to see the headlines with my name in them before I die."

Robert Benjamin Smith, 18, who told police his violent outburst Saturday morning in a local beauty colllege was inspired by recent mass killings in Chicago and Austin, Tex., remained in county jail awaiting psychiatric study and treatment before his Dec. 15 preliminary hearing on five counts of murder.

Police continued to fill in missing pieces of the youth's bizarre explanation for the slaying of strangers

FIRED AT HEADS

The dead were patrons or employees of the Rose-Mar College of Beauty, where Smith ordered five women and two children to lie in a circle on the floor, heads together like the spokes of a wheel, then walked around the circle, laughing and firing repeatedly with a .22-calibre pistol at the backs of their heads.

Dead are Joyce Sellers, 27, a customer and the wife of an elder of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter - Day Saints (Mormon), the dominant religion in this city of 50,000: Deborah Sellers, 3, her daughter; Mary Margaret Olsen, 18, beauty college student and fiance of Mrs. Sellers' brother-in-law; Glenda Carter, 18, also a student beautician; and Carol Farmer, 19, a customer and wife of a U.S. serviceman stationed in Alaska.

SMITH
. . . got his wish

The two survivors are Bonita Sue Harris, 18, a third student beautician, who suffered head and arm wounds, and Tamara Lynn Sellers, three-months-old daughter of Mrs. Sellers. Tamara, victim of a minor arm wound and skull fracture, was found sobbing under her mother's body. Both Miss Harris and Tamara were reported in satisfactory condition.

OFFERS NO RESISTANCE

Police said Smith, described by schoolmates as "a loner" and a "strange and different" boy, offered no resistance when police burst into the shop. Told of his rights to remain silent, officers said the youth nonetheless gave a lengthy statement

He said in the statement:

—He had planned for three months, since his parents gave him a target pistol, to commit a mass murder. He had "cased" several likely looking places, and selected the beauty college because there would be more people there.

—He got the idea from the slaying of eight student nurses in Chicago and the sniper killings in Austin which left 16 dead.

—He wanted to kill about 40 people, and wanted to die himself

—And the reason for it all: "I wanted to get known . . . get myself a name . . . to see the headlines with my name in them before I die."

Pills Arrived Too Late . . . Son Had Killed His Mother

NEW YORK (AP) — As only a father can, William Worrall worried often about his son, Stephen.

He worried when his 21-year-old son switched courses in college and later when the boy dropped out of school.

After giving up his academic career, the father said, Stephen spent most of his time in their Queens County home. He had no job.

Some weeks ago, Worrall said he began to worry again when Stephen took to bickering with his mother.

He took the boy to a physician who put Stephen under treatment for a nervous condition.

Saturday, Worrall said, Stephen began another argument with his mother.

The doctor had prescribed a tranquilizer drug for the boy but the supply had run out.

Worrall hurried off to the drug store to renew the prescription, hoping one of the pills would calm his son.

When he returned, he found a policeman questioning Stephen in the living room. In the kitchen, Worrall found his wife, lying on the floor with a knife protruding from her back.

Worrall fainted.

Stephen was taken to police headquarters where he was charged with stabbing his mother to death. The knife had been plunged into her neck, chest and back.

Police said Stephen had called precinct headquarters earlier to report: "I've just stabbed my mother."

Teaching CS French Will Prove Costly

OTTAWA (CP) — Teaching civil servants to use a second language will cost the country $3,000,000 a year when the program gets into full operation next year, chairman J. J. Carson of the civil service commission said last week.

He told the Commons committee on broadcasting, films and assistance to the arts that cost of the plan to date has averaged $1,500,000 a year since it was originated nearly three years ago.

Establishing new schools in Montreal and Quebec and the plan to move senior officersa nd their families to Toronto and Quebec City for French and English language training would push the cost up.

The committee was discussing the spending estimates of the civil service commission.

Some 2,000 civil servants are taking language training.

Ten English-speaking senior civil servants and their families have been moved to Quebec City where the parents attend classes at Laval University. Only one French-speaking officer and his family have been moved to Toronto so far.

TORIES CREATE 'FALSE CRISIS'

VANCOUVER (CP) — T. C. Douglas, national leader of the New Democratic party, said Saturday the armed services unification bill is a phoney issue.

He tod an NDP meeting in suburban Burnaby the government should avoid a debate on unification and get to work on more important legislation.

"I couldn't care less what they do with unification," he said. "The important issues are veterans' and old age pensions, public housing and medicare."

Mr. Douglas said the Conservatives are pushing the issue to create a false crisis, "so that their convention will be afraid to replace Diefenbaker.

During the First World War he served with the 175th Battalion overseas. He was later made Lieutenant-Colonel in the militia's Southern Alberta Regiment.

Mr. Bannan was predeceased by his first wife, Edna Flemming, and a son George.

He is survived by the widow, Norma Massey; two daughters, Mrs. R. W. Hall and Mrs. W. H. Arthur of Vancouver; one sister Mr. Nan Chambers of Vancouver; and one brother Rev. Edward Bannan of Duarte, Calif.

Mr. Menzies, who trained at Burnaby Vocational Institute, won the 13th annual international Fifth Year Apprentice Competition.

Closer Political Links Eyed for NATO Nations

PARIS (Reuters) — NATO parliamentarians are expected to draft the broad lines of a new look for the Atlantic Alliance in a five-day conference opening here today.

The conference, which meets annually, plans discussions of possible reforms within NATO following France's withdrawal from its integrated military commands.

The proposals are in a report to be presented by Emlyn Hooson, British Liberal member of Parliament.

A major aim of the parliamentarians will be to transform the alliance from a purely military organization into a political community, conference sources said.

The delegates are expected to support two immediate objectives—establishment of an Atlantic consultative assembly and support for Britain's entry into the European Common Market.

The conference also is expected to debate a recommendation asking France to relax its rules which govern flights by Allied military aircraft over French territory.

President de Gaulle said last month that permission for overflights would in future be granted on a case-by-case basis. This presented a major problem to the allies, currently flying more than 2,000 aircraft over France every year.

Apart from reforms aimed at streamlining the alliance the parliamentarians are to discuss their dispute over the sharing of nuclear weapons with a view of giving West Germany and other non-nuclear members a voice in Allied nuclear planning.

But there will be no move to give these countries any nuclear "hardware" or a finger on the nuclear trigger, the sources said.

Tanker Rocked By Explosion

Captain, Crewman Killed In Blast Off Oregon Coast

ASTORIA, Ore. (UPI) — A Korea-bound tanker, rocked by a bomb blast that killed two men and injured seven, dropped anchor in the Columbia River today so navy demolition experts could investigate reports of another bomb aboard.

A Coast Guard spokesman said the discovery of another device, resembling a grenade-size bomb, on the 533-foot Grand Integrity touched off a state of near panic among the wounded sailors and 38 other crewmen, all Chinese.

The discovery was made by a harbor pilot who boarded the tanker to bring the vessel into Astoria. The Grand Integrity immediatly dropped anchor, and 40-foot patrol boats removed the seven injured men.

CREW FRIGHTENED

The rest of the frightened crewmen also demanded that they be removed from the vessel, but the Coast Guard said no action would be taken until navy demolition experts from Portland checked the ship.

The explosion occurred off the coast of Oregon Sunday while the captain, one of the men killed, was photographing a device found in the engine room, according to a spokesman at the Coast Guard air station here.

IN ENGINE ROOM

Lieut. Alex Klimshuk, senior duty officer, said radio reports indicated the bomb that went off had been placed in the engine room by one of the crew. The reason was not immediately known, and the identity of the crewman was not disclosed.

The captain carried the device on deck to examine and photograph it. It suddently exploded, killing him and the ship's motorman and injuring seven, including three officers.

The injured crewmen were taken by ambulance to Columbia Hospital here.

First word of the blast came when the Coast Guard headquarters in Seattle received a frantic radio distress call which said: "Engine room have time bomb . . . Please, emergency, help."

The explosion occurred Sunday about 9 a.m., about 130 miles off the Oregon coast. The Coast Guard said most of the wounded suffered serious eye burns.

The Coast Guard identified the captain as Ho Lien-Sui and the motorman as Chiu Yungjye. The injured included — besides the three officers — two quartermasters, a wiper and a mess boy.

Low visibility and rough seas prevented an air evacuation of the injured sailors.

bag of debris crammed with the 25-foot lifeline and chest pack used in his record-breaking stroll Sunday.

TRY FOR PICTURE

With split-second timing by control centres on three continents, the Gemini 12 pilots tried twice to photograph—but could not see—a wind-whipped vapor stream spewed by two French Centaure rockets high over the Sahara.

"We saw no cloud," Lovell radioed the second time around. "Pictures taken by no observation."

"They've had visual observation from the ground," flight controllers radioed after a second rocket blasted off about 8:07 a.m. EST.

"Wish we could say the same," Lovell replied.

The stand in the spacecraft door was initially set to begin at 8:47 a.m. but the pilots asked for more time.

PHOTOGRAPHIC TARGET

As Aldrin and Lovell flashed overhead at 17,500 miles an hour, the first 19 - foot - tall French Centaure rocket blasted off at 6:28 a.m. from Hammaguin, Algeria, trailing a yellow tail as a photographic target for Gemini 12.

Pictures of the vapor, streaming between 38 and 111 miles above the Sahara desert, will help scientists learn more about high altitude winds that howl at speeds up to 400 miles an hour.

The control problems were caused by the failure of two of Gemini 12's manoeuvring rockets.

"Every time we pitch or yaw, we get roll," Lovell advised controllers on the ground.

On Sunday Aldrin nearly doubled the record time spent outside a spaceship by one man.

Aldrin's success strolling in space for two hours, nine minutes "demonstrated quite adequately that, with proper restraints and aids, extra-vehicular activity can be a very successful thing," said mission director William C. Schneider.

After previous space walkers had trouble positioning themselves outside, Aldrin's activities were tailored to see if leverage and fatigue problems could be overcome.

Throughout his record spacewalk Aldrin remained in constant physical contact with either the Gemini or with the Agena target rocket to which Gemini was docked.

Part of the time he was held stationary as a pair of foot restraints, which look like oversized overshoes with the inside edges cut away. Part of the time he was hooked by straps from his waist to the space vehicles. The rest of the time he used handrails and portable handholds.

These measures let Aldrin devote most of his energy to the task he was trying, rather than fighting to stay in the same place, as other spacewalkers have done.

Aldrin's walk beat by one minute the spacewalk record set by navy Cmdr. Eugene A. Cernan on Gemini 9. Gemini II pilot navy Lt.-Cmdr. Richard F. Gordon, although not completely outside his ship for the entire time, was exposed to space for two hours, 52 minutes.

Saturday and Sunday, Aldrin accumulated a space endurance record of more than 4½ hours.

50 DIE IN JAPAN

Crash Blamed On Pilot Error

TOKYO (UPI) — Bouquets of fresh flowers wilted on the waiting room floor at southern Japan's Matsuyama Airport today. They were intended for the 11 honeymooning couples among the 50 persons who died Sunday night when a Japanese airliner plunged into the choppy Inland Sea.

All 45 passengers and the five crew members aboard the twin-engine All-Nippon Airways turboprop were killed when the Japanese-made YS-11 aircraft overshot the runway on landing, got airborne again but cartwheeled into the freezing water a mile and one-half away. All the victims were Japanese

PILOT ERROR BLAMED

Pilot error was tentatively blamed for the fifth major airline crash in Japan this year and the second involving All-Nippon Airways. An All-Nippon Boeing 707 crashed in Tokyo Bay in February, killing 133 persons aboard in the worst single plane disaster in aviation history.

It was the first crash involving the YS-11, the first commercial airliner built in Japan since the Second World War.

MUTE HORROR

Some 300 friends and relatives, many clutching heaps of flowers to give the honeymoon couples, watched in mute horror from waiting room windows at Matsuyama as the plane touched down some 350 yards beyond the normal landing line, regained power and, under control tower orders, climbed left for another landing try.

Suddenly it spun nose-first into the sea.

An airline spokesman said the last message from Captain Yasuo Mori, 40, was "Missed approach . . ." and that he would try again.

Investigating transport ministry officials said pilot error probably caused the crash. The cloud ceiling was 3,000 feet and visibility about six miles when Mori attempted the visual landing.

which specializes in commando-type raids, said his group was ready to "carry the battle" inside Israel.

The Israeli column moved across the desert at 6 a.m. into the Hebron area with their main objective the town of Es Samu which lies about three miles north of the border running east from midway along the Dead Sea shore.

Another column split away and hit the villages of Khirbed Martez and Khirbet Jimba.

Israel claims all three have harbored Arab terrorists.

The column first smashed a police post at Rujem Madefa with tank fire. Then it rumbled through Khirbed El Rafa, a town the Israelis attacked last April following other sabotage acts in Israel.

The town was tightly shuttered without a living soul in the streets.

At the approaches to Samoa, a village of 3,000 persons, the Jordanians fought back. Units of the Arab Legion, police and militia joined the fight.

Israeli tanks and half-tracks blasted 15 trucks laden with soldiers, leaving them burning at the approaches to the town.

An Israeli spokesman said the troops picked out 40 houses at random made sure each was evacuated and blew them sky high.

LITTLE RESISTANCE

The other column sweeping through Khirbet Markez and Khirbet Jimba blasted several buildings in the Bedouin encampments but ran into little resistance. Both are located about five or six miles east of Samoa.

Both columns returned to Israeli soil at 9:45 a.m.

A special Israeli cabinet meeting Sunday heard a report on the action. The Israelis said one of their officers, Maj. Yoav Shaham, 30, was killed and 10 men wounded, only one seriously.

Jordan claimed they inflicted heavy losses of men and equipment, but the Israelis denied this.

The Israelis carried off three prisoners, one of them a wounded major who later died in a hospital. They also claimed to have seized two jeeps and a land rover along with a number of field weapons.

Good Looks and Sincerity Formula for 'New Politics'

By JULIUS DUSCHA
The Washington Post

LOS ANGELES — If there is a new America, it is California. And if there is a new politics, its style has been moded by the California campaigns of Ronald Reagan and George Murphy.

Politicians learned long ago that Americans are not issue-oriented and that the middle road of moderation is the path to success in U.S. elections.

But not until retired actor Murphy was elected to the U.S. Senate in 1964 did it become clear — at least in physical-culture conscious California — that a television image alone may elect a man to office.

Actor Reagan's overwhelming victory in the California election for governor seemed to prove that Murphy was no political accident and that image may soon become the end-all and be-all of the new California-style politics.

In his campaign, brilliantly managed by the political packaging firm of Spencer-Roberts and Haffner, Reagan mixed a lot of familiar political techniques with a disturbing patina of imagery.

The result was that Reagan, a pleasant, sincere enough man, but a man with no executive or political experience, emerged after the election as an instant, perfectly-packaged national political figure.

But California voters who went to the polls and voted for Reagan had no real idea what Reagan would do if he were elected governor.

Many Californians, deeply disturbed by Reagan's political success, are desperately searching for an explanation, and much of the answer does lie in his films and television shows because that is where he got his good-guy image.

The Reagan campaign against democratic G. Edmund G. (Pat) Brown was cast in traditional adjectives.

Brown had been in office for eight years, and no California governor except Earl Warren, now chief justice of the United States, had served longer as governor.

GRIEVANCES

A governor is a lightning rod; so anyone running against Brown would have used as issues the obvious grievances voters had against him — high taxes, high welfare costs, too much government, student unrest at the University of California.

Brown also suffered from the concern of white voters over the directions taken by the civil rights movement particularly in the aftermath of the Watts rioing in Los Angeles last year. Negro rioting in San Francisco and Oakland this fall only served to remind Californians of Watts.

The Reagan campaign carefully exploited all of these accumulated grievances, and it was also helped by President Johnson.

Both Democrats and Republicans agreed in the aftermath of the Reagan triumph that voters were in part reacting against the increasing power of government, and particularly the relish, if not joy, with with Mr. Johnson has exercised the frightening powers of the presidency.

In this kind of a political climate, it was not difficult for Spencer-Roberts to advise Reagan to concentrate his campaign on the accumulated grievances that voters inevitably build up against a governor and against the government.

But Reagan and Spencer-Roberts produced a new California style of politics by convincing voters that a man like Reagan who looks like a leader and talks like one, but has no executive or political record, could be a governor.

Today most voters see and hear a candidate for public office only on television, and Reagan was the dream candidate for the television age.

In a moment of candor this fall, Don Bradley, Brown's long-time capaign manager, told several reporters that he wouldn't mind fielding a man like Reagan who could perform faultlessly on television.

Brown, an intensely warm, human man, came over as a stumbler and a bumbler on television in large part because of his favorite-uncle looks and his lack of television-training.

But Reagan read his lines extremely well, and managed to project enough sincerity to win the election by a margin of almost one million votes.

As a fresh political face, Reagan also was helped by the traditional politics of the California campaign.

Public opinion surveys showed that voters, who have repeatedly demonstrated a distaste for politics and avowed politicans, are becoming increasingly apolitical and anti-government.

In his campaign, Brown said that if elected to a third term he would give California more government while Reagan's words were the familiar conservative litany of less government, tax reductions and more free enterprise.

However much Californians are enamored by the new politics of imagery and personality that projects well on television, they also seem to be ready for some new approaches to the frustrating problems of urban sprawl, traffic and smog, of festering slums in the midst of swinging affluence, of the very destruction of the climate and countryside that turned California into the largest state and the new America.

Unfortunately, neither Reagan nor Brown gave the voters any indication that whoever was governor in the next four years would be imaginative enough to take the new approaches needed to solve these problems. And imagery will simply not do it.

"A cheque book with my name in it - what a nice welcome! But it's not the only reason I switched to North West Trust"

It's extremely nice, mind you. What they call a "Personalized" cheque book, printed with my name and complete with a deposit record book. In a very smart wallet, too. But, believe me, I hardly needed any encouragement to switch to North West Trust. Heavens! When I heard they pay 4½% interest on savings - well, that's half as much again as I used to get. And they pay the same interest on current accounts, too - without any charge for cheques. I should have switched to North West Trust long ago!

Highway Snipers as Bad!

So things are too hot in Viet Nam?

Glad you're not crawling through the rice paddies with the snipers' bullets whistling by?

Well maybe it's safer than driving on Canada's highways!

To date the Viet Nam war has cost the lives of about 2,000 American servicemen. Well over twice that number of people died on Canadian roads last year alone.

There were 148,814 traffic accidents in 1965, one for everybody in Victoria, Saanich and Oak Bay. Someone was hurt on the highways every 3½ minutes.

These are the figures the men in the traffic department at the Victoria police station want you to remember when you drive.

Because the wet roads of autumn and winter always bring a jump in the blood spilled on local streets.

Soaked roads become oil-slicked and extremely dangerous, points out Inspector Richard Berry. Rear-end collisions are becoming the force's biggest problem.

The only answer is leaving more space between you and the car ahead, say Sgt. Ron Bentley. A simple formula to remember is one car length for each 10 miles an hour in dry weather, more if it's wet.

DREAM AND REALITY

A Pub by Any Other Name . . .

By ELIZABETH FORBES

Say it fast enough and the word "pub" conjures up an image of thatch, tile or slate-roofed places on quiet country lanes in England.

Each one has a small plot of grass and flowers and if the day is warm, there are benches and tables in the shade of a tree.

Forbes

Step inside one of the open doors and the cool feel of stone walls that have weathered hundreds of winters surround you.

You reach for a mug of beer and a thick ham sandwich You move over to watch the dart players. And, when several old codgers seated in the shadows call and unintelligible greeting, you blame it on the accent of the district and raise your own mug in reply.

This is a picture held by thousands who have visited the British Isles since the Second World War.

That it was created by the necessities of tourism and especially to attract such visitors few will concede, That it is not perhaps a true picture if taken over 12 months of the year is even less acceptable.

Yet, common sense should make it evident that once a tourist season is over, these places must return to heir main reason for being. The old codgers in the corner become regulars who are there every day when the doors open and who have to be pushed out when the doors close.

The pubs themselves become more of less of "a nuisance" to those in the neighborhood and the ones that frequent them "disturbers of the peace."

Consider these facts slowly and you find there is really not much difference (except in the matter of darts, sandwiches and stone walls that are hundreds of years old) between a pub and a beer parlor.

With this in mind, step over to Victoria's Bastion Square and stand in front of the old Board of Trade building.

This place was sold recently to Edmonton interests and we are told there are grand plans for its renovation. The whole interior will be gutted and remodelled with modern office space on the second and third levels. There will also be some form of tourist attraction on the ground floor and in the basement — "perhaps a restaurant or even a pub."

Right away that word "pub," as I suggested at the beginning of this column, conjures up an image combined of memory and the holiday magic of the British Isles.

It has no form and no substance yet it grows so rapidly it can actually be seen coming to life in Bastion Square.

That the reality could never be like the dream, few will believe. That it probably would resemble more truly the off-season months overseas, not many will concede.

That Bastion Square, restored now to gentility, may still be too close to its seamier days to withstand the influence of such a place, only a baker's dozen will acknowledge.

It is far more likely that I will be told this is none of my business. That the old building has been sold and the new owners should be allowed to do what they like with it as long as they do not destroy its unique and historic exterior.

If this is so then let's not try to gild the lily. Put a "pub" in Bastion Square (I hope it never happens) but call it a beer parlor.

Darts and sandwiches notwithstanding that is all it will be!

Hellyer Backed By 3 Ex-Officers

OTTAWA (CP) — Three retired senior officers strongly endorsed the government's plan to unify the three armed forces in statements issued here last week.

Maj.-Gen. Arthur E. Potts of Kingston said unification would have prevented "unnecessary loss of life in Italy" during the Second World War.

A "shocking" lack of cooperation among the three services had reduced efficiency and prevented the dispatch of badly-needed reinforcements to Italy.

Air Vice-Marshal J. A. Sully of Goderich, Ont., in charge of RCAF personnel during the war, said he finds it hard to understand how "any rationally-minded man" could oppose unification. Inter-service jealousies and overlapping were appalling.

Group Capt. K. R. Patrick, president of Canadian Marigot Ltd., Montreal, said Canadians are being misled by "a very small vocal minority" with purely political motives.

The statements were circulated in the parliamentary press gallery as an acrimonious debate on defence raged for the ninth day in the Commons. Conservatives are pressing the government to approve immediate committee hearings on the unification bill introduced a week ago.

General Potts said it is a serious criticism of Canada's political system that one party should use the issue for purely political reasons, without regard to the effect on the armed forces or the country.

Group Capt. Patrick said "thinking Americans" are showing fantastic interest in the unification plan.

"Sitting on the sidelines, it seems to me Parliament is attacking Hellyer more than unification."

Air Vice-Marshal Sully, 74, board chairman of a road grader manufacturing firm, said of Mr. Hellyer:

"He is the first minister who had the guts to tackle the unification of our services, though everyone must have known that something had to be done."

A standard work uniform for all servicemen would be economical and logical.

Canada could not afford the wasteful procedure of supporting three separate services for

NORTH AMERICA HOSPITALS

Non-Emergencies Prove Big Problem

TORONTO (CP)—What's the emergency department of a hospital for? Emergencies, you say?

The staff at St. Joseph's Hospital here often wonders.

During one recent 12-hour period it had some emergencies—slashed wrists, overdose of drugs, a person who had swallowed mothballs.

But there were even more non-emergencies—a cold, insect bites, nosebleed, infected tooth and earache.

A survey made by the hospital covering a period of a month showed that less than 35 per cent of the cases treated were genuine emergencies.

"More than half the emergency cases coming to us could have been treated in the office or a family doctor, had they possessed one, or been able to get an early appointment with a doctor," says the sister in charge of the emergency service.

This is a problem common to many hospitals in North America. And talks with doctors, hospital administrators and nurses show six main reasons for the increasing use of hospital emergency facilities:

1. An acute shortage of general practitioners, many of whom are unavailable after hours or on weekends.

2. The realization that a visit to the emergency department may save a week's wait for a doctor's appointment.

3. Increasing mobility of the population which often leaves a family without a regular doctor.

4. Lower cost of emergency department care in comparison with fees charged by some doctors.

5. The fact that some insurance plans cover emergency care in hospital following an accident while similar coverage may not be provided for a visit to a doctor's office.

6. The tendency of some physicians to refer patients to emergency departments to take advantage of the hospital's expensive technical equipment.

Some hospitals are increasing emergency facilities to keep up with the growing demands. Others are taking steps to curb the workload.

CYCLIST WINS RIGHT TO SUE 'PHANTOM CAR'

VANCOUVER (CP) — Ronald Scott Dawson, 30, who could not trace the "phantom car" that he balmes for his injuries in a traffic accident, has been given permission by the Supreme Court of British Columbia to sue the attorney-general.

Mr. Dawson said he was driving his motocycle on the Trans-Canada Highway, August 13, 1965, when he heard a horn honk behind him. He said the vehicle behind him, which he did not see, forced him out of control and he was injured.

The Crown claimed there was no collision, therefore it is difficult to prove he has a right to action against the "phantom car" driver.

Judge Kirke Smith said he did not have to prove at that hearing that he would succeed in a trial. He must only show there is an issue of liability that can be determined by the trial judge.

Look Up, It's Getting Crowded

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Keep watching and you, too, may see a fine fiery sight in the sky some night.

A recent spot check (Oct. 30) showed that 1,164 man-made objects were orbiting in space.

In the meantime, as of that date, 1,354 objects orbited by man since the first Sputnik went up Oct. 4, 1957, had come back down.

So a sort of equilibrium appears to have been achieved. What goes up, unless it soars into orbit around the sun or hits the moon or is otherwise distracted, eventually returns to earth.

When it does, as it plunges into the atmosphere, it is heated to incandescence by air friction and glows like a marvellous meteor.

GREAT ASSORTMENT

The things still in orbit and those which have "decayed" include a great assortment of objects ranging from tine pieces of exploded fuel tanks to U.S. or Soviet spaceships recovered intact.

Actually, more objects come down than go up. This is because a single rocket or spacecraft, counted as one on the way into orbit, may break up into hundreds or even thousands of bits before decay.

As recently as July 5, 1966, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) deliberately blew up an orbiting Saturn fuel tank in a pressure test of bulkhead strength. The blast must have produced upwards of a thousand "objects in orbit" which soon after became translated by fiery descent through the atmosphere into "decayed objects."

Not all of them have been officially catalogued in the official "satellite situation report" and may never be.

As space launchings proliferate the time may well come (around 2000 AD) when anybody looking up on a clear dark night will be able to see the bright glows signalling the death of a piece of space debris.

The U.S. keeps a sharp watch on all space launchings. Experts say it would be impossible for any nation to pull off a secret launch. This country operates a radio "dark fence" stretching across the southern third of the U.S. which can pick up an object as small as a six-inch piece of wire which regularly crosses the fence in its orbital travels.

On Sept. 17 the Russians threw up something which exploded soon after going into orbit. Reluctant to admit failures, the Russians never announced the launch. But the "dark fence" detected it in detail — nine objects in orbit, 51 decayed. Subsequent catalogues may show more fragments.

Last May or June the space watch people saw three things they had missed before. They don't know when they were launched or who launched them. But they do know they were fairly small.

TODAY'S GRAIN PRICES

WINNIPEG (CP) — Broad gains on the Chicago market touched off a price upswing in moderate trade on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange today.

Oilseeds were active in evidence of improved shipping demand and the sale of 3,500 tons of flax to Spain and 2,100 tons of rapeseed to Italy.

Oats and barley prices were firm to higher in domestic trade.

Higher Chicago rye and wheat prices pushed Winnipeg rye prices upward.

The Chicago market was influenced by reports of unfavorable weather for the United States winter crop.

Firms Must Think Big Even During Recession

By LEROY AARONS

LAKE SUCCESS (WP) — Bill Levitt is wrapped in a black leather chair behind a brown oak desk he bought in 1934. He tilts to a comfortable 45-degree list, makes Roman arches of his furry eyebrows and issues a crisp statement:

"Ninety-five per cent of the home builders in this business operate like the gas station around the corner."

Which is to say that the minority — notably Levitt and Sons, Inc. — run their shops like General Motors. Rather presumptuous, except that William J. Levitt has the corporate figures to prove it.

HOME SALES

Item: In a bearish market, with housing starts down and mortgage money tight, Levitt and Sons increased home sales 20 per cent this year—and the prognosis is for more of the same in 1967.

Item: With much of the housing industry reporting losses in 1966, Levitt reports gross income up 34 per cent over last year, and net profits up 23 per cent.

"Ninety-five per cent of the housing in America today is being built by the builder who produces not more than five or six houses a year. Somebody recently ran a list of 50 to 100 of the largest builders. When you got down to the 20th largest he was building 100 a year. That means that all the rest — and there are 300,000 total — are building less than 100 houses a year."

Query: How does Levitt do it?

"We try to run a business the same as a good dress or auto manufacturer. The average builder doesn't. He builds a few houses a year, and he and Uncle Louie and a couple of sons have to make a living from it. He doesn't make a profit. We do a lot of volume so we make a decent over-all."

Nice work if you can get it, and Levitt can. Where the small builder has neither the credit nor the capital to think big, the Levitt-size home maker has the credentials to command a favorable financing position even when the money market contracts.

TWO METHODS

Levitt tackles this problem with two methods: A system of anticipation financing, and applying mass production computer technology to the home building business. The former enables him to work from a master plan without worrying about the day-to-day fluctuations of the money market. The latter puts him in a position — he maintains — to offer a more attractive product to the buyer than do his competitors.

WINTERS HOLDS TALKS TO LEARN WHEAT ROLE

WINTERS
. . . new job

WINNIPEG (CP) — Trade Minister Winters arrived in Winnipeg today for talks with the Canadian Wheat Board, the Board of Grain Commissioners and senior officials of grain-hauling firms.

This is Mr. Winters' first official meeting with grain officials since he assumed his role as minister responsible for the wheat board.

At the airport, he described his visit as "primarily a familiarization trip."

"We will be discussing some specific problems, one of which will be the size of initial wheat payments," he said.

MARKET SUMMARY

Profit Bid Cuts Prices

Profit-taking cut into western oil prices in Toronto today while Wall Street was down in moderately active trading.

AT VANCOUVER last week's high flyers were big losers in active trading shortly before noon today.

Highmont, which went over $2 at one time last week, slipped .16 today to $1.81 on 23,850 shares. T. C. Exploration was also a big loser on the mining board, dropping .14 to .30. Brenda was off .30 to $8.05 and Madrona dropped .11 to $1.59.

Dynasty moved up .55 to $7.80 and Atlas climbed .45 to $2.65.

Royal Canadian Ventures led the oils, gaining .04 to .57.

Most industrials ended up in the loss column. North West Life was off .25 to $8.75, Pacific Western was off .25 to $7.50 and Scott Paper hit a new low, also losing .25 to $15.

Volume to 11 a.m. was 478,455 shares.

AT TORONTO Canadian Superior declined 1⅝ to 25⅞, Dome ¾ to 28½, Scurry Rainbow ⅜ to 18¾ and Banff ¼ to 14½.

Industrials were weaker as Texaco retreated 1 to 64, Ford of Canada 1⅞ to 124⅛ and Alcan ⅜ to 28¾.

Analysts say there has been some caution in buying because of President Johnson's surgery due for Wednesday. And as a result volume remained light with only 1,735,000 shares being traded by 2 p.m.

Banks recovered some of last week's losses as Montreal added ¾ at 54, Nova Scotia ½ at 61½ and Royal ⅜ at 67⅛.

Noranda gained ⅜ to 48⅞ in base metals.

AT NEW YORK key stocks lost from fractions to a point or so while some of the higher-priced glamor issues were down several points.

Gulf and Western lost 1 at 30 on a block of 35,800 shares and looked like the day's volume leader.

Profits were taken on that stock and many others as the market entered a period of caution. Some selling apparently was made to realize gains made in last week's advance, while other weakness was attributed to caution in advance of President Johnson's surgery.

Down 4 or 5 points were such stocks as IBM, Polaroid and Corning Glass. Fairchild Camera dropped 3, Columbia Pictures about 3, Xerox, Zenith and International Minerals 2 or more.

Dome Mines gained 1 in Canadians. Hudson Bay Mining and Distillers Seagrams gained ¼ and Canadian Pacific ⅛. Alcan lost ¼ and Massey and Walker Gooderham were down ⅛.

AT MONTREAL banks rallied to higher levels while the other major groups remained fractionally higher near 2 p.m. today.

Bank of Montreal added 1½ points at 54 and Canadian Imperial Commerce and Nova Scotia each firmed ⅝ at 58¾ and 61½ respectively.

Canada Cement and Noranda Mines each won ½ at 35 and 49. Calgary Power was up ½ at 21 and Inco ⅝ at 87.

Among the losers were Massey-Ferguson, off ⅜ at 21¾, and Cominco and Distillers-Seagrams, each off ¼ at 33¼ and 33¾ respectively. Among the speculative mines and oils on the Canadian Stock Exchange, Fidelity Mining Investments was up 4 cents at 74 cents. Industrial volume was 193,000 shares and mines and oils 255,000 shares.

AT LONDON renewed buying of gilts was the main feature on the stock market today. Gains ranged from 1-16 to ¼, led by medium-dated funds, where shortage of stock was a factor.

Dollar stocks were mixed. Canadians moved irregularly around one point. International Nickel was up ½ after an initial gain had been trimmed.

In banks, Canadian Imperial and Bank of Montreal were firmer, while Royal Bank of Canada was dull.

Power Link-Up To Be Tested

WASHINGTON (AP) — Atlantic-to-Pacific linkup of Canadian and United States power systems will be tested early next year, the United States interior department announced Saturday night.

A total of 209 major public and private power systems will be tied together with a capaciy of nearly 245,000,000 kilowatts and 265,000 miles of main transmission lines.

It will form the largest interconnected power system grid the world has ever known, the department said, linking 40 per cent of the world's total capacity.

The announcement made no reference to lessons learned from the massive Ontario-U.S. northeast power blackout a year ago. But Udall and other U.S. government officials have said repeatedly that need for proper and strong enough inter-connection of individual power systems was demonstrated.

A spokesman said those in charge of the test are fully aware of concern that such a linkup of power might bring chain-reaction blackouts if trouble develops.

TAKEN INTO ACCOUNT

But he said knowledge gained from the blackout of Nov. 9 last year is being used and taken into account, and "that is one reason why we're approaching this step by step."

Behavior of the coast-to-coast grid cannot be known until a final closure has been made, it was explained.

If serious difficulties develop, the ties will be reopened while the problems are resolved, prior to the inter-connection going on a full operational basis.

Arrangements for the test closure are being made under the supervision of a special task force of electrical engineers appointed by the western operations subcommittee on the North American power sysems inter-connections committee.

The committee, composed of representatives of the several pooled power systems of U.S. and Canada, said that when the inter-connection is completed, almost the entire Unied States plus major systems in Eastern and Western Canada will become a single operating unit, electrically interlocked in time and frequency control.

Daily Paper Purchased In Quebec

SHERBROOKE, Que. (CP) — Sale of the daily newspaper La Tribune was announced Saturday by its publisher, Senator Paul Desruisseaux.

The purchasers are the Corporation de Valeurs Trans-Canada, Montreal investment firm, and the Societe Generale de Publication whose properties include the large Montreal Sunday newspaper, Dimanche-Matin. The sale price was not disclosed.

The front-page announcement in La Tribune, which serves the Quebec Eastern Townships district around Sherbrooke, said that the Trans-Canada corporation, whose president, Paul-G. Desmarais, is an important figure in Montreal financial circles, acquires the controlling interest in the newspaper.

The Society Generale de Publication, whose president and outright owner is Jacques Francoeur, will be the minority shareholder. Aside from Dimanche-Matin, whose net paid circulation last June 30 was reported at 232,300, Mr. Francoeur's publishing company puts out 12 other newspapers with a circulation of 200,000. Its interest in La Tribune, whose circulation is 40,000, is its first in a daily paper.

The transaction announced Saturday does not involve a television station and two radio stations at Sherbrooke which were under the same ownership as La Tribune.

In September, an agreement in principle had been reached providing for the purchase of the Sherbrooke newspaper and broadcasting properties by Power Corporation, another Montreal investment firm, which had formed a subsidiary, Quebec Tele-Media, to operate them.

Commission Wants To Protect Halibut

VANCOUVER (CP) — After a week of closed sessions, the International North Pacific Fisheries Commission has ended its 1966 meeting.

In a closing statement Friday, the commission says it will recommend a number of regulations concerning halibut, groundfish and king crab fishing.

Among them is a recommendation that an extensive area in the southeastern Bering Sea which is a nursery ground for young halibut be closed to fishing completely.

Canadian and U.S. representatives on the commission stated their governments intend to require fishermen to release all halibut taken by trawl nets in any part of the Bering Sea.

Delegates from Japan, the other member nation, announced the intention of their government to apply a minimum size limit of 66 centimetres (26 inches) for halibut to operations thoughout the Bering Sea.

The commission approved a number of recommendations by its Gulf of Alaska groundfish committee for further research into the number of halibut found in groundfish catches.

Also recommended was research on the king crab resources in the eastern Bering Sea.

Kenjiro Nishimura of Japan was elected chairman for the coming year. Edward Allen of the U.S. was named vice-chairman and Dr. A. W. H. Needler of Canada was named secretary.

Next meeting of the commission will open Nov. 6, 1967, in Tokyo.

Tight Cash Snarls Building

NEW YORK (AP) — Construction of new houses across the United States is off sharply this year as interst rates climb.

"Many families are having trouble borrowing money to buy new homes. Home building has all but been shattered by tight money," said Burton E. Smith, president of the California Real Estate Association.

"I have never seen it so tight, so bad. If and when building starts up again, it will take the builders two years to catch up with the demand."

"Money just plain isn't available," said Norman McIntosh, senior mortgage and loan officer at the Provident Institution for Savings in Boston. "I'm just sitting there twiddling my thumbs."

An Associated Press survey of major cities found:

Housing starts in southern California this year have been the lowest since 1944.

In Dallas, they are the lowest in six years, with apartment construction down 39 per cent and houses 17 per cent.

In Minneapolis, sales of houses have been down and rentals up.

In Seattle, new housing construction has been down, but sales are up 30 per cent from 1965 in the midst of an economic boom.

In Chicago, George Arquilla Jr., Burnside Construction Co. president, said tight money had hurt most of the builders and put some out of business.

FEDERAL RATE UP

In Kansas City, Mo., Dale Thompson, president of City Bond and Mortgage, estimated the decline in new starts at 25 to 30 per cent. The flow of mortgage money for one-family houses has slowed to a trickle, Kansas City builders reported.

The builders blame tight money — the difficulty they have in obtaining loans to finance construction of houses and the problems families have in obtaining mortgages to buy the houses.

SHOPLIFTING INCREASES

Theft Morals Declining

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Wherever there's a profit to be made at business, the businessman usually has at least one trusted soul assigned to be sure the wrong people don't make it.

These observers are everywhere: the fashionable department store, the local bank, industries large and small, the gambling palaces of Nevada.

Their business is "security." Sometimes they're a friend, or member of the family, assigned to roam the premises in casual clothes. But more often, they're professionals, security guards whose job is keeping an eye on the public.

These public eyes, uniformed and plainclothes guardians of individual economies, number in the millions, says Raymond C. Farber, publisher of Security World, a magazine mailed to thousands of security workers. And, says Farber, it's a good thing there are so many of them.

"Seven per cent of business failures are directly attributable to crime in business," he said. "There's a degeneration of morals going on, an erosion. There's evidence that crime is growing more rapidly than the population.

"We apprehend ministers, doctors, lawyers — it cuts through the social strata," Farber said of shoplifters. "Sometimes whole families work together.

"We found one family who were using their children. They stole small appliances and gourmet groceries and sold them in their apartment. Finally, two security officers knocked on their door. They bought something and the man rang it up on a cash register. 'I am not going to fool around with the state of California,' the man told them. 'We've got to pay the sales tax.'"

Theft from business, whether it is shoplifting or embezzlement, is a billion-dollar business in itself, Farber estimates.

Needy Nations To Get Bargain

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — President Johnson signed a bill Saturday authorizing sale of U.S. agricultural commodities to needy nations at bargain prices. But he warned the potential recipient nations that they must demonstrate a willingness to help themselves.

In a statement announcing the signing of the Food for Peace bill, Johnson said, "We must be certain that our food for freedom grants are consistent with our program to encourage the sound and rapid expansion of food production in the receiving countries.

"Food for freedom grants will be given only where the country receiving the grant demonstrates its own willingness to help win its own war on hunger."

Passed by Congress in the closing hours of the session, the bill authorizes sales of surplus or available U.S. agricultural commodities to the extent of $1,900,000,000 a year for the fiscal years 1967 and 1968. Most of the countries would make payment in their own currencies, and custom has provided that most of this be turned back to them for special use.

The bill also permits the president to donate up to $600,000,000 each year in surplus food to meet famine or other emergency requirements.

Included in the measure was a provision, opposed by the administration, prohibiting sales to nations — except India and Morocco — which conduct trade with Cuba or North Viet Nam.

FROM PLASTICS

New Paper Developed In Japan

TOKYO (AP) — A revolutionary paper, made from plastics, has been perfected by a leading Japanese paper manufacturing firm.

The Nippon Kokan Seishi Co. has announced that it has applied for patents for its new paper in 21 countries, including the United States and Europe, and plans to mass produce it before January next.

The paper claims several advantages:

- It may be obtained from any synthetic resins — the company will use polystyrol and polyvinyl chloride in the beginning — dispensing with high-priced pulpwood.
- Production equipment for the new paper is simple compared with conventional paper mills and does not require much water.
- There is practically no limit to the maximum and minimum thickness unlike conventional paper.
- It neither expands nor shrinks and is suited to any kind of printing, especially multi-colored printing.

The company believes that the price can be brought down to competitive level by new volume production methods.

ROUGH REF

Getting kick out of his job—or so it seems—was this official in thick of Eastern Football Conference playoff action Sunday. It appears he drop-kicked Hamilton's Garney Henley in the you-know-where. Actually, the Tiger-Cat back had just thrown block at Ottawa player in game Rough Riders won 30-1.

For Riders, Both Rough, It All Went Smoothly . . .

Keys' Emphasis On Defence Key For Reginans

REGINA (CP)—Coach Eagle Keys, of Saskatchewan Roughriders, strengthened his defence Sunday and the defenders showed their gratitude in a 14-7 triumph over the Winnipeg Blue Bombers.

Directed by tackle Ed McQuarters and defensive back Bob Kosid, the defenders set up all the Roughrider points and opened a 1-0 lead in the best-of-three Western Football Conference final.

The Roughriders maintained superior field position throughout the first quarter and emerged with an 11-0 lead. An interception by Kosid late in the half led to three additional points and the defence repulsed every Winnipeg threat but one after that.

Keys elected to use linebacker Wally Dempsey rather than speedy back Ed Buchanan because the hard field placed an emphasis on defence.

Gord Barwell satisfied 14,031 fans by scoring the only Saskatchewan touchdown on an 11-yard pass from Ron Lancaster. Jack Abendschan completed the scoring with two field goals, a convert and a single.

SCORES ONLY TD

Winnipeg's only touchdown came in the fourth quarter when Billy Cooper completed a 57-yard touchdown on a pass from Kenny Ploen.

Before and after the touchdown, McQuarters led a rugged defence against Winnipeg running. Kosid spearheaded the pass defence with the only two interceptions of the game.

Kosid's first interception, when he wrestled the ball from Cooper in the end zone, probably was the biggest play of the game. Midway through the second quarter, Ploen attempted two long passes in a row. Ken Nielson dropped the first after beating Ted Dushinski on the Saskatchewan five and Kosid stepped in front of Cooper to intercept on the next play.

Winnipeg coach Bud Grant, said before the game he feared the Saskatchewan offence, praised the defenders in the dressing room after the game.

"Kosid made a great play," he said, hinting the officials might have ruled a simultaneous catch and awarded the touchdown.

"Cooper had the ball, too, but Kosid wrestled it away before they reached the ground. If they had reached the ground, it would have been a touchdown.

Kosid felt he had caught the ball first. "It was short and I went under it. I think Cooper would agree with me."

KICKS FIELD GOAL

Just before the half, Ploen aimed deep for Nielson and Kosid returned from his own territory to the Winnipeg 45. Lancaster hit Worden at the 26 and Abendschan kicked a 32-yard field goal with four seconds remaining.

Abendschan's first field goal travelled 38 yards. He earned his single on a boot from the 46.

A near-brawl broke out in the final minute and referee Paul Dojack banished Saskatchewan guard Al Benecick for slugging as players milled in front of the Winnipeg bench.

The outbreak had been brewing most of the afternoon as tempers rose despite 10-degree temperatures. The officials assessed 24 penalties, 14 against Saskatchewan.

The Roughriders were penalized 124 yards, 50 more than Winnipeg. Long Lancaster passes to Worden and Hugh Campbell were nullified by Roughrider penalties for offside and illegal procedure.

COMPLETES EIGHT

Lancaster completed eight of 14 passes for 119 yards, matching the Saskatchewan rushing yardage. Ploen hit on 11 of 25 tosses for 174 yards but Winnipeg managed only 43 yards rushing. Winnipeg had 14 first downs, two more than the winners.

The series resumes in Winnipeg Wednesday with a game to be televised on the CTV national network at 8:30 p.m. CST.

Sazio Praises Prodigal Russ —'Near Perfect'

HAMILTON (CP)—Russ Jackson showed up in his home town Sunday.

Despite what the Bible says, he won honor in his own country, even if no fatted calves bit the dust at the return of the prodigal.

Jackson, born in Hamilton and a student at McMaster University, has had a slightly tarnished image in his home town since he went to work at quarterback for Ottawa Rough Riders nine years ago.

But even the coach of Hamilton Tiger-Cats, Ralph Sazio, had kind words for him after the Rough Riders defeated Ticats 30-1 Sunday in the first game of the two-game total-point Eastern Football Conference final.

"He called almost a perfect game," said Sazio. "It's as close to perfection as you'll see. I haven't seen anything like it since Bernie Faloney in that 45-0 game in 1963.

"I never saw him play so well anywhere.

HE'S PERFECT

"He mixed his plays perfectly and it kept us well off balance. There was nothing we could do to stop him. . . . He was threading the ball right through our linemen."

Jackson may not be a prophet, but nobody will say he's a quarterback without honor in his own country.

The 29-point deficit, going into the second game in Montreal next Saturday, has prompted Sazio to admit things are "a lot tougher" than before the Ticats 26-8 second-game comeback in 1964 that gave them the championship by a 39-38 edge.

Ottawa got touchdowns from Bo Scott, Jim Dillard and Ted Watkins. Moe Racine, EFC scoring champion, picked up two field goals, three singles and three converts.

Joe Zuger kicked a single in the fourth quarter for Hamilton's only point.

OUTRUSH TICATS

Ottawa picked up 24 first downs to Hamilton's six and outrushed the Tiger-Cats 167 yards to 32. Jackson completed 21 of 29 passes for 309 yards, while Ron Stewart passed once for six yards.

Hamilton quarterbacks Joe Zuger, who was injured but returned to action later, and Frank Cosentino completed eight of 20 passes for 108 yards.

Ottawa intercepted twice and even outkicked Hamilton.

Ottawa came out running and Bob O'Billovich got his hands on Zuger's first pass attempt. The interception led to Racine's field goal at 13:07 for the only score of the first quarter.

The game rolled to a fight-filled close with Bobby Kuntz and Bob Steiner of Hamilton and Bob Brown and Doug Specht of Ottawa being ejected.

Defensive halfback Garney Henley of Hamilton pulled a hamstring muscle during the game and is listed as a doubtful starter for Saturday's second game at 2 p.m. EST in Expo 67 Stadium at Montreal.

ZUGER KNOCKED OUT

Zuger, who was knocked unconscious, is expected to play Saturday.

Middle linebacker Ken Lehmann suffered an injured ankle in the third period and went to the showers. He is expected to play Saturday.

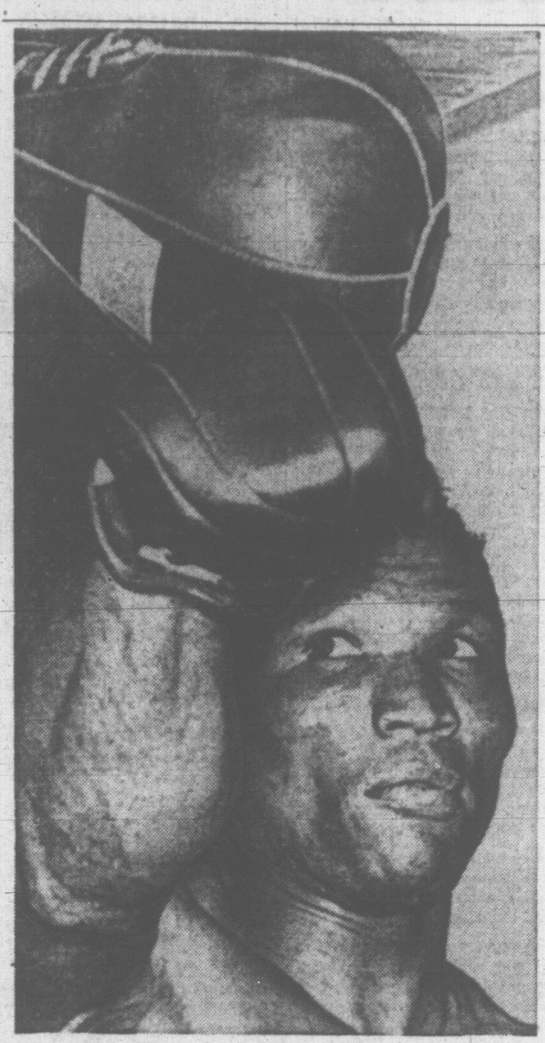
Jackson's rout of the Ticats Sunday leaves even the comeback-happy Hamilton squad with an almost insurmountable task to perform.

Toronto won the first game of the finals 25-7 in 1961, but the deficit was 11 points less than it is this season. Hamilton came back to tie the series 27-27 in regulation time and scored four unconverted touchdowns in overtime to win the title 55-27.

Jackson, a member of the 1957 McMaster University football team that won the Canadian Intercollegiate championship, joined the Riders in 1958 as their top college draft choice.

When asked if it had been his greatest day in Hamilton, Jackson said:

"It was certainly my most rewarding. So I guess that means the best."



Cat Shows His Claws

First Punch Could Do It

HOUSTON (AP)—"I'm not making any predictions but the first one to get in a good punch is going to be the winner," says Cleveland Williams.

"I want to be the first one."

The ring-scarred veteran of 33 today awaited the starting bell of his long-sought title shot with heavyweight champion Cassius Clay, the 5-1 favorite in the Astrodome tonight. Fight time is 7:30 p.m. PST, for the 15-rounder.

Williams, a strapping, muscular specimen who once rated as the hardest hitter in the heavyweight division, shapes up as the most dangerous of five challengers Clay has met.

"I'm gonna get the Big Cat just like I got the Bear (Sonny Liston) and the Hare (Floyd Patterson)," said the undefeated, 24-year-old champion from Louisville, Ky. "But I gotta admit Williams is my most dangerous opponent. He can hit hard.

"I can't take chances with him like I could with Karl Mildenberger, Henry Cooper or Brian London and those guys who couldn't hit much."

WILL MEET WINNER

Ernie Terrell, the World Boxing Association's heavyweight champion, says he has agreements to meet the winner within 90 days.

A crowd of 35,000 or more is expected to pay around $500,000 at prices of from $5 to $50 to see the Big Cat get his first chance at boxing's most prized crown.

SPOILING SEALS SLAPPED 7-2 SUNDAY

They Say Travel Is Broadening So Our Leafs Get Fat on Road

Special to The Times

OAKLAND—One of the surest signs of hockey champions is the ability to win away from home and at that rate, Victoria Maple Leafs look like good bets to retain their Western Hockey League playoff crown.

Always a club that thrives on hard work, the Leafs completed a busy, five-game week on the road Sunday night at Oakland by thumping the Seals 7-2 to run their season's record to three wins, two ties and one defeat in six games on the road.

The lone loss arrived Saturday night in the swanky new Oaklnad Arena when the Victorians dropped a 2-1 decision and promptly acquired a double thirst for revenge.

For one thing, Saturday's loss was Victoria's first road defeat of the campaign. Hurting the Leafs even more was the fact the Seals had taken some of the sparkle off Andy Hebenton's big night.

They got their revenge in no uncertain manner Sunday with their lop-sided victory and in the process they slipped past the Seals into second place.

Between the first and second periods Saturday, the Seals were models of co-operation as they held a ceremony to mark the greatest durability record in professional sports history.

They honored Hebenton at centre ice in the ceremony which marked the Victoria winger's 1,000th consecutive game in pro hockey. With the 37-year-old veteran, whose remarkable string includes the National League record of 630 games without a miss, was his wife, Gael, flown to Oakland as a guest of the Oakland club

Victorians are planning an even bigger "night" for the popular Hebenton. It will be held at Memorial Arena Nov. 30.

Canucks Come to Town Wednesday

Hebenton and the Leafs weren't at their best for the Saturday tussle after starting their road trip with a tie at Portland and two victories at Los Angeles. They were out-hustled most of the way by the Seals, who broke up most Victoria attacks with aggressive checking.

Oakland broke a scoreless deadlock midway in the second period on Gerry Odrowski's goal and Bruce Carmichael pulled the Leafs even just 69 seconds later.

Then Tom Thurlby broke in to fire the winner for the Seals late in the period and the Leafs were on the defensive through the last session as the Oakland snipers fired 13 unsuccessful shots at rookie goalie Al Smith.

Leafs were also outshot (35-23) in Sunday's game but they put on their best accuracy display of the season to humiliate the Seals before 3,957 fans.

Making the Victoria triumph even sweeter was the fact that Oakland took a 2-0 lead on goals by Charlie Burns and Wayne Maxner before the Leafs got their big guns on target.

Rookie Neil Clark and Hebenton evened the score before the period ended and Rollie Wilcox boosted Victoria in front with the only goal of the second stanza.

In the final period, the Leafs rammed four of eight shots behind Oakland goalie Jack McCartan, with Lou Jankowski, Gordie Redahl, Carmichael and Milan Marcetta doing the honors.

Leafs make their next start Wednesday night at Memorial Arena against Vancouver.

Late Fires Singe Portland Rivals

Because they have acquired the knack of lighting late fires, the Western Hockey League beacon still burns brightest in Portland's window.

Hal Laycoe's Buckaroos scored 12 goals in padding their first-place margin to six points with a pair of weekend victories. Eight of the 12 goals were scored in third-period explosions.

Bucks rammed home three in the final period Saturday to burn San Diego Gulls, 4-2. They banged five in the windup session Sunday to coast to an 8-2 victory over Seattle Totems

In another weekend game, Totems dominated play all the way in defeating Los Angeles Blades 5-2 at Seattle on Saturday.

Defenceman Connie Madigan scored two goals for the Bucks Saturday, including the clincher into an open net with 16 seconds remaining. Art Jones led the way Sunday with a four-point spree.

Juniors Slosh To 0-0 Draw With Burnaby

BURNABY — Goaltender Jerry Lister is back slapping the whitewash brush.

He scored his fifth shutout in seven games Sunday as Victoria sloshed to a scoreless draw with Burnaby Villa in a rain-soaked Pacific Coast Junior Soccer League battle.

Conditions made good soccer out of the question, but the draw preserved Victoria's undefeated record. Doug Day's juniors have won five, tied two of their seven matches.

HABS CLIPPED TWICE . . . . . . GEOFFRION SHOWS OLD FORM

Muscle, Hustle Help Rangers to Third

There was a time when the National Hockey League big guns licked their chops when they met New York Rangers. Now they lick their wounds.

The Rangers, showing hustle and muscle they sorely lacked last season when they finished in last place, used last season's two Stanley Cup finalists during the weekend as stepping stones to third place.

Saturday night it was a 6-3 win over Montreal Canadiens at the Montreal Forum, a rink where the Rangers last won a game in January, 1965. Sunday night it was a 5-2 victory over Detroit Red Wings in New York.

In other weekend NHL action, Toronto Maple Leafs and Detroit Red Wings fought to a 3-3 tie Saturday night.

In Sunday's other games, Ted Green's unassisted goal late in the third period gave Boston Bruins a 2-1 win over Montreal. Ron Murphy scored the other Boston goal while Montreal's came from Henri Richard.

Chicago Black Hawks buried Toronto with four goals in the second period and beat the Leafs 6-1. Bobby Hull, Ed Van Impe and Kenny Wharram scored two goals apiece for the Hawks and Dave Keon scored for Toronto.

Bernie Geoffrion, a New York Ranger who rose to fame with Montreal, restored his claim to the nickname "Boom Boom" by having a hand in more goals during the weekend than all his old team-mates combined.

Geoffrion, attempting a comeback after a two-year absence from the NHL to coach Quebec Aces of the American Hockey League, had one goal and three assists against Montreal Saturday and added three assists against Detroit Sunday.

His seven-point weekend put him among the league's top 10 scorers with 11 points.

Rod Gilbert, with two goals, Don Marshall, Billy Hicke and defenceman Harry Howell scored the other New York goals Saturday. Yvan Cournoyer scored two power-play goals and Claude Larose the other for Montreal.

Earl Ingarfield and Red Fleming scored two goals each Sunday to lead the Rangers to their win over the Red Wings. Gilbert scored the other. Bruce MacGregor and Dean Prentice were the Detroit marksmen

Fleming flexed his muscles in both games. Saturday, he collided with Montreal defenceman Jean-Claude Tremblay and Tremblay went to hospital with an eight-stitch cut on the back of the head. Less than 30 seconds later he lost to Terry Harper of Montreal in a brawl in front of the Canadiens bench, but in the second period he battered Dick Duff to the ice with a series of punches. He took 20 minutes in penalties in the game.

Fleming assumed his policeman's duties again Sunday night when the game was delayed about 17 minutes in the second period by a brawl. He threw punches at every Detroit player who came within range while Detroit's Bob McCord and Jim Neilson of New York squared off. Both McCord and Neilson were ejected from the game.

Macs May Act Louder When 'Talkers' Return

By ERNIE FEDORUK

They split their Intercity Basketball League fare with Alberni, and Victoria Coffee Macs feel quite perky about it all.

Macs feel they'll do better when their "talkers" come back to contribute points and pepper.

The Victoria team pulled the sheets off a new season Saturday night by defeating Alberni 74-65 at Central Junior High. The split came Sunday. Athletics won, 67-56, at the University of Victoria gym.

Victory was a particularly delightful thing, and there was no shame in losing. In both games, the issue was decided by scoring bursts in the final minutes.

EARLY SHOWER

Macs won and lost without Ron Bowker.

They lost Sunday after Skip Ward fouled out for an early shower.

These are the two players who could play significant roles in the club's future. They're the "talkers" of the team. And both have no trouble scoring in double figures.

Bowker, a mainstay of the junior Chinooks for the past two seasons, missed both games because of a wedding in Calgary. His brother's.

FLOOR GENERAL

So it was up to Ward to emphasize the importance of the "talkers." He was the general on the floor Saturday night. Ward virtually controlled the Victoria team with his chatter and playmaking.

That he also managed 11 points is incidental.

He started out in much the same manner Sunday but fouled out with about 16 minutes left in the game. The Macs managed to get to within five points of Alberni, with less than two minutes to play, but then Athletics put it out of reach with the help of Larry Lehtonen.

Larry scored two quick baskets to propel Alberni nine points ahead, and the rest was easy.

Lehtonen was brilliant Sunday with 28 points.

PACED ATTACK

Playing-coach Darrell Lorimer and rookie John Lauvaas shouldered the brunt of Victoria's attack. Lorimer tossed in 40 points during the weekend, including 23 Saturday night. Lauvaas popped 34.

Neil Dirom, with 20, was Alberni's best Saturday night. When he and Don Krego fouled out in the dying minutes of Saturday's game, the Macs had no great difficulty in finishing with a spurt.

Both games were, for most of the part, pleasing and interesting. As the scoring indicates, there wasn't much difference.

Throughout the past week, Loriner has insisted his charges are capable of beating Alberni.

The Macs made the point for Lorimer on Saturday.

When those "talkers" get around to full-time duty, the Macs should be even tougher.

SATURDAY

ALBERNI— (65) — Colin McPherson 10, Larry Lehtonen 9, Barry Sadler, Marv Johnson 12, Raynor Devries 1, Don Krego 13, Neil Dirom 20, Bill Pitcher.

Table Tennis Duo Invited to Trials

Victoria's two top table tennis players, Nancy Craig and Valerie McIvor, have been invited to participate in B.C. team trials at Vancouver on Nov. 19.

Mrs. Craig is a former Western Canada champion while Mrs. McIvor, along with Vancouver's Larry Lee, is the defending mixed doubles champion.

The trials will select a provincial team to represent B.C. in the First Canadian Winter Games at Quebec City.

SWANTON SCORES 27 POINTS

Chinooks Belted Twice

VANCOUVER — Victoria Chinooks rebounded from their poorest performance of the season with one of the best, but they still struck out in two Intercity Junior Men's Basketball League battles at the weekend.

Vancouver YMCA chilled coach Moe Turner's Chinooks 55-34 Saturday. North Shore Mountaineers did the honors Sunday, 76-71.

Turner would just as soon forget the Saturday game, but he wouldn't mind a repeat of Sunday's performance.

Superior height and a tough zone defence tripped up Chinooks Saturday. Forced to shoot from outside against the Y, Chinooks were never in the game. Principally because their shooting was ranged from poor to terrible.

It was a different story Sunday. Chinooks, sparked by Ross Swanton's great shooting, turned in their best offensive display of the season. Unfortunately for Chinooks, the Mountaineers were a trifle better.

Swanton scored 27 points.

It was a nip-and-tuck affair for three quarters. Chinooks trailed by a point, 32-31, at the half but were ahead 48-40 with about eight minutes left.

A devastating fourth-quarter outburst by North Shore sunk Victoria.

Chinooks have one consoling thought after scoring only one victory in six starts — they play five of their next six at home, starting with next Saturday's match with CYO.

NORTH SHORE (76)—Bob Lidgate 2, Mike Dowty 11, Dave Cox 13, Bob Proctor 4, John Hart 17, Ken Kabush 17, Brock Tully 7, Steve Woods 2, Warren Cline 3.

Nothing Changed Except the Score

TORONTO (CP) — Nothing was changed except the score for East York Argonauts Saturday.

The powerful Argos battled their way into a third consecutive Canadian senior football final by trouncing Shearwater Navy of Halifax 54-0 before 1,100 fans — the Argos largest home crowd of the season.

It was the 40th victory in 41 games during the last three years for the Argos.

Kingston Goalkeeper Had Nats Scrambling

Times News Services

Canada's National hockey team ran into some torrid goalkeeping in Ontario on the weekend but managed to run their record to 13 wins in 14 games.

Kingston Aces were 95 seconds away from holding the Nationals to a 3-3 tie Saturday when Ray Cadieux popped the puck past Tom Mercer to resolve the debate.

Getting anything past Mercer proved to be difficult. The Nationals flung 36 pucks at him; Canada's Ken Broderick saw only 21.

Nationals moved into Morrisburg, Ont., Sunday and found no Mercer. They turned back the Combines 7-3.

Marshall Johnston led Canada with two goals and three assists. Morris Mott scored two goals and Jean Cusson, Fran Huck and Roger Bourbonnais one each.

Against Kingston, Cadieux' winner was preceded by a pair from Cusson and a single by Mott.

RACING ROUNDUP

Successor Scores Easily

(Times News Services)

Successor fairly flew through the sloppy home stretch at Garden State Park in New Jersy Saturday to win the $314,125 Garden State Stakes, practically wrapping up the 1966 title for two-year-old horses.

Off to a slow start from the rail position and forced to race wide down the backstretch, the son of Bold Ruler from Mrs. H. C. Phipps' Wheatley Stable caught the pace-settting Bold Hour inside the one-eighth pole and scored going away by three lengths.

Bold Hour, carrying the silks of George D. Widener, was second, six lengths in front of Proviso from Max Gluck's Elmdorf Farm.

In chalking up the 40th stakes triumph of the year for trainer Eddie Neloy, Successor earned $188,475 and ran his total earnings to $441,404.

Successor, ridden by Braulio Baeza, was clocked in 1:44 1-5 for the 1 1-16 miles.

In New York, Mr. Right, at home in the sloppy going, made most of the pace and won the 18th running of the $59,000 Roamer Handicap at Aqueduct.

The three-year-old, handled by Bob Ussery, stepped the 1 3-16 miles in 1:57 1-5 and won by 2½ lenghts over Ethel D. Jacobs' Understanding, who finished 3½ lenghts ahead of Ada L. Rice's Advocator.

At Toronto, Titled Hero came from behind to win the $10,000 added Horometer Stakes at Greenwood race track to confirm his placing as the best three-year-old thoroughbred in Canada and bolster his chances of being named Canada's Horse of the Year for 1966.

The stakes victory brought Titled Hero's earnings this year to $109,024, the largest amount ever won by a horse in Canada. His winnings in two years now total $210,000.

Playoff Win Gives Knudson Top Prize

GEORGE KNUDSON
... individual king

TOKYO (CP-AP) — The International Trophy for individual honors in the Canada Cup golf tournament is on its way to Canada today for the first time in 12 years, thanks to a sudden-death playoff victory by George Knudson, of Toronto.

Meanwhile, Jack Nicklaus and Arnold Palmer headed back to the United States with the Canada Cup, emblematic of the team championship.

Knudson, a 29-year-old Winnipeg native and Canada's biggest pro golf winner in 1965, finished the 72 holes Sunday tied with Japan's Hideyo Sugimoto, at 272, tying the individual record set by Sam Snead in Puerto Rico in 1961.

Knudson then defeated the Japanese star on the second hole of a sudden-death playoff, sinking a seven-foot putt for a birdie two. He had a 74 Sunday. Sugimoto shot a 69.

In 1965, Knudson set a season record for a Canadian pro by winning more than $47,000.

Knudson's victory here was the first for Canada since Stan Leonard of Vancouver captured the international trophy in the infant years of the Canada Cup matches in 1954 and 1959.

BREAK OWN RECORD

The Nicklaus - Palmer team scored a combined total of 548 for 72 holes, 28 under par, breaking their own record of 554 established in Hawaii in 1964. They also won the team title in 1963.

Canada finished sixth in the team competition. Knudson and his partner, Frank Fowler, 34, of Calgary, had a total of 563.

Fowler, who placed third in the Canadian PGA this year, shot a 72 over the rain-drenched par-72 on Tokyo Yomiuri course Sunday and finished with a 291. He was far down in the individual race.

Knudson had won events at Coral Gables, Fla., Portland, Ore., and the Canadian PGA championship in 1964, but never one of Canada Cup stature. His win in Tokyo was worth $1,000.

DREW EVEN ONCE

Nicklaus had a 69 for 273 and at one stage was even with Knudson. Palmer, four strokes back of the Canadian starting out, had 72 for 275.

Knudson, who had a record 64 the first day, then 68-66, was asked why he scored badly. He replied: "I played poorly."

Knudson had led the individual competition from the start. His 64, both a cup and course record, later was equalled by Bob Charles, the New Zealand left-hander.

Gary Player of South Africa, the 1965 winner, shot a final 68 for 277. His teammate, Harold Henning, had a 70 for 276. The two, who won the team title last year, were second this time at 553. Nationalist China, 554, and Australia, 556, followed.

Soccer Leaders Bunched

Hourigan Kickers and Luckies helped pull the strings Sunday that tightened the First Division standings in the Victoria District Soccer League.

Kickers kicked hardest. Otto Ossege scored twice and Bill Cameron once as Kickers toppled previously-unbeaten Tallyho 3-0.

Veteran Ced Robb and Alan Wyatt counted the goals that gave Luckies a 2-1 decision over Red Lions. Ron Armstrong hit for Lions' only goal.

SCOTTISH TIED

In another Sunday game, the University of Victoria Vikings missed another chance to tighten the standings even more. Ahead 3-1 at the half, Vikings battled to a 3-3 draw with first-place Canadian Scottish.

Franz Doesburg (2) and Jack Breucker scored for Scots while Oscar Valdal (2) and Greg Pearson replied for Wally Milligan's Vikings.

Only three points now separate the top six clubs.

In Saturday play, Navy and Gorge continued to share the basement by playing to a 6-6 deadlock. Navy trailed 6-4 with only about six minutes left, but salvaged their point on goals by Doug Baxter (on a penalty) and Stan Udihuri.

Denis Somner scored three times for the Gorge.

NORTH SHORE UPSET

Wright's Boys Help O'Keefes

VANCOUVER — New Westminster Royals upset North Shore 3-2 in a Pacific Coast Soccer League match at Callister Park Saturday, and the victory was doubly sweet for coach George Wright.

A one-time Victoria player, Wright saw his charges keep the first-place North Shore within "grabbing distance" of other teams. Notably, Victoria O'Keefes.

A late goal by right-wing Erroll Crossan ended North Shore's winning streak at six. The Shores, however, still remain two points ahead of Victoria and UBC Thunderbirds.

Shores led 2-1 at the half on two goals by Don Hunter. Metro Gerela and Jack James scored Westminster's other goals.

In Sunday's only game, Columbus moved into fourth place by clipping last-place St. Andrews 4-1.

Inside Peter Simpson scored twice for Columbus with Sergio Zanatta and Bob Smith, on a penalty kick, getting the others. Fullback Ian Chesser counted St. Andrews' only goal in the dying moments of the game.

THREE OF A KIND—THE BEST

Outstanding efforts on behalf of Victoria Steelers brought individual honors to this trio at halftime of Steelers' final Pacific Football League game Saturday, Bob Coutts, left, was chosen oustanding Vancouver Island player; Bob Boyd (centre) Victoria, Texas, was chosen most valuable player, and, Lutz Keller, Calgary, won outstanding lineman award.

Southpaw Cypriot Sets Pro Grid Kicking Mark

By The Associated Press

The Washington Redskins missed upsetting the Dallas Cowboys by a foot—Danny Villaneuva's right one—and Detroit Lions get their kicks from Garo Yepremian.

In fact, National Football League Clubs really played footsy Sunday as 29 field goals were kicked, the most of any weekend this season.

Villaneuva kicked only one field goal, but it came with just 15 seconds remaining, gave the Cowboys a 31-30 victory and moved them to within one-half game of first place St. Louis Cardinals in the Eastern Conference.

Yepremian booted six field goals to set an NFL single-game record as the Lions nipped Minnesota Vikings 32-31. His eight attempts also tied a single game mark set by Baltimore Colts' Lou Michaels when he was with Pittsburgh Steelers.

Still another single game record—11 three-pointer tries by two teams—was set in Pittsburgh's 30-9 upset of St. Louis.

Pittsburgh's Mike Clark and Jim Bakken of the Cardinals each kicked three.

BALTIMORE WINS

In other games, Baltimore tied idle Green Bay Packers for first place in the West with a 19-7 victory over Atlanta Falcons, Cleveland Browns whipped Philadelphia Eagles 27-7 to move within a game of St. Louis, San Francisco '49ers tied Chicago Bears 30-30 and Los Angeles Rams snapped a four-game losing streak by trouncing New York Giants 55-14.

Dallas started the drive for Villanueva's winning 20-yard boot from their own three with only 59 seconds left. Villanueva also converted after four touchdowns—two of them by the passing combination of Don Meredith to Bob Hayes for 53 and 95 yards.

EXPECTS TO IMPROVE

"After a while, I think I'll be a good kicker," Yepremian said after breaking the old record of five field goals held by Ernie Nevers of the Duluth Eskimos, Bob Waterfield of Los Angeles, Bakken of St. Louis and Michaels of Baltimore.

The 22-year-old, left-footed, soccer style kicker from Cyprus had never seen a professional football until he suited up for the Lions' contest with Baltimore five weeks ago.

Yepremian — whose three-pointers travelled, 33, 26, 15, 20, 28 and 32 yards, also converted after the Lions three touchdowns. The last one followed a three-yard run by Bobby Felts and gave Detroit a 32-24 lead.

INTERCEPTS THREE

Pittsburgh took advantage of three interceptions off Terry Hofsinger to beat St. Louis. The Steelers' Clark kicked three goals and quarterback Don Hoak threw touchdown passes. Bakken kicked for all of St. Louis' points.

Baltimore's Michaels kept the Colts within one point, 7-6, in the first half with two field goals. Then after Lenny Moore put the Colts ahead on a one-yard run, Michaels added two more three-pointers.

BUFFALO HOLDS LEAD

In the American League, Buffalo Bills and Kansas City Chiefs maintained their leads in the eastern and western divisions, respectively.

Buffalo whipped New York Jets 14-3 to improve the Bills' record to six victories against three losses and one tie, and Kansas City coasted to a 34-16 victory over Miami Dolphins for an 8-2 record. Miami now is 2-7.

Boston Patriots downed Houston Oilers 27-21 to edge within a half-game of Buffalo with a 5-3-1 record.

Oakland Raiders defeated San Diego to jump over the Chargers into second place in the Western Division. Oakland now is 6-4, while San Diego is 5-4-1.

At Buffalo, the Bills scored two touchdowns in the fourth quarter, one of them on a 72-yard run with a blocked field goal attempt by 289-pound tackle Jim Dunaway.

JBAA Ticks Off Sixth Straight

James Bay Athletic Association is running through the Victoria Rugby Union's first division with throttle wide open.

JBAA reeled off its sixth straight victory Sunday by lacing University Vikings 25-0 at Macdonald Park.

Tom Bourne sparked JBAA with three tries while Norm Dixon added seven points on a try and two converts. Jim Ryan, Dave Hutchings and Don McNamee each counted one try.

It was a lost weekend all-round for the Vikings. They dropped an 11-9 decision to University of Washington Huskies in an exhibition meeting Saturday afternoon at the Uvic campus.

Steelers Eye 1967 After Great Finish

By HAL MALONE

Tyees who enter this area, noted for its fine anglers, do so at their own risk. Nineteen Tyees did Saturday and were caught, gaffed and pickled.

These Tyees, from Tacoma, learned another historical fact about Victoria. The capital city has a football team.

Victoria Steelers, the best thing going in the Pacific Football League, demolished the Tacomans 42-24. Some 1,500 witnessed the execution at Macdonald Park.

It wasn't a classic climax to a season that began nine weeks ago. Tyees, torn by internal strife and beset by injuries to 12 men, might have had trouble with a strong juvenile team.

But there was a great deal of satisfaction for Steelers, a team born on a muggy July night in a city hotel room. They had a franchise and an idea. Football players? Equipment? Prospects of winning a game? Don't be silly. Their outlook was 3 a.m. and snowing.

But Pat Frumento and Bill Clark are all shirt-sleeves-rolled-up and perspiration. They turned up athletes you never heard of and some who hadn't heard of themselves.

They brought in Peter Ohler, a calm, clear-eyed Vancouver College-B.C. Lions alumnus as head-coach-quarterback. Bob Boyd, a late inexplicable cut from the Lions, was induced to play offence-defence and tutor in the fine art of stopping the enemy.

From Calgary came Lutz Keller, Wayne Conrad, Jack Truran and Bob Stockall, husky young citizens with pro aspirations and a certain fondness for clanging heads.

Steeler Pegs Slid Into Right Holes

Finally three old Lions put down their knitting and joined Ohler's assassins to see as Ronnie Morris said "if we could help." Morris and Jerry Janes more than helped on offence; Gary Schwertfeger gave the defensive line 240 pounds of beef and experience.

The local talent abetted the cause in no uncertain terms. Jack Patrick, at 37, a geriatric marvel; Bob Coutts, Leo Kozak, Chuck Aldous and Jim Moody served with distinction.

Steelers might have been called the "Band-Aid Brigade" for six games; the lumps were heavy and frequent. But all the pegs began sliding into holes and the Steelers finished their freshman season as Ohler said "capable of whipping anybody in the league."

EVERYONE BUT MOTHER

Certainly Tacoma would not argue the point.

They were "in jail" 35-3 early in the fourth quarter before tasting touchdown territory. By this time Ohler had everybody but Mother Machree in the game. Three Steelers were out of it permanently; Barry Taylor and Stockall for violence beyond the call of duty; Joe Flood torn between cartilages in his right knee.

Steelers' offensive blocking and defensive aggressiveness were beyond Ohler's wildest dreams. His pass protection was such that not until the third quarter did he have a mud blemish on his white pants.

This factor, his great natural throwing ability (which the Lions used to hold the ball for place-kicker Peter Kempf) and the peerless receiving of Janes and Morris (5 for 95 yards and 12 for 163 respectively) allowed Ohler to complete 26 of 32 passes. That's an 81 per cent average, Clyde, and they don't come much higher. Ask Unitas or Starr.

Statistically, Major Lincoln fired across for two majors, Jim Pannell, Janes, Morris and Ohler for one each. Art Shannon kicked four converts and passed to Barry Taylor for a two-pointer.

PLAN FOR NEXT YEAR

Tyees avoided annihilation by getting two touchdowns from Jim McCuen, one from Jerry Thacker and a field goal, and two converts (kick and pass) from Dick Barnes.

Their best performer was small (five-nine, 180 pounds) hard-nosed halfback Bill Thomson. He picked up 100 yards on 12 gallops before being asked to leave for indelicately kicking a Steeler.

But his feats hardly equalled Steelers.

They travelled all the way from mile zero to fourth place. Tacoma (and Edmonds) may not be around next year but the Steelers will be.

"You better believe it," Frumento said.

CLOSE-LINES . . . The former Lion musketeers Morris, Janes and Schwertfeger "aren't sure" if they'll fly again in '67 . . . They showed enough class to indicate they could fly in '77 . . . Boyd took the most valuable player award, Keller the outstanding lineman trophy; and Coutts, the most valuable Island player hardware . . . If Ohler had kept his mainliners in all the way, Steelers would doubtless have passed the game scoring record of 48 points . . .

SEATTLE SQUAD UNBEATEN

(Times New Services)

Seattle Ramblers closed out their Pacific Football League season Sunday with a perfect record after blanking Edmonds Warriors 36-0.

The mighty Ramblers held Edmonds to a total offense of minus one yard in a game played in a steady, all-day rain at Edmonds.

At Portland, second-place Eugene Bombers killed Portland's hopes of a balanced record by thumping the Thunderbirds 26-9.

Portland finished with a 4-6, won-lost record to finish ahead of Victoria Steelers. Edmonds and Tacoma wound up in the basement with 2-7-1 records.

Mishap Takes Second Pilot

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Race driver Dick Atkins of Hayward, Calif., became the second victim Sunday of a fiery sprint car race accident that killed racer Don Branson of Champaign, Ill., Saturday.

Atkins, 30, died at noon in hospital. Branson, 46, a two-time national sprint car champion, was killed instantly in Saturday's accident at suburban Ascot Park.

The accident occurred on the fifth lap of a 30-lap main event when Branson's car slammed into the south turn crash wall, caromed back onto the track and was struck by Atkins' car.

A WAR-BORN, WAR-TORN LOVE STORY

We Found the Sailor's Girl . . . 21 Years of Memories

By PETE LOUDON

This is a love story about a sailor and a girl.

It began 21 years ago in Victoria. And if it doesn't appear to be ending as love stories traditionally do—maybe it's because it's a true love story.

And they say true love never runs smoothly . . .

The Times became involved last month when a letter was received here from Edward W. Poskitt of Southampton.

He asked help in tracing a girl he met here in 1945 when he was in the Royal Navy. He gave us the girl's name—Frances Yates—and he gave us her address—an aging house in the George Jay School area.

Frances was 18 when they met. She lived with her widowed mother and three younger sisters and she worked at the Dockyard. One night she attended a servicemen's dance in downtown Victoria and that's where she met Edward.

●

He had recently been drafted to HMCS Naden to await completion of a ship being built in Vancouver for the RN, the frigate HMS Mull of Galloway. But he had been taken ill and was admitted to Royal Jubilee Hospital. And when he was released, his ship had sailed.

"You can imagine how I felt," wrote Edward. "It was my first time away from home, with no friend in a strange country and I was only 19."

He was given seven days' leave and one night he went to a dance.

"It was at this dance that I met Frances. She was rather slim built with dark, curly hair and a fresh complexion.

"From the moment we met I felt as if I had known her for years. Call it love at first sight if you like, but I know I hated it when we parted for even a few hours."

Frances took Edward to meet her family and their home was his home for the remainder of his stay here.

"We made a lot of plans about our future, which included getting married.

●

"We had her mother's consent and I had written to my father and he agreed that if I thought she was the right girl, it was up to me."

The navy was the stumbling block to romance, however. Edward required permission from his CO. His ship was somewhere in the Pacific. They would have to wait. Then came word Edward was to be sent home to England. He told Frances he would be back to marry her.

But the ship he was drafted to didn't head for England. It turned into the Pacific and Edward was told he would be taken to join his original ship on a Far East station.

"That meant it would be at least two or three years before I would get back to the United Kingdom, let alone Victoria.

●

"So out of sheer desperation, rather than tell Frances this news, I said I had met someone else. Mind you, I had put off writing this letter until I had exhausted all possible chances of getting back to Victoria."

They had promised each other that if either did fall in love with someone else, they would tell the other "and that would be the end."

Time is a great healer, Edward reasoned, and Frances would meet another chap and he would get over it.

"But I'm afraid it wasn't that easy. Within a month I wrote, trying to explain my earlier letter and hoped she would forgive and forget. But I never received an answer."

Edward missed his ship at Suva and was taken on to Singapore and on to Trincomallee and back to Singapore and to Borneo and to Ceylon.

He was sent to Capetown and to Java, the Persian Gulf and back to Singapore, and eventually joined Mull of Galloway and then he was sent back to England for demobilization in 1948. He had been around the world.

"But I had spent only six months worth remembering, met only one girl, a girl I couldn't forget, and visited only one place I ever wanted to see again . . .

"That's the way I felt. That feeling still hasn't changed." Frances had a lovely voice. She would sing Sentimental Journey, There I've Said It Again, You Belong to My Heart and Just a Prayer Away.

●

"Whenever I hear one of these old songs it brings a tear to my eyes." Edward ended his letter with a plea that the Times would find his Frances and he enclosed a sealed letter for her. He guessed she was probably married now but he wanted to know.

He had written other letters to Victoria—one to a radio station which had a program Frances had listened to—but he never received an answer.

Well, the Times has an answer for Edward. First, he had made an error in the address. But a house-by-house search of old directories found France's mother's name. Nowhere was Frances listed. Obviously she had married and taken a new name.

We checked the owners of the house. They gave us the name of previous owners who gave us the name of previous owners, who now were dead.

We checked neighbors who had lived long in the area. One swore he knew the girl and said she married so-and-so. And it turned out to be another girl in another era.

●

We found a woman of the same name as Frances' mother. But it was another woman altogether. We checked local high school records, thinking that if we found Frances and checked with classmates who might still live here, we'd find Frances. But she wasn't listed in the schools. We checked old Dockyard records too without success.

Finally, we found a marriage record and we found Frances' husband still living here. And we found he had a new wife. He and Frances had parted. She was in Ontario and he didn't know her new married name.

But he knew her mother, now remarried, lived at Ladysmith. But at Ladysmith they said the mother had moved without trace. But they led us to Frances' sister at Sooke. And she gave us Frances' new name and her address and her telephone number in a suburb of Toronto.

When we phoned Frances the long-distance operator told us her telephone was off the hook.

●

And then suddenly our call got through and on the line was the former Frances Yates, now Mrs. Joseph Gogolak.

"For heaven's sake," she said. "I remember him. I have often thought of him," said Frances.

She said she is married to a forestry engineer who came here from Hungary. She said she has a 19-year-old son and is trying to adopt another child.

And she said she's a blonde now. And she said "certainly you can use my name in the story." And yes, she will write to Eddy. "I have a wonderful husband who is not the jealous type and he'll love the story."

She said the dance where she met Edward was at Prince Robert House.

She said that when she got the letter from Edward, breaking off their romance, she was upset but she got over it.

She said she never received his second letter which might have changed both their lives. And she promised to write to the Times. And she said it was wonderful to hear from Victoria again because she misses it so much.

And that's the end of the love story except for writing Edward to tell him how the final chapter came out.

Winter Months Construction For $500,000 70-Unit Motel

Work is expected to commence this week on the construction of a half-million-dollar motor-hotel at Douglas Street and Garbally Road.

The new hostelry, to be built by Walter Jensen Construction, is scheduled for opening on June 1, 1967.

Main entrance to the 71-unit building will be off Douglas Street with other entrances off Garbally Road.

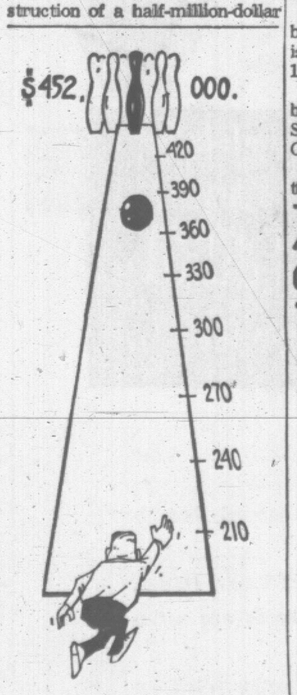
Part of the hotel will be of three-storey construction with the front entrance and main lobby two storeys.

A central heated swimming pool surrounded by spacious patios will form the inner core of the complex.

Mr. Jensen said this morning that in addition to the swimming pool the motor-inn would have sauna baths and sunbathing facilities.

A dining lounge, cocktail lounge and coffee shop are also provided for in the plans.

Construction is being financed by Holiday Development Company and the tentative name for the new hotel is Holiday Inn.



ROLLING UP A STORM is this year's United Appeal with just under 85 per cent of next year's Community Chest needs covered to date. Appeal has received $382,114 of the campaign goal of $452,000. Residential campaign needs just $2,000 more to register a strike with $68,307 or 98 per cent of the residential share contributed by noon today.

AIR STRIKE CALLS HALT TO FUSILIERS

The Royal Highland Fusiliers have been stopped in their tracks today by an impending strike.

Their display of marching pipes, drums and bugles here Tuesday has been cancelled.

Thousands of people who bought advance tickets for the show at Memorial Arena Tuesday will get their money back.

The 150 officers and men were at Portland, Oregon, today and could have reached Victoria before the Air Canada strike deadline at 1 p.m. PST.

But it was feared that if the strike materialized they would be stranded here. So refunds were authorized at all Famous Artist ticket offices.

The last time the regiment came to North America was in 1814. And nothing stayed the advance of the fusiliers until they had burned the White House in Washington.

DOUGLAS BROWN
. . . sixth candidate

Oak Bay Official To Try Again In Saanich Vote

At least six persons will be seeking the four vacant Saanich council seats in next month's municipal elections.

Latest to announce his candidacy is Douglas Brown, 38, an unsuccessful candidate last year.

He agreed with the fire marchal's report on the Saanich department but the proposal to more than double the present number of firefighters "certainly creates an argument with me as to the number.

MODERATE

"There is no doubt that our fire department is undermanned and that some provision for a moderate increase in personnel should be allocated in next year's budget."

He supported the planner's recommendation for a University Precinct area at Gordon Head and the building of sewers and trunk lines on a regional basis.

Mr. Brown is purchasing agent for Oak Bay municipality and lives in Saanich.

Other candidates for the Dec. 10 election include Couns. Leslie Passmore, Harold Todd, Edward Lum, Alan Newberry and former Saanich police commissioner Lionel Speller.

Wireless Man To Run As Trustee

A man who believes in "very much more money" for teachers starting work announced his candidacy this morning for trustee on the Greater Victoria School Board.

Joseph Haegert, 1516 Pembroke, said a young teacher with a university degree and family just starting work "should get more than a janitor — no reflection on the janitor."

The retired ship and coast wireless operator has lived in Victoria since 1910.

Although he has not run for public school trustee before, he was for three years a trustee for St. Patrick's Roman Catholic School here.

SPEAK FRENCH

He also said he wants all educated children to be able to speak French.

"I am taking French myself and consider it a very easy language to learn and would like to see all educated people to be able to speak it," he said.

Mr. Haegert is the first person to file nomination papers for school trustee elections to the Greater Victoria board, which includes the city, Saanich south of Royal Oak, Oak Bay and Esquimalt.

Burglar in Underwear Admits Laundry Raid

Youth Caught Trying On Wardrobe

City police nabbed a burglar in his underwear early today.

Officers tipped off by a passing motorist hurried to a John Street laundry about 2:30 a.m. where, peering through a broken window, they saw a figure rummaging through piles of clothes.

A youth bolted upstairs when he saw the police. He was found in his underwear, hiding under a bed comforter in a second floor storage room at Economy Steam Laundry Ltd., 607 John Street.

'SHORT OF CLOTHES'

Robert Walker, 19, of 408 Hillside, was remanded to Friday for sentence when he pleaded guilty in central court today to two charges of breaking, entering and attempted theft.

He told officers after his arrest he was "short of clothes."

Walker also admitted breaking into the same firm 11 days ago when a number of garments were taken from a clothes rack, tried on for size and then stolen or rejected.

Police have recovered about $200 of the $300 worth of clothing taken in the first break-in, court was told.

15-Year-Old Arrested After Chase

Colwood RCMP officers arrested a 15-year-old Victoria boy Saturday night after chasing a stolen car along the Malahat at speeds up to 115 miles an hour.

The car, a European sports model, was reported missing in the city about 8 p.m. and spotted by police near Mill Bay an hour and a half later.

In the chase which followed officers said the sports car crossed the centre lines, almost ramming oncoming cars head on and forcing several drivers into the ditch.

SPUN OUT

The stolen car spun out near Hall's Boathouse, turning around twice before stopping beside a rock bluff.

"He was still trying to fire it up when our officers reached him," a policeman said.

The boy was scheduled to face several charges in juvenile court today.

"I like speeding," he told arresting officers.

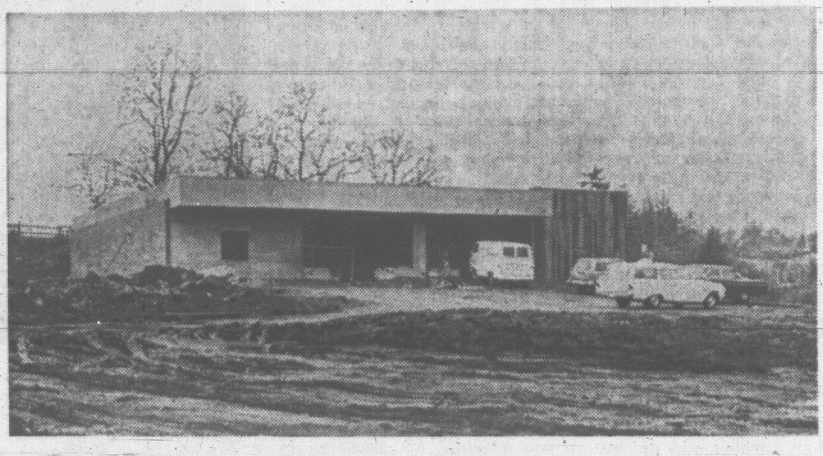
View Royal Man Hurt in Crash With Police Car

Roy Wellwood, 75, of 529 View Royal Avenue, is in good condition at St. Joseph's Hospital after his car was in collision with an RCMP highway patrol car Saturday about midnight.

He suffered head cuts in the accident at Helmcken and the Trans-Canada Highway in which each auto received about $1,000 damage.

RCMP officers said today their patrol car, driven by Constable Russell Borys, was southbound on the Trans-Canada Highway and Mr. Wellwood's auto was headed west on Helmcken. The cruiser hit the injured man's auto broadside.

It was the second accident involving a police car in 48 hours. A city woman was injured early Friday when her car rammed the rear of a city police cruiser.



WE KNEW ALL ALONG. Everybody "knew" in fact, that this store being built on Borden, just off McKenzie, would house first Saanich liquor store. But the provincial government, the contractors and Saanich municipality all refused comment, until today. LCB chairman Donald McGugan said store will open before Christmas barring serious setbacks.

SERGEANT DOES IT EASY WAY

An alert city police sergeant was responsible for the capture of three young theft suspects Saturday without even leaving his office.

Sgt. James Baxter was completing a report in a fourth-floor room at the Fisgard Street station when he glanced out the window.

He spotted three boys alongside the McPherson Theatre across Centennial Square who were apparently tearing the labels from some clothing.

A fast phone call to the radio room and police nabbed three 15-year-old boys. After questioning, they were charged with theft and possession of stolen goods and will appear in juvenile court.

New Liquor Store In Saanich Open by Christmas

Saanich will have its long-awaited first liquor store in time to catch the Christmas trade.

B.C. Liquor Board chairman Donald McGugan today confirmed earlier speculation concerning a new store being built on Borden at McKenzie in the Lake Hill district.

"That is the place slated for the Liquor Control Board store. We are hoping to get it open before Christmas."

The board will lease the premises.

The building, first phase in a shopping centre, has been under way for some weeks. Neither the contractors nor Saanich municipality would make a statement concerning the building's use except to say it was for retail business.

At the same time, nearby residents all were firm in their understanding it was to be a liquor store. And at least one petition is circulating to oppose the opening.

A spokesman for the contractors, Horizon Construction of Nanaimo, said earlier today, "I'm just building a store. I can show you the plans. They don't say it's a liquor store."

He agreed that people thought it was a liquor store and suggested this was already causing excitement among local "drys."

"A volatile minority can always over-rule a majority," he added.

The store measures about 60 by 60 feet — about the same size as the liquor store at Foul Bay Road and Fort.

Saanich Reeve Hugh Curtis, who had earlier avoided comment on the store, said in a statement:

"Yes, as I understand it an agreement has been reached between a developing company and the LCB to erect a building near McKenzie for a liquor store.

SHOPPING CENTRE

"It is the first part of a two-phase project. I believe the developers intend to construct a second retail store adjoining, so the completed project will be a small shopping centre."

The reeve said the area is suitably zoned for a liquor store and although it is not the reeve's duty to announce the location of a government liquor store, discussions with the developers have been on that basis.

The new building is valued on the building permit at $42,500. The permit is in the name of Canamerico Mortgage Corporation.

YEARS OF WORK

Reeve Curtis said the new liquor store is the result of years of work on behalf of Saanich council, dating back to 1959 when a move to locate an earlier liquor store was defeated.

He said 2½ years ago several thousand people signed a petition asking the attorney-general to open a liquor store in Saanich.

Since the new store was rumored the site has been criticized by school authorities because of the nearby location of the new Reynolds Road Junior-Senior Secondary School. However supporters point out there are schools near other liquor stores and in any event, liquor is not consumed on the premises.

SECOND TIME LOST

Young Hunter Found 'Starved and Soaked'

An 18-year-old Central Saanich hunter was found "stiff, starved and soaked" early Sunday afternoon after being lost in the woods for 24 hours.

It was the second time he had become lost while hunting.

Douglas Grimsson, 279 Wain, was blue and shaking with cold after a night under dripping wet trees on San Juan Ridge near Port Renfrew.

He had left on a hunting expedition early Saturday without having breakfast. Douglas separated from his father and a friend to go after a deer by himself, arranging to meet them later in the day at their car.

He shot a buck but didn't bring him down and followed the animal's bloody trail through snow until he lost it in a section of woods where the snow had melted.

DEEP IN WOODS

Douglas said he was deep in the woods between Port Renfrew and Shawnigan at that time. He spotted another buck, shot and killed it, and then cleaned the animal.

By this time he had lost his way and darkness was nearing. He left the dead buck and tried to get back to the car. Darkness found him still in the woods, completely confused about his position.

Douglas said his feet were numb. He lay down beneath a tree, and wrapped them in one of the two shirts he was wearing. He also had a sweater and a raincoat but was soaked through within a short time.

Meanwhile, his father raised the alarm, and a search party was organized from Sooke and Shawnigan RCMP detachments and workers from B.C. Forest Products Ltd. plant.

Douglas said he stayed awake through the night and at daybreak got on the move again, trying to spot the slash in the woods that would tell him his position.

He finally saw it and began towards it through the bush. He had hardly entered the slash before he was spotted by the search party.

Douglas was lost once before near Leechtown but on that occasion he got out of the woods the same day.

Ask The Times

Q. All press reports I have seen of Montreal's new rubber-tired subway system have been laudatory. Have there been any adverse comments, say in the Montreal papers? O.P.Y.

A. The only gross defect, noted both in the Gazette and Le Devoir, since the subway's opening, is poor ventilation of subway cars. Apparently ventilators are located in the bottom of the cars and ingest air is already heated by brake and tire friction.

TWO-MAN ANTI-TANK WEAPON is lined up for firing by riflemen Frank MacDonald (left) and Dennis G. Breckon. While one man loads, the other sights formidable looking weapon. Both are members of "B" Company, 1st Battalion Queen's Own Rifles, which presently has 20 of the Carl Gustavs.

ANTI-TANK GUN LIGHTS THE NIGHT

What would the Victoria-based weathership Vancouver want with an anti-tank weapon on board?

Department of transport officials found out the answer to that one when the Vancouver went on sea trials last week.

In addition to knocking out tanks, the weapon proved to be just the thing for sending up illuminating flares at night time.

Three members of the 1st. Battalion Queen's Own Rifles accompanied the $12 million weathership off the west coast to demonstrate the capabilities of the newly acquired Carl Gustav anti-tank weapon.

On the assumption a plane had to ditch in the nearby water, the weapon rapidly sent up a pattern of para-illuminating flares to simulate a runway and guide the plane to a safe landing.

Said a local DOT spokesman: "We were very impressed by the equipment."

If officials in Ottawa are equally impressed, the Vancouver could be the first weathership to be fitted with the weapon.

Delivery of some 300 of the 84 mm weapons to regular army units in Canada began recently.

SHOPPING GUIDE

This Artist's Works Are Always Different

By Penny Saver

I don't know about you, but when it comes to knitting, I'm all thumbs. There's nothing I'd like more than a closet full of sweaters and knitted suits and dresses, each one endowed with a touch of originality. There is a shop in Victoria that can give me just that. In this store, you are guaranteed an exclusive fashion, as each outfit is made right in the shop. As a matter of fact, when I visited the store the owner was sitting behind the counter knitting away.

This artist of the knitting needle said that she started her craft when she was about 10 years old as a school subject in Germany. Her interest developed and knitting became her hobby. Now she and her husband have their own shop in James Bay, featuring specialized knitwear!

Here, you order your style in sweaters, dresses or suits. Choose the wool and the color. This craftswoman is very clever indeed when it comes to two people who perhaps order the same style. She ever so slightly changes some feature of the dress so that the two are not identical. It may be in the type of neckline or the size or type of buttons—but each one is different.

Complement these creations with original shell sweaters. These little charmers are made to match your outfit for $6 to $7.95. For elaborate evening wear, shell toppers in metallic wool are starring the spotlight. These are made for $10.

With Christmas just around the corner, I've been busy measuring my family for sweaters that this woman makes for $15. These require 15 ounces of 100 per cent wool, which is all supplied. Drop in and see the exquisite sweaters displayed in this shop.

Price of the individual outfit depends on the type of wool used and the size of the garment. Fully lined suits range to about $45, and dresses, $39.

A unique feature of this store is a line of ready-made suits and sweaters imported directly from Munich, Germany. This shop is apparently the only one in Canada that carries these particular items. These fine double-knit fashions are highlighted with metallic wool designs. If you're looking for something different, these styles are for you.

Enhance your winter wardrobe with styles created just for you. Give Penny a call at 382-3131 if you want to know where she found this shop.

WHY GROW OLD?

Only Way To Remove Hair Permanently—Electrolysis

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Different cultures have different standards and ideas about what constitutes beauty. Many find a ring in the nose unattractive while others would abhor knee-high boots and pants for a woman. So it goes!

Lowman

In our civilization good grooming has the spotlight and good grooming means getting rid of superfluous hair. There are several methods which will remove hair temporarily; shaving, which cuts the hair off, depilatories which melt it off, and cosmetic wax, which pulls the hairs out. You can see why it takes the hairs longer to grow back after using cosmetic wax. However, this is a more laborious procedure.

Electrolysis is the only way to have superfluous hair removed permanently. In order to understand this you must know something about the structure of the hair. Each hair has two main parts, the shaft which appears above the surface of the skin, and the root, which grows below the surface of the skin. The root extends down into a pocket called the follicle. At the bottom of the follicle lies the papilla.

The blood vessels of the papilla feed the hair and the cells there push upward to form the hair you see above the surface of the skin. As long as the papilla is functioning, the hair will continue to grow. The destruction of the papilla is the job of the electrolysist.

Heredity plays some part in the distribution and density of this hair, but mostly this is controlled by the endocrine glands, especially the thyroid, pituitary, sex and adrenal glands. The change in glandular setup is the reason for the sudden appearance of superfluous hair at middle age.

According to Emanuel J. Shore, one of New York City's prominent electrolysists, "A competent electrolysist can recognize this type of condition by the pattern of the hair growth, and its location on the body." If the condition is extreme, Mr. Shore suggests that the patient see a doctor who specializes in glandular disturbances before any treatment by electrolysis is performed.

Tomorrow I will bring you Mr. Shore's answers to some of the questions he is asked. You might like to hear his answers too.

DEAR ABBY . . .

Office Clown— Not So Funny

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I work in an office with three other girls, and there are about 30 sales and service men coming in and out all the time. One salesman, who is new with the company, is a great kidder. The first week he said to me, "Say, I hear it's National Dairy Week, and everyone is supposed to take a cow to lunch. How about having lunch with me?" I didn't know how to take it, so I just laughed it off and let it drop.

The next week he was hanging around my desk singing, "Near you. It's like heaven to be near you." He never kids with any of the other girls and they are all single. (I guess I'd better tell you that he is married and so am I.) He's nice in every way, and I hate to lose his friendship. Would it be wrong to have lunch with him if I made it strictly lunch?

"ZOFTIK."

DEAR "ZOFTIK": Don't see this clown outside the office, and don't be so receptive to his jokes. Tell him it's "Be True to Your Spouse Week," which lasts 52 weeks a year. And ask him if he'd like to join.

DEAR ABBY: Before we were married I converted to the faith of my fiance. It was partly to make his parents happy, and partly because I honestly believed it was the faith for me. However, a few months after we were married I was very miserable with my new faith and rather than stay on as a hypocrite, I made a neat break with it. This was done with the blessings of my wonderful husband. That was two years ago.

The problem now is that his parents do not know. They are not very understanding when it comes to religion, and they might make things very unpleasant for us. I'm so afraid if we don't tell them, they'll find out some other way. What do you suggest?

MIXED UP.

DEAR MIXED UP: Tell them and get it over with.

DEAR ABBY: What can a 16-year-old girl do about her six-year-old brother who is a mean little pest? When a boy comes over to see me, my little brother hangs around pestering us and asking a lot of embarrassing questions, like, "When are you two going to get married?" and "Let's see you kiss!"

Don't tell me to ask my parents to discipline him because I have, and they won't do a thing about it. You see, he's the baby, and they think he's perfect. They won't let me hit him.

"ITCHY FINGERS."

DEAR ITCHY: One of the things a child should be taught as soon as he is able to talk is when to keep quiet. In the absence of parental discipline, take the little clattertrap in hand and give him a few lessons. You don't have to hit him. Ignore him, and instruct your friends to do the same. Mouthy children prefer being hit to being ignored.

CONFIDENTIAL TO J. J. C.: If you are too busy to answer your child's questions, you are too busy.

OFFER PROVES CORRECT

The offer of "something for everyone" was certainly true when the Cadboro Bay United Church Women held a bazaar last Saturday. There were items featured for every member of the family from grandma to tots — and even articles for the early Christmas shoppers.

More than $1,000 was realized at the affair in the church hall.

Youngsters couldn't resist the lure of ice-cream bars and popcorn sold by Mrs. J. Woodward at the children's corner and the "lady with a thousand pockets," Judith Faryon, offered hundreds of exciting and mysterious prizes for the "younger set."

As soon as the bazaar opened, Mrs. H. Kelso and Mrs. J. R. Stone and their committees were "on the run" trying to fill orders at the home-baking and delicatessen booths. Another popular stall featured an attraction for "sweet tooths" of all ages — a variety of fudges, sold by Mrs. R. Van Druten.

The bazaar was a virtual treasure trove for the early Christmas shopper. A huge variety of aprons, sewing, dressed dolls and outfits, Christmas candles and decorations, dried flower arrangements were all offered by conveners Mrs. C. Pike, Mrs. W. F. Christian, Mrs. E. Whittingham, Mrs. P. Young, Mrs. R. Wills, Mrs. J. R. Brown and Mrs. W. A. Combs.

The men pitched in to help, too, by convening a garden and produce stall. E. Pennock and other stewards of the church were in charge. Mrs. C. L. Williams and Explorer members handled a magazine and book booth.

Floral arrangements and candles centred the head table for the tea which was supervised by Mrs. J. R. Geigerich. Presiding at the refreshment table were Mrs. R. Hosie, Mrs. R. J. Grundison, Mrs. W. Luck and Mrs. K. C. Bibbard.

Members of the UCW afternoon unit and Explorers worked "behind the scenes" in the kitchen.

For the youngsters who wanted a rest from shopping, G. Nickells showed movies.

The fashion-conscious shoppers found the dress accessories and hats sold by the church's Canadian Girls in Training too irresistible to pass up, and the white elephant stall offered hundreds of bargains to the thrifty home-maker.

UCW president Mrs. F. W. Whitehouse and general convener Mrs. R. A. Peterson greeted the guests. Mrs. A. C. Fleming was co-convener and Mrs. C. L. Streight and Mrs. H. M. Faryon handled tickets.

Worn by Bride Bonita Carole Schaddelee

GOWN SENT FROM THAILAND

An exquisite gown of ivory sabais, imported from Thailand, was worn by Bonita Carole Robbins, Thursday evening, when she became the bride of Cornelis (Kees) Johannes Schaddelee Jr.

The floor-length sheath gown was touched with accents of gold, trimming the belled sleeves and outlining the square neckline of the bodice. The full length sleeveless coat which topped the outfit was fashioned with a full train, bordered in the same gold trim. The delicate shades of the gown were echoed in the pill box headpiece holding her candlelight veil which misted softly to her waist. She carried white roses in her bouquet, accented with gold leaves, and wore the groom's gift of a gold watch.

Parents of the principals are Mr. and Mrs. E. Don Robbins, 3490 Mayfair Drive, and Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Schaddelee, 130 Prince Andrew Place. First United Church was decorated with floral arrangements in white and autumn shades for the service at which Rev. R. J. D. Morris officiated.

The strains of "Praise My Soul, the King of Heaven" greeted the bride as she entered the church on the arm of her father. Soloist Alan Husband sang "O Perfect Love" during the ceremony and "I'll Walk With God" while the couple signed the register.

Miss Lois Robbins was maid of honor for her sister in a sheath gown of orange-gold silk from Thailand, fashioned with a square neckline completed with a half-cape. The chiffon which she wore in her hair matched the gown and she carried a bouquet of autumn flowers.

The bridesmaids, the Misses Wendy Packard and June Mann, were in gowns of burnt gold silk, styled with square neck lines and belled sleeves to the elbow. Their pillbox headpieces were accented with fall flowers, repeated in their bouquets.

Silk frocks en tone with the maid of honor's outfit were worn by the little flower girls, Sylvia Schaddelee and Ione Hunt. In their hair they wore garlands of flowers to match the fall blossoms in the baskets they carried.

Maarten Schaddelee was best man. Ushering the guests to their pews were David Armstrong and John Andrews.

The gold and white theme was continued in the decorations at the reception which followed in the Uplands Golf Club. J. Douglas Pearson proposed the toast to the bride's happiness.

TRAVEL TO MEXICO

An off-white dress, styled on A-lines, and topped with a matching coat, was donned by the new Mrs. Schaddelee for travelling on honeymoon to Mexico City, Taxco and Acapulco. She chose coral accessories, crocodile handbag and shoes and a white fox stole to complete the ensemble.

The newlyweds will be making their home in Beckley Manor, 548 Dallas Road.

Travelling from out-of-town for the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Greenwood and Mr. and Mrs. J. Schaumberger and family, of Seattle; Mrs. E. McFarlaine, Winnipeg; Mr. and Mrs. R. Coblenz, Mr. and Mrs. J. Coblenz and Mrs. K. Scramstad of Vancouver; Mr. and Mrs. H. Coleman and daughter, of Parksville; and Capt. and Mrs. E. Trail of Duncan.

Carries 'Good Luck' Token From Scotland in Bouquet

A horseshoe of white heather, flown from Argyle, Scotland, nestled in the crescent bouquet of pink carnations and ivy carried by Muriel Mary Muir Bertrand when she exchanged vows with Zolden Johndas Franklin Banman in Fairfield United Church on Thursday evening. She also carried a white Bible and had as a "something old" talisman, her great-great-grandmother's engagement ring.

WHITE AND PINK

White chrysanthemums and pink carnations were at the altar when Rev. H. W. Kerley united in marriage the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Bertrand, 1885 Quamichan Avenue, and the son of Mrs. Eva Banman, who was here from Porcupine Plains, Sask.

Dr. I. A. N. Beadle played traditional organ music as the bride entered the church on the arm of her father. Her full-length gown of white silk chiffon was enhanced with scalloped French lace that circled the tiered hemline and neckline. Hand-sewn rhinestones, crystals and seed pearls shimmered on the chiffon bodice. The tiered veil, bordered in the same lace, misted to waist-length from a coronet of seed pearls. Her earrings, a gift of the groom, were also of seed pearls.

Gowns of chiffon, fashioned with belled sleeves, and teamed with toning headpieces of flowers and net, were the choice of maid of honor Miss Louise Merriam, and bridesmaid, Miss Pemme Muir of Ladner, the bride's cousin. Miss Merriam carried a colonial bouquet of pink chrysanthemums to complement her turquoise ensemble while the bridesmaid's gown was rose pink and her bouquet, turquoise chrysanthemums. Both had culture pearl drop necklaces, gifts of the bride.

Four-year-old Janet Lennox made a charming flower girl in a rose pink chiffon dress, perked with white lace. Her bonnet was of white flowers and net and she carried a basket of pink and white chrysanthemums. Jewelry was a tiny pink heart locket, gift of the bride. Another four-year-old, the bride's cousin, Tom Ellis, was ring bearer, carrying the two rings on a white satin pillow.

Warren Sanderson was best man and ushering guests were Wieber Baanstra, Doug Ross and Richard Slater.

BRIDE'S GRANDFATHER

William Parker proposed the toast to his granddaughter at the reception which followed in the War Amputations Hall. The bride's table was decorated with pink rosebuds and silver candelabra and centred with a three-tier wedding cake. The room's decor was pink, white and turquoise streamers, accented with white wedding bells.

Leaving on a honeymoon trip to the mainland and Washington, the bride donned a three-piece jade wool suit with black fur trim, black velvet hat, toning patent accessories and corsage of red Sweetheart roses.

On return, the newlyweds will make their home at 2072 Cadboro Bay Road.

Cigarette Lighter Saves Stranded Fishermen

BAMFIELD — A cheap cigarette lighter saved the lives of fishermen Bob Boker and Dana Harris on Saturday.

For three hours the pair took turns clicking the lighter as they clung to a gale-lashed rock off nearby Effingham Island.

And as dawn broke over the mountainous seas their light was spotted by Bamfield lifeboat.

Blue with cold, the Nanaimo pair, told the story of their ordeal today.

It began four hours before they were picked up when their fishboat, Red, sank 500 yards offshore.

Bob, 20, and Dana, 54, had set out from Bamfield Friday afternoon to troll for salmon.

When they settled down for the evening, another fishboat, the M.J., tied up to them as it was having anchor trouble.

"Everything seemed OK," said Boker. "We had some supper and went to sleep.

"But then the wind switched on us and it was coming on strong."

Three times the two boats parted and had to find quieter waters to tie up again.

Finally, as the winds reached near-hurricane force, the boats crashed together and Boker had to cut the lines joining them.

While the M.J. managed to make it to stiller water, the Red was dragged on to rocks and holed.

The pair tossed a light skiff overboard and tried rowing to the nearby island. But no sooner had they started than a huge wave swamped their boat.

Despite heavy clothing, both managed to swim to a nearby rock.

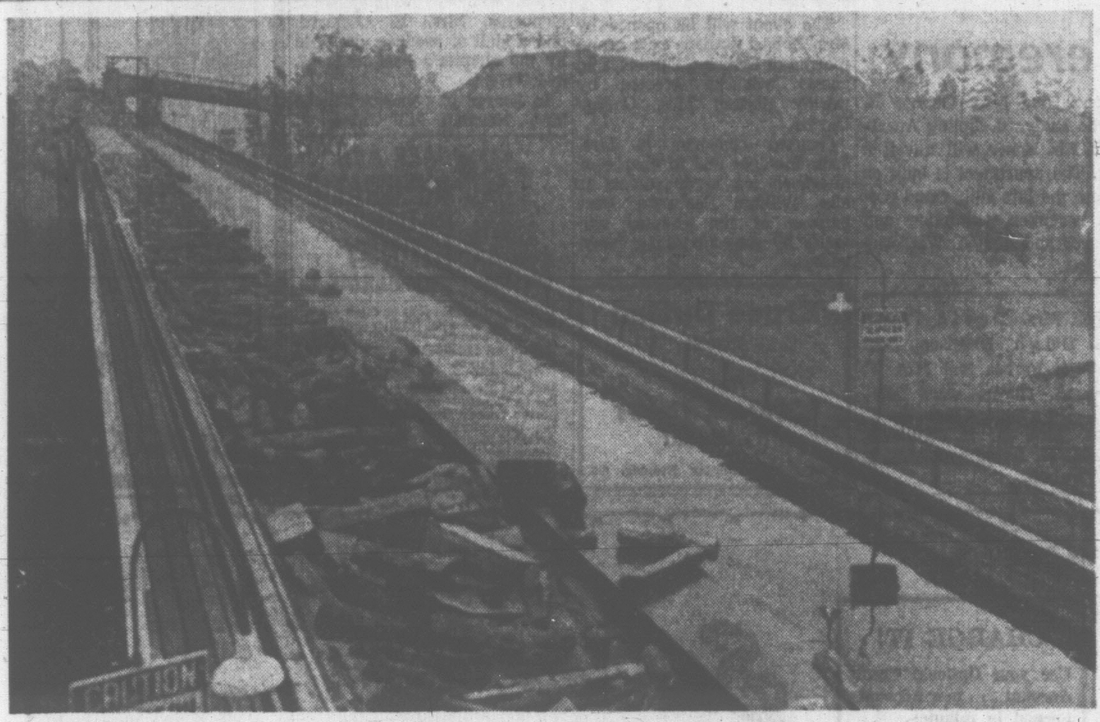
Then began their seemingly hopeless attempt to attract rescue by flashing the lighter.

Three hours later their persistence paid off.

The Red was one of four boats sunk off the west coast of Vancouver Island in Friday night's gales.

Winds, which gusted to 70 miles an hour, sank the 30-foot Swan Junior as it lay moored to Tofino wharf. Lengthy attempts to save her were in vain.

At Kakwif, two water miles from Tofino, two 40-foot boats owned by Christie's residential school employee Joseph Smith, the Northern Miss and Nootka Sound, sank at the school wharf.



MAN-MADE RIVER carries logs on their way to newsprint machine at B.C. Forest Products mill at Crofton. First they will be ground to a porridge-like substance after the bark has been blasted off by water pressure. Mountain of chips in the background is part of reserves, enough to produce 35,000 tons of pulp. Mill requires six times the volume of water used by Victoria. (Irving Strickland photo.)

Saltair Set to Vote On Fire Protection

SALTAIR — Residents of the unorganized territory here will vote Saturday to decide if they are in favor, in principle, of fire protection.

Coun. John Cannon, chairman of North Cowichan Fire Prevention Committee, said today: "If they vote in favor the next step will be negotiation with the municipality, unless they decide to set up their own fire department."

Chemainus volunteer fire department has previously signified its willingness to extend its jurisdiction to include Saltair.

The area of Saltair involved has an estimated assessment value of $1,500,000.

Centennial Service

It will be an interdenominational service with combined choirs from local churches. Preacher will be Rev. Paul Monahan of St. Edward's R.C. Church.

Lessons will be read by Mayor Jack Dobson, Duncan, and Reeve Donald Morton, North Cowichan.

It Flies!

COURTENAY — "This aircraft is operating without a certificate of airworthiness." reads the warning on the side of Jerry Roy's airplane.

That doesn't bother LAC Roy, a metal technician at RCAF Comox, or his family, Mrs. Roy and three boys.

His ultra-light, all-metal aircraft, weighing only 670 pounds, may be the only one of its type in Canada.

"We never thought it would get off the ground," said a friend.

But take off it did, and Roy now has logged more than 50 hours in the air, enough to get department of transport permission to carry a passenger.

He's planning to build another aircraft now, big enough to hold the whole family.

YOUTH PAID TRIBUTE to the men who died in two World Wars during a Remembrance Day service at Duncan Memorial Cross Friday. Scout Billy Mann lays a wreath while Able Cadet Gary Rude stands guard.

A New Wrinkle for Wrinkles

Is there anything as pathetic as a 49-year-old woman trying to look like she's 35 . . . and failing miserably? So many women make the common mistake of using surface make-up to look younger. But more often than not, the only result is an artificial look that announces, to one and all, still another frantic attempt to turn back the relentless sands of time. The elusive, youthful, smooth-skinned look was not to be recaptured. And up until now there was no hope!

You know by now that wrinkles, pouches under the eyes, sagging skin and other signs of advancing age can not be smoothed away by oils, lotions or creams that act only on the skin surface. A basic law of physics says it's easier to push than to pull. So with wrinkles, they must be pushed out and firmed up from beneath the skin surface, from the inside out, to make your facial, chin and throat skin look more firm, supple, and less lined.

2nd Debut, a newly discovered moisturizer, does just that, with a unique and perhaps exclusive pushing action, it pushes from inside out. And it pushes better and more quickly than any of the so-called "magic" secret ingredient-type applications.

The fascinating discovery in 2nd Debut is based on a closely-guarded physiological process that brings heretofore undreamed of firmness and support to dry, parched, drooping skin. Instead of a fruitless attempt to draw wrinkles out from the skin surface, 2nd Debut goes into the skin surface, carrying a precious cargo of rejuvenating moisture deep into dry and thirsty pores, where it exerts an outward pressure on the surface wrinkles and lines. The result is nothing less than stunning. Lines, flabbiness, wrinkles, and sagging skin tend to smooth out and may even fade away entirely. Even the chin and throat look tighter and firmer.

You now look younger, but the look is natural. There is no obvious attempt to look younger. Even without make-up, your new, less wrinkled look is completely natural. With make-up . . . well, the only word is "dazzling." More important, the beautifying effect is the same on women al all ages . . . 30 . . . 40 . . . 50, even older.

There is a limit to the supply of one of the important ingredients in 2nd Debut . . . a moisturizing factor called CEF 600, accidentally discovered by scientists in Weisbaden, Germany. And the manufacturer refuses to make 2nd Debut without this exotic CEF 600 (Cellular Expansion Factor). Even so, a limited quantity of 2nd Debut is finding its way into drug stores and department stores, and even into the new "beauty ranches" where fabulously wealthy matrons go for a week or two of "re-youthifying." There is a special introductory offer. You will be mailed postpaid the $1.25 demonstration size of the regular $3.75 value 2nd Debut with CEF 600 if you send only $1.00 to Lila Hamilton, Staff Beauty Writer, Dept. V-20, 943 Queen Street East, Toronto 8, Ontario.

EXTERNAL AFFAIRS

Moslem Appointed To India Cabinet

By PETER JACKSON

NEW DELHI (Reuters) — Prime Minister Indira Gandhi announced a major cabinet reshuffle Sunday night and broke all precedent in predominantly-Hindu India by appointing a Moslem as external affairs minister.

The man chosen to handle India's foreign affairs is Mohammadali Currum Chagla, 66, who has served as education minister since November, 1963.

Mrs. Gandhi named former defence minister Yaswantrao Chavan, 53, to head the key post of home affairs. Swaran Singh, former external affairs minister, will succeed Chavan at the defence ministry.

Chavan is known as a strong man and good administrator — a background expected to provide much needed qualities at the home ministry in the present widespread unrest resulting from the country's host of religious, economic and hunger problems.

Chavan took over the post left by Gulzarilal Nanda, who resigned after being accused of weakness in dealing with massive demonstrations last week against the slaughter of cows, which Hindus regard as sacred.

Chagla is a man with wide experience in foreign affairs. An Oxford-educated lawyer and former chief justice of Bombay, he served as Indian ambassador in Washington and high commissioner to Britain.

His post in the education ministry will be filled by Fakhruddin Ali Ahmed, former power minister.

Swaran Singh, 59, the new defence minister, is a mild-mannered, bearded and turbaned Sikh who was external affairs minister since 1964.

Informed sources said any further changes in the cabinet before India's general elections, in February, are unlikely.

Mrs. Gandhi, whose resignation has been demanded by opposition members in Parliament, also has been under attack from leading newspapers for alleged indecision in reshuffling the cabinet.

It was understood that in talks Mrs. Gandhi had with the president of the ruling Congress party, Kumaraswanh Kamaraj; he insisted that she should take clear decisions and settle the cabinet issue so that the party could concnetrate on winning the election.

The Price Of Brides Going Up

NEW YORK (AP) — Those who think inflation is strictly a phenomenon of Western civilization haven't had to ante up cowrie shells lately to buy an African bride.

Time was a young swain needed only two of these small, colorful shells to complete a deal with a bride's family. Now, in the Cameroons, it takes 15,000 to 50,000 cowries.

On Santa Cruz, in the British Solomon Islands, the price of a bride has gone up to at least 10 feather coils and specialists have taken control of the whole business from the bird catching to putting a price on a coil.

In primitive areas of the world, principally remote regions of Africa and Oceania, brides are still purchased with ages-old mediums of exchange. And just about everywhere the price has gone up—and up.

A study of this practice, along with a collection of "money," goes on display today in an exhibit called The Price of a Bride at the Chase Manhattan Money Museum.

FLORENCE, Italy (Reuters)—Mrs. John F. Kennedy, wife of the late U.S. president, will head an American committee of the international appeal to restore Florence's flood-damaged art works. Restoration of damage to the city's famed art collection is expected to cost some $160,000,000.

28 ARMY OFFICERS

Treason Trial Opens in Greece

ATHENS (Reuters)—Twenty-eight Greek Army officers went on trial here today accused of conspiring to overthrow the country's regime.

Gen. George Grivas, now commander of the Greek-Cypriot armed forces, who is one of the 400 prosecution witnesses, was in court.

The trial, described as the most sensational in Greece since the Second World War, is expected to last two months.

Another prosecution witness will be former premier George Papandreou.

The officers, who face possible death sentences for high treason, tried to set up a more independent, nonaligned "Greater Greece" in the conspiracy called Aspida (The Shield), the indictment said.

Papandreou was prime minister when discovery of the alleged plot sparked off last year's political and economic crisis.

The aims of Aspida were said to have been to maintain democracy by means of meritocracy — rule by the most worthy.

Political Bargaining Under Way

BONN (Reuters)—Kurt Kiesinger, the ruling Christian Democratic party's choice for chancellor, today began a crucial week of negotiations to gather a government majority.

Outgoing Chancellor Ludwig Erhard joined him on the negotiating team which was to meet the Free Democrats and the opposition Social Democrats during the week.

The Free Democrats triggered the current crisis last month when they walked out of Erhard's coalition government.

The party was today expected to name its terms for a new coalition at a top-level meeting in Nuernberg.

The Social Democrats Sunday laid down an eight-point program of conditions for a coalition. The conditions were so stiff it seemed impossible for the Christian Democrats to accept.

The points included renunciation of West Germany's desire for a share in nuclear armament, contact between officials of East and West Germany and increased efforts toward diplomatic relations with East Europe.

WANT FORCES FREEZE

The Social Democrats said a new government must freeze the current strength of the armed forces as a first step toward East-West disarmament.

The party also insisted the 1938 Munich agreement which ceded the Sudetenland to Nazi Germany be declared null and void. The agreement has been a major obstacle to improving West German - Czechoslovakian relations.

The tough program added to fears in government circles that the Social Democrats were moving toward a coalition with the Free Democrats. The two would command a majority of six in the Bundestag (lower house).

Radioactive Debris Escaped U.S. Admits

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. State department has acknowledged that a small amount of radioactivity" was accidently released in to the atmosphere on Sept. 12 from an underground U.S. nuclear test blast in Nevada.

But the amount of radioactive debris was so small that it could be detected only "by sensitive measuring instruments located in the immediate vicinity of the testing area," said a press officer, Karl Bartch.

Mighty Roar Silenced

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. (AP) — Man diverted 75 per cent of the water that flows over the American Falls and virtually silenced the mighty roar of the famed cataract Saturday for several hours.

The step, which involved opening a series of gates, was part of a program to prevent erosion and possible long-range destruction of the falls.

The action cut the normal flow of 60,000 gallons a second to 15,000 gallons. Much of the water was sent over the larger Horseshoe Falls on the Canadian side.

U.S. and Canadian power officials joined with the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers to slow the flow for inspection work, before returning the water to normal.

Over the years, more than 118,750 Air Cadets have attended the annual summer camps held at RCAF stations spaced across Canada.

POTTERY by a former Victorian, George Cummings, will be seen at Victoria Art Gallery as part of a ceramics show opening Tuesday. Mr. Cummings, now an instructor at the Art Institute and museum of Portland, Ore., studied in England and Switzerland. The show ends December 4.

Wrecking Crew Ends Last Fair Building

The last building associated with the old Willows Fair Grounds was dismantled by a wrecking crew Saturday.

The 56-year-old structure was the home of Victoria's oldest tennis club—the Racquet Club—between Foul Bay Road and Fort Street.

The property has been sold to Canada Safeway Ltd., which plans to expand its supermarket in the area.

The wood-constructed building was formerly the agricultural hall and was used extensively by badminton clubs prior to the closure of the Willows Fair Grounds.

In the early fifties, sections and components of the buildings were moved to the Foul Bay-Fort site for use by the club—then known as the Victoria Lawn Tennis and Badminton Club. The late Patrick Birley, architect, was largely responsible for its reconstruction.

The racquet club is now located on a 6.5-acre site at Ruby and Gordon Head, where the first phase of a $750,000 building program is under construction.

Plans call for ice surfaces for curling and skating, nine hard tennis courts, three squash courts, five badminton courts, space for indoor tennis, lounge and social activities.

The club first came into being in 1888. In 1956 it was selected as the site for the North American Davis Cup between Canada and the United States.

Big Wind Helped To Eliminate Doubt

By JACK BEASTALL

One good feature about a wind storm is that it helps to eliminate doubt.

After the overnight gale last weekend we no longer have any doubts about the condition of tree stakes, archways and fence posts.

Jack

Those of sound and solid condition are still standing; the weak ones collapsed.

Thus our work is determined for the immediate future — strengthening the weak and replacing the broken.

It is wise to check all tree stakes and ties, for we can expect more gales in the next six weeks.

All real dwarf fruit trees need support throughout their life, and the semi-dwarfs for the first few years at least — longer in exposed locations.

See that these are provided, and check all existing stakes to make sure they are sound and wind-resistant.

Another job that should be attended to immediately is the re-firming of the soil around all newly planted trees and shrubs, those which have been planted this fall.

The new roots on the plants will have just reached out into the soil, and the wind rocking the upper growth will have loosened their grip.

Unless they are again tramped firmly the loosened roots will be lost and the plants suffer a setback.

If the soil is of a sticky nature, sprinkle dry compost or a little dry peat moss on the surface before treading the soil with the feet.

Landslide Vote

PORT OF SPAIN (Reuters) — Prime Minister Eric Williams and his ruling People's National Movement swept to a landslide triumph in Trinidad and Tobago's first national elections since the country gained independence in 1962. Williams' party kept its two-thirds majority in the House of Representatives, winning 24 of the 36 seats in the enlarged House, and gaining a third five-year term.

SPIRITED PROGRAM

'Enchanting Performance' By Famed Hornist

By AUDREY JOHNSON

Victoria Symphony Orchestra has as its guest this week, a unique artist whose fame is international.

French hornist Joseph Eger arrived in Victoria from New York on Saturday and on Sunday afternoon appeared with the orchestra at the Royal Theatre in an enchanting performance of Mozart's third Horn Concerto in E-flat major.

It is remarkable that so brief a meeting should have produced such a satisfactory sense of ensemble; a fact for which the skill of conductor Otto-Werner Mueller and the responsiveness of the orchestra must share the tribute.

Strings and woodwinds provided an elegant counterpoint to a solo performance, the artistry of which made subtle and unobtrusive its extraordinary virtuosity.

Mr. Eger's control over his temperamental instrument allows him to produce marvellous variations of texture, color and attack and a scintillating effect in the Mozartean arabesques of tone.

The smooth, warm, delicately manipulated sound endowed the slow movement with great charm.

The concerto closes with a spirited Allegro that reflects the horn's ancestral role as an instrument of the hunt.

Throughout the program the orchestra performed exceptionally well. The overture, Nicolai's The Merry Wives of Windsor, taken at a fine tempo, was spirited, competent playing that rose to effective brilliance in the finale.

Mr. Mueller, at the top of his form, molding and shaping a newly rich and image-invoking sound, gave us a rendering of Mendelssohn's "Scotch" Symphony (No. 3 in A-minor) that was frequently deeply moving and in conclusion, genuinely exciting.

This, the third concert in the current season, ranks with the first for sheer pleasure. It was a pity to see so many empty seats on Sunday, for its overall quality and the distinction of its guest artist should make it a "must" for all who claim to be music lovers.

The program will be repeated tonight at 8:30.

Fourth Man Sent to Jail In Gold Theft

WINNIPEG (CP) — Richard Grenkow, 23, today became the fourth man to be sent to prison on charges resulting from a $383,000 gold bullion robbery here last March 1. Grenkow, who pleaded guilty last week to theft and conspiracy, was sentenced to three years.

Sentenced earlier were Kenneth Leishman, eight years for theft and conspiracy; John McKay Berry, three years for theft and conspiracy, and lawyer Harry Backlin, seven years for possessing stolen gold bars.

Also charged is Richard Grenkow's brother, Paul Frederick, who is appealing the inclusion of a conspiracy charge in the indictment against him.

CRITICS 'WITHOUT BRAINS'

Red Poet Bewildered By Leftists in U.S.

NEW YORK (AP) — Controversial Soviet poet Yevgeny Yevtushenko wound up the first week of his sensationally successful U.S. tour today bewildered by one complaint — he's not far enough to the left to suit American leftists.

Relaxing in his hotel suite, the 33-year-old Siberian, a major innovator in modern Soviet literature — said such critics were "without brains."

Yevtushenko was upset by criticism that he had watered down attacks on U.S. policy in the Vietnamese war during his readings which are breaking all records for poetry recitals here.

"My position remains as before—that the war must be terminated as soon as possible," he said. "If some people don't understand that, it is because they are without brains."

His readings are given in Russian — Yevtushenko speaks little English—and his audiences have included not only young intellectuals, but older refugees from Russia, who just want to hear the language.

One of these upset him during a performance Saturday night by asking why he didn't denounce Stalin in his poetry. Since Yevtushenko made his name primarily by his denunciations of Stalin and of anti-semitism in the Soviet Union, he was somewhat taken aback by this question.

The woman who asked the question said she spoke no English and Yevtushenko told her:

"You apparently don't read Russian either if you can ask a question like that."

JOLSON STORY HIS STORY, FIRM PLEDGES

READING, England (CP)—A Berkshire man who claims to be the world's greatest Al Jolson fan will be glad when the movie, The Al Jolson Story, is withdrawn by the distributors. The company has promised to give a copy to him when it has finished public showings. Charles Wheeler, 35, has seen it 124 times and wants to add the film to his collection of records, pictures and other Jolsoniana.

PAIR MAY HAVE FOUND MISSING METEORITE

SALMON ARM (CP)—Prospectors J. A. Reid and George Newman said Saturday they have found what they believe is the remains of a meteorite that flashed across British Columbia skies on the night of March 17, 1964.

They said they found a yellowish-brown rock, 20 inches long, 16 inches wide and 14 inches deep, in the Seymour Arm area, 50 miles north of Salmon Arm.

STILTON MAKERS SNIFF AT INFERIOR RIVALS

LONDON (CP) — A ripe Stilton cheese entered England's High Court of Justice one day last week and testified mutely but powerfully to its own uniqueness.

The aromatic testimony formed part of a continuing appeal by Stilton makers for legal protection against any imitations from Canada and Denmark.

Nine manufacturers from a region around Melton Mowbray, Leicestershire, who form the Stilton Cheesemakers' Association, are appealing against the refusal of the Registrar of Trade Marks to copyright the name Stilton and a crown motif.

"This is a case of considerable importance to the makers and possibly to all those who appreciate good cheese and do not want to see an inferior quality cheese masquerading under the name of Stilton," said the association's lawyer.

There is a real danger of cheese coming from abroad and being sold as Canadian Stilton or Danish Stilton, the lawyer said.

The court was reminded that cheddar cheese, which originated from an area around the Cheddar Gorge in the west of England, is made now "in all kinds of places," including Canada.

Canadian cheddar is the elite of cheddars sold in England, at least in price. It is generally more expensive than either English or New Zealand cheddar.

Stilton, the court was told, began to be made about 200 years ago to a formula known at first to only one person. It got its name when a female kin of the maker married the landlord of the Bell Inn at Stilton, a village in Huntingdonshire which now numbers 455 residents, and the innkeeper began marketing the cheese outside its home area. Sales of Stilton have averaged $2,700,000 annually over the last three years.

Ballet Master Leads Chorus Against Whites

By TOM HOGE

UNITED NATIONS (AP)—In UN councils where black power has become a compelling fact of life, a lithe young African ballet master is calling the tune these days.

Virtually every debate with colonial or racial overtones is dominated by Marof Achkar, 36 - year - old former choreographer of Ballets Africains who now is Guinea's ambassador to the United Nations.

Guinea is one of the black states making up the hard core of the 38-nation African group. This group can muster the strength to make or break any proposal on race relations before it even reaches the debating stage.

Achkar's hatred of white supremacy has inspired bitter attacks on UN members dealing with the race questions relating to South Africa, Rhodesia and Portugal. Even his African colleagues sometimes wince.

JAPANESE WHITE

Achkar attacked Japan for carrying on a $50,000,000 trade with South Africa, and asserted that the South African government has stretched its segregation policies to include Japanese in the white race.

Last year, when Foreign Minister Hilgard Muller of South Africa appeared before the General Assembly to defend his government's policies, at a signal from the Guinean envoy nearly three-fourths of the assembly members stalked out of the hall.

As a student 19 years ago at the Breguet engineering school in Paris, Achkar was stranded without funds and was unable to return to his homeland, where French authorities viewed him as a political bombshell.

To get money to eat, he rallied half a dozen other young Guinean students and formed a dance troupe which was to become famous as the Ballets Africains.

"Our aim went further than mere entertainment," Achkar recalls. "We were determined to win sympathy for our cause . . . by adapting our native folk dances to the ballet form and thus show Europe that we were no savages . . ."

CAPTIVATED EUROPE

Under Achkar's direction, the dancers captured the fancy of Europeans with their feline grace and primitive abandon.

For more than 10 years, Achkar guided the destinies of the Ballets Africains. It became a national institution and the cherished goal of every young Guinean with terpsichorean ambitions.

However, the potential might of Africa with its host of newly emerging states fascinated Achkar and he was determined to latch on to the flaming kite.

In 1959, a year after Guinea won independence, he got an assignment as attache to the infant nation's UN mission in New York. From then on, his rise was meteoric.

Endowed with a keen intellect, he also had a sense of the dramatic. His style of oratory was flamboyant, but a cut above the rabble-rousing technique of many young African leaders.

Rising to the rank of ambassador in three years, Achkar became a power in the African circle. In 1962, he headed a team sent to investigate conditions in the Portuguese territory of Angola. The following year, he was named chairman of the General Assembly's important committee on trusteeship.

In 1964, Achkar won the post of chairman of a special committee on apartheid (race segregation) which he still holds.

By this time, the volatile spokesman for Guinea had become a source of uneasiness among older members. They felt that the world forum, dedicated to the cause of peace, was becoming a sounding board for African propaganda blasts.

Achkar's crusade against white Africa reacheda n explosive pitch in the assembly's general policy debate this year.

"As far as we are concerned, we are conscious of the fact that nobody, including the Unied Nations, will liberate Africa for the Africans," he declared.

This, he said, is a job for the Africans alone and to do it, they must organize guerrilla teams modelled after the Viet Cong in South Viet Nam.

MUST PROD UN

"Only then will the United Nations take decisive measures," Achkar told the hushed chamber, "after factories, dams, mines and plantations belonging to, or financed by, the commercial and economic partners in South Africa, Portugal and Rhodesia, have exploded or burned under the devastating blows dealt by African-type Viet Cong."

Achkar makes no bones about his desire to see the governments of South Africa, Rhodesia, Angola and Mozambique overthrown as soon as possible. But he is realist enough not to echo the vague proposal of some African leaders to send an all-African army in to do the job.

"Achkar is smart enough to realize that the Organization of African Unity which decides such matters is too unwieldy to act,' said one veteran diplomat.

Achkar is convinced, however, that the regimes he opposes can be toppled from the inside.

"Some day, perhaps sooner than we think, the oppressed blacks in South Africa will rise up in a social struggle that will overthrow their white rulers."

Drug Price Shopping Surprising

OTTAWA (CP) — Examples of wide differences in prescription drug prices in the same city were reported to the Commons drug prices inquiry last week along with suggestions as to the cause.

Bryce Mackasey (L—Montreal Verdun) said he recently took the same prescription to three Ottawa drug stores and was given three different prices — $12, $8 and $5.

Later he checked with a drug salesman and saw invoices showing all three stores bought this drug at the same price, in the $2-$2.50 range.

He quoted the incident in asking witnesses from the Consumers Association of Canada whether their members could do "a little shopping" on the price question.

Mrs. A. F. W. Plumptre of Toronto, a former CAC president, said association members had already supplied some data. One Ottawa woman got a prescription from her doctor and was advised by him to shop around for the best price.

PRICES VARIED $15

One store asked $20 and another $5. Later a survey showed the price of this particular drug had levelled off at $6.50.

It was often found that druggists didn't like to be asked to quote a price before the prescription was filled, Mrs. Plumptre said.

Dr. Modest Pernarowski of the University of British Columbia, another CAC witness, said the association hopes to do an extensive survey of drug prices. But it would require funds and the co-operation of doctors.

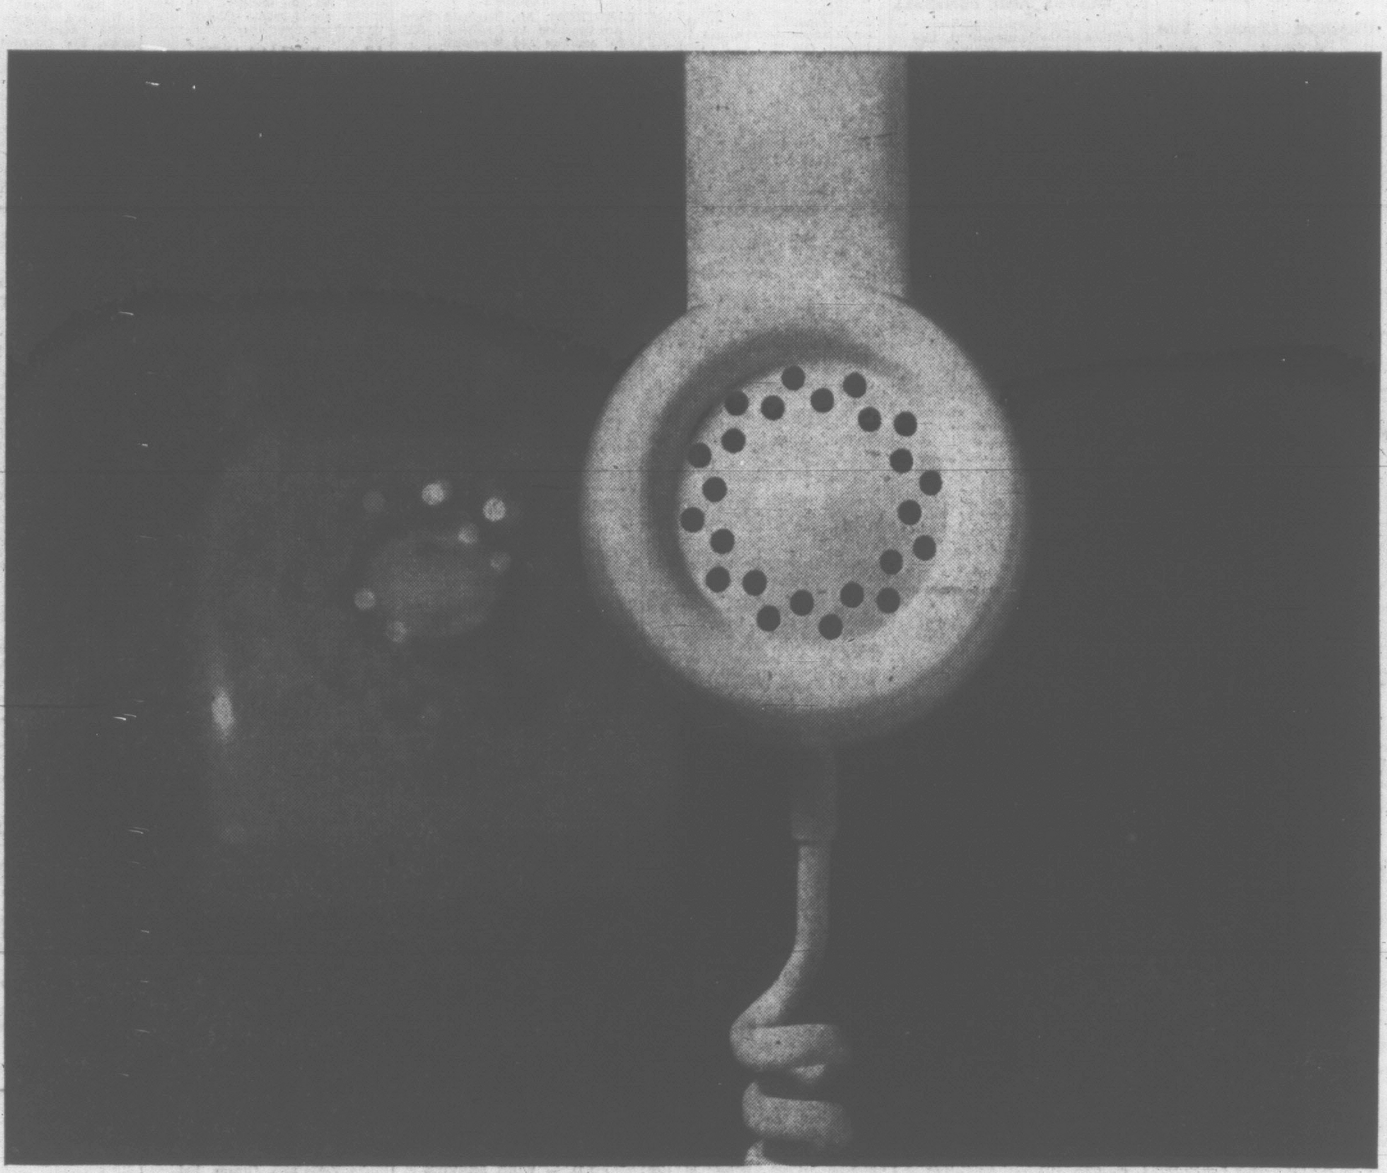
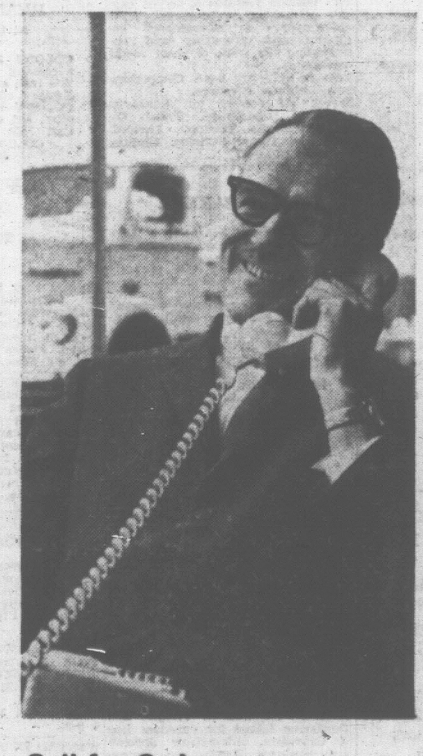
Salesman-of-the-year



The secret of making a business grow is, in most cases, quite simple—win more and more customers spread over a wider and wider area. Nothing helps you find them, sell them, satisfy them and re-sell them so quickly and economically as the skilled use of your telephone. Here are just a few profit-making ideas.



Call for Orders

This big-city truck dealer has no problem about keeping in touch with his many customers and prospects in distant parts of the province.

Head office sales staff follow up leads, arrange demonstrations, solicit orders and maintain contact with established customers by a carefully planned routine of Long Distance calls.

Think of the convenience! He has his customers at his fingertips and keeps right up with their requirements. Cost is negligible compared with operating local offices.

Finally, this dealer also lists a ZENITH number in key centres like Nanaimo, Kamloops and Prince George. It enables customers and prospects there to call him without cost to themselves—another valuable business-builder!

Salesman on the Wing

This salesman is on a trip through his company's market area, extending from Vancouver to the Lakehead. One of the most useful things he carries is his B.C. TEL Long Distance Credit Card.

This enables him to make Long Distance calls from anywhere. He uses it constantly to confirm appointments at his next stopover and contact inconveniently located accounts.

He also keeps in daily touch, of course, with head office: reporting on progress; channelling orders, queries and complaints for fast action; collecting fresh leads as he flies from point to point.

His periodic "swing through the territory" is quite an expensive item of overhead. Long Distance ensures, at minimum cost, that his company gets every last cent of value from it.

"Touring" by Phone

This busy Sales Manager "tours" his area in a morning—with B.C. TEL's Sequence Calling service.

He simply gives the operator the list of Long Distance numbers he wants. She gets them for him in the right order and at the intervals most convenient for his other work.

He holds regular Conference Calls, too, with his company's three other offices in Calgary, Winnipeg and Toronto—all four of them on the line together, talking and listening as though they were in the same room.

There's no end to the profit-making uses of properly planned Long Distance calling. Ask one of our experienced Communication Consultants to explain some of the possibilities for your business—naturally without obligation. Contact him TODAY.

EXCEPT IT BE

Except it be our own, there is no death,
No death beyond beliefs that we have known;
If we but pass and issue out our breath,
'Tis resurrection rolls away a stone!

Indeed, no tomb awaits us, nor a grave,
Beneath the sod so opened out at last;
Why, what we bury there we cannot save,
If we but see that death is ever past!

Look forward! So we bid ourselves it seems,
That when our time has come we simply go;
For what was ours is lost to us in dreams,
There's nothing here for us to see or know!

BRIDGE LESSON

By OSWALD and JAMES JACOBY
Newspaper Enterprise Association

South's four-heart call was an all-purpose bid. He wasn't sure that he would be able to make it. In fact, he rather expected not to make it; on the other hand, his partner had passed as dealer, the opponents were vulnerable and South was really afraid of the spade suit.

We don't give our full seal of approval to South's bid but we have always felt that a player who makes such bids should be able to get maximum mileage out of his cards when he gets around to playing the dummy.

West opened the king of spades and continued. South ruffed the second spade and led a club to dummy. East dropped the nine spot. Then South finessed the heart unsuccessfully.

If West had been one of those wooden-type players he would have led another spade but West had seen his partner's nine of clubs. West led a second club. The defence wound up with one trick in each suit and 50 points on their side of the ledger.

South explained that if the trump finesse had worked he would have made his game and that East and West could have made three spades. He was right about all that but he should have made his contract.

There is no rule requiring declarer to play trumps right away. South was looking at a potential loser in clubs but he had a potential spot to get rid of that loser. South should have played ace and another diamond the first time he was in. West's best defence would be to take his king and shoot a diamond back. South would play low from dummy and ruff. Then he could lead out ace and another trump and it wouldn't matter where the king was. South would be able to get rid of the losing club on the queen of diamonds.

Andy Stephen Looks at TV

CBC-TV is suddenly paying a lot of attention to the ratings picture in Canada.

For the first time, the publicly-owned corporation is ballyhooing not only the audience figures taken by the A. C. Nielsen Co. of Canada, but also its own independent survey, the National Audience Panel.

Stephen

Fourteen CBC-produced television programs attracted weekly audiences of more than 1,000,000 persons during the last week of September and the first week of October, according to Nielsen. Of these 14, five drew more than 2,000,000 viewers and the top two exceeded the 3,000,000 mark.

This corner finds it hard to believe but CBC says Nielsen says some 3,200,000 people watched the Tommy Hunter Show, making it the most viewed Canadian program on television and rank it fourth among all programs seen in Canada.

CBC's own National Audience Panel puts "Wojeck" in this preferred position.

Tommy Hunter trailed only Bonanza (about 4,000,000), the Ed Sullivan Show and Beverly Hillbillies and outrates such imports as Get Smart and Red Skelton (in the 3,000,000 bracket).

Tommy Hunter? Yes, Clyde, Tommy Hunter. Remarkable.

Flashback audiences numbered just over 3,000,000, while Don Messer attracted slightly under that figure. The figures place the two above such U.S. products as Bob Hope, The Man From U.N.C.L.E., and Green Acres.

Telescope, Galapagos and Front Page Challenge drew loosely between 1.5 and 2,000,000.

1.3 million watched CFL football. Tommy Hunter beat football? Yes, Clyde, Tommy Hunter. Fantastic.

★ ★ ★

SHORT CIRCUIT: CJVI has dropped Dick Batey and his dinner hour editorial commentary. He had occupied the slot for the past 13 years, so it was quite a wrench not only for regular listeners but Dick, too.

The station, trying to attract listeners in the face of stronger ~~local~~ radio competition, imported Ken Goddard from Edmonton. Dick Batey has been placed in the production manager's chair.

Between them they hope to fashion a new station sound, including a different way in which to present news editorials.

200 Women Flee Fire In Vancouver Apartment

VANCOUVER (CP) — Police and fire officials still probing the smoking ruins of a six-storey West End apartment block said Sunday it was a miracle that the more than 200 tenants — all of them women — escaped unhurt in the three-alarm blaze.

The fire broke out Saturday night in a fifth-storey apartment in the two-wing Washington Court block which caters to women tenants. Many of the women, including working girls and older women, had already gone out for the evening.

Those still in the 40-year-old building when the alarm was given made quick exits down inside and outside fire escapes. Many had to flee into the street with only the clothes they were wearing

There was no immediate official estimate of damage in fire which left the big block a shell. But one spokesman said it would certainly run into the hundreds of thousands of dollars.

Hundreds of Vancouver residents and a number of voluntary agencies answered an appeal by police to provide accommodation for the homeless women, at least for the night.

Within an hour of the appeal all necessary accommodation had been found. A relief fund was started to aid the displaced women.

Only injuries reported were to four firemen, one of whom fell from a ladder while fighting the stubborn fire in the frame building, which has a four-inch brick facing and housed between 200 and 210 women, many of them sharing self-contained apartments.

Hundreds of curious sightseers flocked to the area at Nelson and Thurlow streets, forcing police to cordon off the area with ropes to permit firemen to get on with their job.

At the height of the blaze, high-tension electrical cables passing beside the block burned through with a successive series of electrical flashes, throwing a six-block area into darkness for a time.

Occupants of nearby apartments were evacuated when it became apparent walls of the doomed building might topple. Tenants of one apertment next door were not permitted to return Saturday night and had to be accommodated elsewhere. Even nearby St. Paul's Hospital accommodated some of those displaced.

CURE FOR MORNING AFTER

Hang or Hung, It's the Same And U.K. Has a Pill for IT

LONDON (AP) — "This is the first hangover cure we've ever offered the public," said the man behind the drug store counter.

He held up a small plastic tube of pills and smiled.

"Does it work?"

"We would hardly be selling it, sir, if we didn't believe in it."

His shop is one of a chain, a big chain with a long and respected reputation.

In a voice softened by years of discreet inquiry into the aches and pains of men, women and children, he asked ever so gently:

"Are you, sir, as they say, hanged over?"

"Yes, I'm not feeling very well, but we say hung over, not hanged over."

"Really, sir?" he chuckled. "Comes to the same thing though, what?"

"What what?"

"Hanged over and hung over," he answered, and then down to business.

On the side of the little tube, in black letters, the makers say the pellets are for hangovers.

Orange in color, the pills are about the size of an average-sized man's little fingernail.

Back home this consumer consumed not one but two, and waited.

In about 15 minutes the end of the world seemed less imminent . . . the little man with the hammer stopped his violent pounding inside the skull . . . the brown furry taste in the mouth tasted less brown and furry . . . and the cat moving across the carpet ceased stamping.

Britain's newly advertised hangover cure, soba, is the brainchild of Howard L. Rice, of Laurice of London. He says he has clinically tested it on 1,000 men and women all suffering from hangovers.

The Dunlop committee on safety of drugs, a standing committee, tested soba for side effects. The committee reported it found none, and passed the pills for sale and consumption.

Said Rice:

"It is a simple fact that something gets lost when you drink. So, what we've tried to do is to replace what has been lost."

He said the most things are vitamins in the B group.

"We've put them in the pills," said Rice.

He emphasized that his product will be tested for safety in every country to which it goes, will not go on sale until it is passed. So Rice urges patience

The orange pills could prove heartening objects to some.

Eddie Condon, the jazz musician, once said:

"To cure a hangover, take the juice of a quart of whisky."

Atcor Robert Mitchum suggests brandy and bread.

Others have advocated everything from beer laced with raw eggs to the hair of the dog that bit you.

Still others maintain there is no cure for a hangover.

Howard L. Rice is challenging them.

English Pointer Top Dog

An eight-month-old imported English Pointer was picked best of 93 dogs Sunday in a sanction show at Sidney presented by the Vancouver Island Dog Fanciers' Association.

Grousemoor Tankerlsey Warbler, owned by Mr. and Mrs. William Brennan, 3225 Albion Rd., automatically picked up the Best Puppy in Show rosette as well.

Another puppy, a Basenji owned by Mrs. Margaret Robertson, 2826 Tudor Ave., was judged best Canadian-bred dog and best Canadian-bred puppy in show.

A total of 53 dogs took part in a parade of champions prior to the judging.

Group winners:

Sporting dogs: Mr. and Mrs. Brennan's Pointer, the best in show winner.

Sporting hounds: Mrs. Robertson's Basenji, the best Canadian-bred dog and puppy in show.

Working dogs: A collie owned by John McCoy, Beaver Lake Road, Saanich.

Terriers: A West Highland Terrier owned by Edith Humby, 3731 Duke Rd.

Toys: A pug owned by Mr. McCoy.

Non-sporting: A miniature poodle owned by Mrs. R. A. Peterson of Duncan.

Judges were Mrs. William Fraser and Christine Mullin, both of Vancouver.

Caesar Conquers In Wet Ride Through Park

Imperial blood told in Sunday's wet but well-attended Garden City Horsemen's Club-sponsored trail ride at Beaver Lake Park.

An elderly and steady Thoroughbred named Caesar, ridden by Richard Cook, captured the senior division perpetual challenge trophy in the two-hour ride over the park's woodland trails.

Floyd Adams, in Celvor's Skidoo-Two, placed behind Mr. Cook in the competition, which despite pelting rain drew well over two-thirds of its entry list of 63 riders.

Third in the senior class was Deedee Richards, riding Cricket.

Teresa de Groot won the junior division trophy. Her mount was Silver Bell.

Second and third junior riders were Jimmy Bissenden on Princess and Karen Foyer on Max.

All Santas Asked To Take TB Tests

Santa Claus is being asked to co-operate this year in stamping out tuberculosis in B.C.

D. A. Geekie, executive secretary, TB Christmas Seal Society, has written all department store managers, and those shopping centres which normally employ a Santa Claus, to ask that these jolly gentlemen each have a tuberculin skin test and chest X-ray prior to taking up their duties this month.

The action is being taken this year as 60 per cent of all TB cases in the province is among men over the age of 40, the age group which most Santa Clauses fall into.

The society suggests that Santa be screened through the store's regular medical services when such exist, or the nearest free chest X-ray unit.

'Definite Problem Areas of TB'

The B.C. Tuberculosis-Christmas Seal program, which has in the past six years examined more than 1,000,000 British Columbians, is planning to focus its services on age groups and areas particularly afflicted by TB.

Announcing the 1966 Christmas Seal campaign, society president R. A. Barbard said this province "has some very defiite problem areas."

"There is no doubt that those over 40, particularly men, are our major problem," said Mr. Barnard.

"Over 60 per cent of all tuberculosis patients in this province are over 50 years of age — and there are three men for every woman."

He said areas with a "real" TB problem were Prince Rupert, Hope, downtown Vancouver and Kamloops.

Of the 1,200,000 who have received free TB skin tests and X-rays on mobile clinics since 1960, 12,000 were referred for further examination for "medically significant chest conditions."

The Christmas Seal campaign hopes to realize approximately $360,000 this year.

BRIDGMAN CUP STAYS AT QUEEN MARGARET'S

The Bridgman Cup, one of the major prizes in Vancouver Island woman's field hockey circles, will be resting in the halls of Queen Margaret's School for another year.

The Duncan girls successfully defended the title Saturday, defeating Oak Bay's first squad 1-0 in the finals of the 16-team tournament at Lansdowne Junior High.

Heroine of the victory was Jennifer Horn, who scored the only goal in the well-played final.

Oak Bay reached the final by blanking St. Margaret's 2-0, while Queen Margaret, held to a scoreless draw by Norfolk House, won its semi-final on the strength of corners.

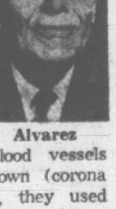
Heart Attacks Are Explained

By DR. WALTER C. ALVAREZ

I am often asked, What is coronary thrombosis? What causes it, and what relation has it to myocardial infarction, arteriosclerosis, and angina pectoris? What do these terms mean?



Alvarez

The word coronary refers to the two big arteries that go around the top of the heart. Because the early anatomists thought of these two blood vessels as part of a crown (corona meaning crown), they used this term. A thrombus is a blood clot, and hence thrombosis means a clotting of the blood, particularly in an artery.

If the clot is large, the artery can be completely plugged up, and this will lead to the temporary or permanent loss of function of the bit of muscle which normally receives blood from the injured artery. If the bit of muscle dies, and the patient does not die, the dead muscle will be replaced by a scar. Because the impulse that shoots down from the upper part, or base, of the heart to the lower part, or apex, will have to go around the dead bit of muscle, the electrocardiogram will be changed. The electrocardiogram is the record of the electoral changes which take place in the heart as the wave of contraction goes from the base to the apex.

Myocardial infraction is the technical term for the destruction of a bit of heart muscle. Myo means muscle, cardia means heart, and infarction means a destruction of a bit of tissue due to the loss of its blood supply. If the damage to the heart muscle is severe, and the heart has to overwork in order to do the pumping it must do, nerves may seem to cry out in distress, and the man will suffer from angina pectoris. Angina means pain, and pectoris refers to the chest. Such pain comes with exertion or violent emotion.

The next question is, What is arteriosclerosis, or the more modern atherosclerosis? Arterio refers to a blood vessel, and sclerosis means a hardening. The wall of an artery can become full of hard scar tissue and the bore of the tube can thereby be greatly narrowed. Athero comes from a Greek word meaning mush. The idea is that the inner lining of an artery, instead of being very smooth and slick, becomes roughened.

★ ★ ★

Why do we get hardening and narrowing and roughening of arteries? Big books have been written about this. Briefly, I can say that the hard-working, thin laborers in the Orient — men who get no milk or cream or butter, and very little meat or fat, and who remain thin all their days — rarely get diseased arteries.

CHAMPAGNE IN A CONE COMING UP

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — Children soon may be asking mother for some change to buy champagne or even a daquiri. Then they'll take the money and dash off a buy champagne-flavored ice cream or daquiri-flavored sherbert.

This is envisioned by the U.S. ice cream industry as it turns to more exotic flavors to entice the ever-increasing number of Americans with gourmet appetites.

The ice cream may contain a small amount of alcohol "to characterize the flavor of the product," says a spokesman for the International Association of Ice Cream Manufacturers.

"But no one is going to get stoned eating ice cream," he hastened to add.

Kahlua, a coffee-flavored liqueur ice cream, is on the market today, but doesn't contain any alcohol.

Pink champagne sherbert has been a favorite in Oregon for years.

Other possibilities may be cordials such as creme-de-menthe-flavored creams, said the spokesman, John F. Speer Jr., executive assistant of the ice cream association which recently held its annual convention in Atlantic City.

USE RUM

Egg-nog ice cream with a dash of rum has been marketed during Christmas at selected specialty shops and higher-priced restaurants.

Speer said the "public doesn't stay with exotics for too long."

"They enjoy a fling and then people turn back to the old standbys — vanilla and chocolate.".

Almost 50 per cent of all ice cream manufactured in the U.S. is vanilla. Chocolate ranks second with 13 per cent. There are 200 flavors of ice cream.

But for those who don't like liquor, there will be watermelon- and canteloupe-flavored creams in the near future.

ASK ANDY

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes.

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Andy sends a complete 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Carroll R. Ransom, age 14, of Dallas, Texas, for his question:

What is the meaning of thermoluminescence?

Lucifer was the old Roman name for Venus when this golden planet played the role of the bright Morning Star. At such times, Venus is the herald of the day — and Lucifer meant the Light Bringer. Dozens of our words sprang from the same origins — and thermoluminescence is one of them

Often you can carve up a big word such as thermoluminescence and find reasonable meanings in each of the pieces. In this case we need to make only one cut and it goes after thermo. Let's leave the first slice of the big, beautiful word and concentrate on luminescence, the second slice. The sun is a luminary and so is a light-giving star. We illuminate our homes with lamps and, luminous objects shed light. The lumen is a unit for measuring light by standard candle power.

These words will remind you of similar ones and no doubt you can make a longer list of them. All of them refer to some aspect of light, and all of them are coined from the same older word for light. Many of them are scientific terms with precise meanings that are limited to some specific aspect of light.

One of these is luminescence. This term refers to light from certain unusual sources. It is not the light from a burning fire or from a candle or any usual form of incandescence. Luminescence. Luminescence is light created by a variety of other sources. Sometimes an extra syllable is added to give a clue to the type of luminescence. This creates terms such as bioluminescence and electroluminescence, chemicoluminescence and autoluminescence, crystalloluminescence and our old friend thermoluminescence.

Own Light

We find bioluminescence in biology, the science of living things. It is the light created by fireflies and deep sea fishes, the eerie glow given off by certain fungi and a host of other plants and animals. When a thunderhead discharges its electricity it lights up the sky with a flash of electroluminescence. Certain minerals are agitated by ultraviolet rays and give up this extra energy energy in the form of photoluminescence, more commonly called fluorescence. If the glow continues after the ultraviolet is stopped, the glow is called phosphorescence.

Now let's return to the first slice of our big word. As in thermal and thermometer it refers to heat. But not in this case to normal burning. This special glow occurs after exposure to cathode rays or to light. Certain minerals and chemicals then can be gently warmed and made to glow with thermoluminescence. The thermo refers to the slight heat needed to trigger energy gathered from some other source.

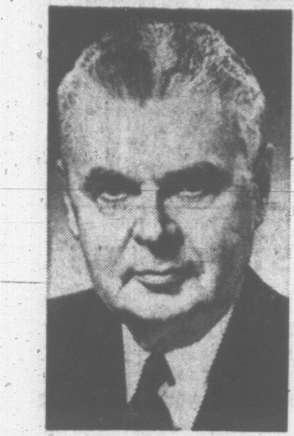
Air Canada Flights Halted As Machinist Strike Starts

Dief Suffers Big Setback At Meeting

OTAWA (CP)—The anti-Diefenbaker faction in the Conservative party won a smashing victory Sunday night that may signal the approaching end of the Rt. Hon. John G. Diefenbaker as party leader.



DIEFENBAKER

MALONEY
. . . agenda changed

On the surface, the victory appeared to be only a procedural one.

But in effect it was the first successful step, after three abortive revolts against Mr. Diefenbaker, toward a leadership convention.

Even before the convention proper opened today, many delegates were asking each other: How soon can a leadership convention be called?

Dalton Camp of Toronto, national Conservative president who seeks a review of the party leadership, announced after a three-hour Sunday night meeting of the national executive that party headquarters' attempt to relegate the election of officers to late Wednesday had been overturned.

Instead, by a "comfortable margin," the 140-member executive had re-scheduled the crucial election of officers for 2:30 p.m. EST Tuesday.

SEEKS RE-ELECTION

Mr. Camp is seeking re-election as president on the understanding that his return would mean a call for a leadership convention, probably within a year.

Arthur Maloney, Toronto lawyer, is opposing Mr. Camp for the presidency as a self-styled Diefenbaker admirer and advocate of an end to factional strife within the party over the leadership question.

The change in agenda means that the some 1,300 delegates will vote by secret ballot on the presidency before the usual vote of confidence in the leader.

It remains to be decided whether the vote on the leadership will be by secret ballot or as in the past, by a standing vote. At the 1964 convention, a move for a secret ballot on the leadership was overwhelmingly defeated.

Mr. Diefenbaker, 71, and party leader since 1956, survived a cabinet rebellion in 1963 and a national executive insurrection last year.

Mr. Maloney said he would support, despite misgivings, a periodic leadership review if a majority favored changing the constitution to this effect.

Mr. Maloney described the agenda fight as a "ridiculous fiasco" and "perfectly disgraceful." If he were elected, it would never happen again.

However, he would not contest the new agenda and knew of no moves to do so.

A smiling Mr. Camp told a press conference that the principal officers of the party voted 6 to 1 with one abstention to recommend to the executive that it change the agenda.

There had been "almost total

TORIES TOLD:

'Liberal Eyes Are Upon Us'

OTTAWA (CP) — Conservative Leader Diefenbaker delivered a "blast the Liberals" speech today to a cheering, applauding audience of 300 women delegates to his party's annual meeting.

He came out on the offensive as expected against a group within the party seeking a reassessment of his leadership. And he warned that Liberals want a Conservative party "frozen in reaction."

"The eyes of the Liberal party are upon us," Mr. Diefenbaker told members of the

CONVENTION ALL BUT OVER?

Go-Go Girls Departed After Maloney Defeat

By DAVE McINTOSH

OTTAWA (CP)—Room 380 in the Chateau Laurier was subdued and almost empty late Sunday night.

Room 580, two floors directly above, was boiling with activity, singing and shouting. The party spilled into the corridor.

Room 380 belongs to Arthur Maloney, pro-Diefenbaker candidate for the national presidency of the Conservative party.

Room 580 is occupied by Dalton Camp, anti-Diefenbaker candidate seeking re-election as president.

The stunning contrast developed less than an hour after a smiling Mr. Camp announced that party headquarters' attempt to hold the all-important election of officers late Wednesday had been overturned by the national executive. The election will be held Tuesday.

Only a few hours before, the Maloney faction with girls in mini-skirts and a band had all but taken over the hotel lobby.

After the agenda announcement, Mr. Maloney sat disconsolately in his room with a small group of reporters.

He talked bravely — as bravely, one thought, as Paul Martin when he tried for the Liberal leadership against Lester B. Pearson in 1958.

There was only a handful of delegates in the room. It was littered with empty cups and glasses, discarded papers, soiled tablecloths and crackers ground into the rug.

Mr. Maloney could be heard very easily by the reporters—

Israel Attacks Jordan

Arab Nations Volunteer Aid

JERUSALEM (UPI) — Jordan's Arab neighbors flocked to her side today, vowing to liquidate "Zionist imperialism" in retaliation for Israel's land and air attacks Sunday inside Jordan.

United Nations observers worked frantically to keep the conflict from engulfing the Middle East in war.

UN peace teams arranged a shaky cease-fire along the Jordan border. But Syria, backing its threats with actions, struck back on a second front with a day-long attack on a collective farm near the Sea of Galilee.

Israeli armored columns slashed into Jordan in a four-hour raid starting at dawn Sunday. They smashed a police post, seized one and attacked two others, blew up 40 homes and fought pitched battles with crack Arab legion troops.

AIR DUELS

Overhead Israeli jets fought air duels with Jordanian fighters seeking to repulse the attack. Both sides threw tanks and artillery into the battle.

Both sides claimed to have inflicted heavy blows on the other. Some of the casualties were civilians.

The outburst was the most serious Arab-Israeli confrontation since the Israeli invasion of Sinai in 1956 which brought war with the United Arab Republic and triggered intervention by French and British troops.

Jordan went on a war footing and Arab radios throughout the Middle East filled the air waves with martial music.

Israeli officials said the attack was launched in "self-defence" after a series of 14 inside Israel. The latest was a mine explosion Saturday in raids by Arab terrorist squads which three Israeli soldiers were killed and six wounded.

FORCES ALERTED

In Jordan, Amman radio said all civil defence forces had been alerted, leaves for military personnel cancelled and doctors and nurses ordered to their posts.

Pakistani President Mohammad Ayub Khan, who flew into Amman for a state visit as the Israeli raiders struck, denounced the attack and pledged his nation would back Jordan against "Israeli aggression" with "all means for reaching final victory."

Sayed Noufal, assistant secretary-general of the 13-nation Arab League, said in Cairo the incident was tantamount to aggression against all Arab nations. He said the league was contacting all its members to appraise the situation.

First Tieup In 29 Years

By Times News Services

The first strike in the 29-year history of Air Canada grounded all planes at 1 p.m. today.

The giant Crown-owned airline was struck by 5,200 maintenance men who ignored a last-minute back-to-work appeal by Labor Minister John Nicholson.

The men, members of the International Association of Machinists, rejected a proposal by federal mediator Richard Geddes for an 18-per-cent wage increase over a two-year period.

The union is demanding 20 per cent in a one-year pact.

As Air Canada crews walked off the job, other carriers which included Canadian Pacific Airlines along with Pacific Western in Vancouver, were making arrangements to fly some of the routes normally served by Air Canada.

4,000 LAID OFF

About 4,000 employees, not belonging to the machinists' union, were laid off as the planes trickled back to their home bases.

Only supervisors and clerical staff remained on the job.

The last Air Canada flight, a Vanguard bound for Toronto, left Dorval airport at 11 a.m.

An international flight from London was expected to land at Montreal's International Airport at 2 p.m., one hour after the strike began.

The work stoppage by the machinists stopped what is estimated to be 80 per cent of Canada's civil air transport facilities. Air Canada's domestic and international services are involved

LONG STRIKE SEEN

As negotiations fizzled in Montreal during the weekend, the two sides seemed far apart and there were indications of a long strike.

The walkout comes at a time when Canadians are concerned over a possible walkout by the country's postal workers.

The postal unions have told a government-appointed mediator they will set a strike date Wednesday if a pay dispute is not resolved by then.

Mr. Nicholson's telegrams were sent to officials of the machinists' associations and Air Canada Sunday night, calling on them to try again for a settlement as a matter of national interes.

Officials of he publicly-owned airline had no comment on the telegram while the union replied to Mr. Nicholson saying the further negotiations he wanted "would serve no useful purpose at this time."

The union was ready to talk if a "reasonable offer" was made but it would take two days to get the union's negotiating team together again.

The talks that had been going in Montreal collapsed com-

LOCAL TRAFFIC STOPPED

Scheduled air flights in Victoria came to a halt this morning as members of the International Association of Machinists joined the national strike against Air Canada.

But a spokesman for Victoria Flying Services reported an upswing in requests for charter service to Vancouver and Seattle.

Air Canada normally runs six flights to Vancouver and two to Seattle each day.

This morning, there were two flights to Vancouver, one from Vancouver, and one to Seattle. Service ended after the 10:40 a.m. flight to Vancouver and the strike officially began at 1 p.m.

Between 20 and 25 union members are involved locally. They load and unload airplanes but no servicing of aircraft is done here.

600 USE SERVICE

Local Air Canada manager Stan Mooney said an average 300 persons fly from Victoria each day to Vancouver and Seattle with about the same number coming in.

The company also handles freight, air express and mail which is being rerouted by truck over ferries to the mainland.

The Post Office said closing times for trucking mail to Vancouver are 1 a.m., noon and 6 p.m. daily. Closing times for mail going east of Vancouver is 1 a.m. and noon.

Similar arrangements have been made to get mail from the mainland onto Vancouver Island.

Victoria Flying Services has 12 aircraft ready for charter use. Each one can carry three to six passengers.

A spokesman said federal regulations allow their use only on a charter basis and not as a scheduled run.

Cost for three persons in one airplane is $8 each, or $12 each if there are only two.

The company also runs a seaplane service from the Inner Harbor to Vancouver Harbor although there was "no upswing" in demand for this service this morning.

ALIGHTING from a camel today at the Savoy Hotel in London is Vera Khamis, Miss Jordan, to attend a luncheon given by the Variety Club of Great Britain for contestants for the Miss World title. The contest is next Thursday. (AP Wirephoto.)

Mailmen to Set Date Wednesday

OTTAWA (CP) — A deadline will be announced Wednesday, not Tuesday, for a wildcat strike of postal workers across the country, a postal union leader said today.

Bill Kay, president of the Canadian Union of Postal Workers, said mediation talks with Mr. Justice Andre Montpetit of Montreal likely will continue for at least two more days.

"If we're not successful between now and then we'll set a strike date Wednesday," he told reporters after a morning session with the mediator.

Earlier reports said the strike deadline would be announced Tuesday, the date announced two weeks ago for such action.

Further talks between the mediator and union negotiators were scheduled this afternoon.

The unions are demanding a pay increase of 20 per cent immediately and a further 19 per cent next year. The civil service commission has offered an interim increase of six per cent for the 20,000 post office workers.

Under law, federal employees cannot go on strike. They are subject to dismissal if they are off work for more than a few days without good reason.

BUZZ COOLY CLICKS MILKY WAY, EARTH PICTURES

Fatigue Problem Beaten in Record U.S. Spacewalk

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) Spacewalk champion Edwin E. (Buzz) Aldrin Jr. thrust head and shoulders out a Gemini 12 door today and cooly clicked pictures of the sunrise, Milky Way and earth—the last adventure by a U.S. astronuat outside a spaceship until 1968.

Thephoto session — most of which was performed out of range from earth tracking stations with a minimum of conversation heard on the ground—lasted slightly longer than the 40 minutes originally planned.

"We've got a little leg room here for a change," command pilot James A. Lovell Jr. said, referring to the fact that Aldrin had dumped unneeded equipment overboard while the hatch was open.

"Keep space clean," Mission Control Centre in Houston, Tex., said.

"NORAD will have a fit keeping track of all those bits and pieces," Lovell quipped. NORAD is the North American Defence Command, which keps track of all orbiting objects.

The pilots used more fuel than expected during Aldrin's time outside, cutting off plans to remain outside over the United States to photograph terrain.

"That was a pretty expensive EVA (extra-vehicular activity) in the way of fuel," reported command pilot James A. Lovell Jr.

"We used 20 to 25 per cent."

The U.S. Space agency said Aldrin's hatch opened about 9:53 a.m. EST and closed 52 minutes later.

While outside, however, Aldrin successfully photographed stars and terrain features. The "space stand" boosted his record space exposure time to 5½ hours.

The next U.S. walk is not scheduled until 1968 on the fourth manned earth - orbital flight planned in the Apollo man-to-the-moon program.

Aldrin first did a series of exercises to evaluate how difficult it is to work in a stiff space suit, as Gemini 12 sped at 17,500 miles an hour over Australia.

"I can't get my arms down too far," he said.

The astronaut then began shooting pictures of some stars.

"That's Jupiter," Lovell said.

Although the hatch was opened earlier than planned in the reshuffled flight plan, it was one orbit later than originally planned, a postponement caused by problems with Gemini control jets and two attempts to photograph a high-flying yellow cloud over the glaring Sahara Desert.

As Lovell wrestled with problems caused by two dead Gemini manoeuvring rockets, Aldrin first dumped overboard a

TODAY'S GRAIN PRICES

WINNIPEG (CP) — Broad gains on the Chicago market touched off a price upswing in moderate trade on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange today.

Oilseeds were active in evidence of improved shipping demand and the sale of 3,500 tons of flax to Spain and 2,100 tons of rapeseed to Italy.

Oats and barley prices were firm to higher in domestic trade.

Higher Chicago rye and wheat prices pushed Winnipeg rye prices upward.

The Chicago market was influenced by reports of unfavorable weather for the United States winter crop.

Firms Must Think Big Even During Recession

By LEROY AARONS

LAKE SUCCESS (WP) — Bill Levitt is wrapped in a black leather chair behind a brown oak desk he bought in 1934. He tilts to a comfortable 45-degree list, makes Roman arches of his furry eyebrows and issues a crisp statement:

"Ninety-five per cent of the home builders in this business operate like the gas station around the corner."

Which is to say that the minority — notably Levitt and Sons, Inc. — run their shops like General Motors. Rather presumptuous, except that William J. Levitt has the corporate figures to prove it.

HOME SALES

Item: In a bearish market, with housing starts down and mortgage money tight, Levitt and Sons increased home sales 20 per cent this year—and the prognosis is for more of the same in 1967.

Item: With much of the housing industry reporting losses in 1966, Levitt reports gross income up 34 per cent over last year, and net profits up 23 per cent.

"Ninety-five per cent of the housing in America today is being built by the builder who produces not more than five or six houses a year. Somebody recently ran a list of 50 to 100 of the largest builders. When you got down to the 20th largest he was building 100 a year. That means that all the rest — and there are 300,000 total — are building less than 100 houses a year."

Query: How does Levitt do it?

"We try to run a business the same as a good dress or auto manufacturer. The average builder doesn't. He builds a few houses a year, and he and Uncle Louie and a couple of sons have to make a living from it. He doesn't make a profit. We do a lot of volume so we make a decent over-all."

Nice work if you can get it, and Levitt can. Where the small builder has neither the credit nor the capital to think big, the Levitt-size home maker has the credentials to command a favorable financing position even when the money market contracts.

TWO METHODS

Levitt tackles this problem with two methods: A system of anticipation financing, and applying mass production computer technology to the home building business. The former enables him to work from a master plan without worrying about the day-to-day fluctuations of the money market. The latter puts him in a position — he maintains — to offer a more attractive product to the buyer than do his competitors.

WINTERS HOLDS TALKS TO LEARN WHEAT ROLE

WINTERS . . . new job

WINNIPEG (CP) — Trade Minister Winters arrived in Winnipeg today for talks with the Canadian Wheat Board, the Board of Grain Commissioners and senior officials of grain-hauling firms.

This is Mr. Winters' first official meeting with grain officials since he assumed his role as minister responsible for the wheat board.

At the airport, he described his visit as "primarily a familiarization trip."

"We will be discussing some specific problems, one of which will be the size of initial wheat payments," he said.

MARKET SUMMARY

Profit Bid Cuts Prices

Profit-taking cut into western oil prices in Toronto today while Wall Street was down in moderately active trading.

AT VANCOUVER last week's high flyers were big losers in active trading shortly before noon today.

Highmont, which went over $2 at one time last week, slipped .16 today to $1.81 on 23,850 shares. T. C. Exploration was also a big loser on the mining board, dropping .14 to .30. Brenda was off .30 to $8.05 and Madrona dropped .11 to $1.59.

Dynasty moved up .55 to $7.80 and Atlas climbed .45 to $2.65.

Royal Canadian Ventures led the oils, gaining .04 to .57.

Most industrials ended up in the loss column. North West Life was off .25 to $8.75, Pacific Western was off .25 to $7.50 and Scott Paper hit a new low, also losing .25 to $15.

Volume to 11 a.m. was 478,455 shares.

AT TORONTO Canadian Superior declined 1⅜ to 25⅞, Dome ¾ to 28½, Scurry Rainbow ⅜ to 18¾ and Banff ¼ to 14½.

Industrials were weaker as Texaco retreated 1 to 64, Ford of Canada 1⅞ to 124⅛ and Alcan ⅜ to 28¾.

Analysts say there has been some caution in buying because of President Johnson's surgery due for Wednesday. And as a result volume remained light with only 1,735,000 shares being traded by 2 p.m.

Banks recovered some of last week's losses as Montreal added ¾ at 54, Nova Scotia ½ at 61½ and Royal ⅜ at 67⅛.

Noranda gained ⅜ to 48⅞ in base metals.

AT NEW YORK key stocks lost from fractions to a point or so while some of the higher-priced glamor issues were down several points.

Gulf and Western lost 1 at 30 on a block of 35,800 shares and looked like the day's volume leader.

Profits were taken on that stock and many others as the market entered a period of caution. Some selling apparently was made to realize gains made in last week's advance, while other weakness was attributed to caution in advance of President Johnson's surgery.

Down 4 or 5 points were such stocks as IBM, Polaroid and Corning Glass. Fairchild Camera dropped 3, Columbia Pictures about 3, Xerox, Zenith and International Minerals 2, or more.

Dome Mines gained 1 in Canadians. Hudson Bay Mining and Distillers Seagrams gained ¼ and Canadian Pacific ⅛. Alcan lost ¼ and Massey and Walker Gooderham were down ⅛.

AT MONTREAL banks rallied to higher levels while the other major groups remained fractionally higher near 2 p.m. today.

Bank of Montreal added 1½ points at 54 and Canadian Imperial Commerce and Nova Scotia each firmed ⅝ at 58¾ and 61½ respectively.

Canada Cement and Noranda Mines each won ½ at 35 and 49. Calgary Power was up ½ at 21 and Inco ⅜ at 87.

Among the losers were Massey-Ferguson, off ⅜ at 21¾, and Cominco and Distillers-Seagrams, each off ¼ at 33¼ and 33¾ respectively. Among the speculative mines and oils on the Canadian Stock Exchange, Fidelity Mining Investments was up 4 cents at 74 cents. Industrial volume was 193,000 shares and mines and oils 255,000 shares.

AT LONDON renewed buying of gilts was the main feature on the stock market today. Gains ranged from 1-16 to ¼, led by medium-dated funds, where shortage of stock was a factor.

Dollar stocks were mixed. Canadians moved irregularly around one point. International Nickel was up ½ after an initial gain had been trimmed.

In banks, Canadian Imperial and Bank of Montreal were firmer, while Royal Bank of Canada was dull.

Russians Boosting Car Export

MOSCOW (Reuters) — Russia has almost doubled its exports of cars and trucks in the last 10 years and is breaking into Western European markets, the Soviet news agency Tass reports.

Russia now exports vehicles to 60 countries, as against 20 countries 10 years ago. Most still go to Communist countries, but a French firm recently ordered 1,500 Soviet Moskvich cars.

That model also finds buyers in Belgium, The Netherlands and Finland, while West Germany, Sweden and Italy take heavy Soviet dump trucks, Tass said.

Ten years ago the export figure for all Soviet motor vehicles was 35,300. Last year it was 63,700.

A WAR-BORN, WAR-TORN LOVE STORY

We Found the Sailor's Girl ... 21 Years of Memories

By PETE LOUDON

This is a love story about a sailor and a girl.

It began 21 years ago in Victoria. And if it doesn't appear to be ending as love stories traditionally do—maybe it's because it's a true love story.

And they say true love never runs smoothly . . .

The Times became involved last month when a letter was received here from Edward W. Poskitt of Southampton.

He asked help in tracing a girl he met here in 1945 when he was in the Royal Navy. He gave us the girl's name—Frances Yates—and he gave us her address—an aging house in the George Jay School area.

Frances was 18 when they met. She lived with her widowed mother and three younger sisters and she worked at the Dockyard. One night she attended a servicemen's dance in downtown Victoria and that's where she met Edward.

●

He had recently been drafted to HMCS Naden to await completion of a ship being built in Vancouver for the RN, the frigate HMS Mull of Galloway. But he had been taken ill and was admitted to Royal Jubilee Hospital. And when he was released, his ship had sailed.

"You can imagine how I felt," wrote Edward. "It was my first time away from home, with no friend in a strange country and I was only 19."

He was given seven days' leave and one night he went to a dance.

"It was at this dance that I met Frances. She was rather slim built with dark, curly hair and a fresh complexion.

"From the moment we met I felt as if I had known her for years. Call it love at first sight if you like, but I know I hated it when we parted for even a few hours."

Frances took Edward to meet her family and their home was his home for the remainder of his stay here.

"We made a lot of plans about our future, which included getting married.

●

"We had her mother's consent and I had written to my father and he agreed that if I thought she was the right girl, it was up to me."

The navy was the stumbling block to romance, however. Edward required permission from his CO. His ship was somewhere in the Pacific. They would have to wait. Then came word Edward was to be sent home to England. He told Frances he would be back to marry her.

But the ship he was drafted to didn't head for England. It turned into the Pacific and Edward was told he would be taken to join his original ship on a Far East station.

"That meant it would be at least two or three years before I would get back to the United Kingdom, let alone Victoria.

●

"So out of sheer desperation, rather than tell Frances this news, I said I had met someone else. Mind you, I had put off writing this letter until I had exhausted all possible chances of getting back to Victoria."

They had promised each other that if either did fall in love with someone else, they would tell the other "and that would be the end."

Time is a great healer, Edward reasoned, and Frances would meet another chap and he would get over it.

"But I'm afraid it wasn't that easy. Within a month I wrote, trying to explain my earlier letter and hoped she would forgive and forget. But I never received an answer."

Edward missed his ship at Suva and was taken on to Singapore and on to Trincomallee and back to Singapore and to Borneo and to Ceylon.

He was sent to Capetown and to Java, the Persian Gulf and back to Singapore, and eventually joined Mull of Galloway and then he was sent back to England for demobilization in 1948. He had been around the world.

"But I had spent only six months worth remembering, met only one girl, a girl I couldn't forget, and visited only one place I ever wanted to see again . . .

"That's the way I felt. That feeling still hasn't changed." Frances had a lovely voice. She would sing Sentimental Journey, There I've Said It Again, You Belong to My Heart and Just a Prayer Away.

●

"Whenever I hear one of these old songs it brings a tear to my eyes." Edward ended his letter with a plea that the Times would find his Frances and he enclosed a sealed letter for her. He guessed she was probably married now but he wanted to know.

He had written other letters to Victoria—one to a radio station which had a program Frances had listened to—but he never received an answer.

Well, the Times has an answer for Edward. First, he had made an error in the address. But a house-by-house search of old directories found France's mother's name. Nowhere was Frances listed. Obviously she had married and taken a new name.

We checked the owners of the house. They gave us the name of previous owners who gave us the name of previous owners, who now were dead.

We checked neighbors who had lived long in the area. One swore he knew the girl and said she married so-and-so. And it turned out to be another girl in another era.

●

We found a woman of the same name as Frances' mother. But it was another woman altogether. We checked local high school records, thinking that if we found Frances and checked with classmates who might still live here, we'd find Frances. But she wasn't listed in the schools. We checked old Dockyard records too without success.

Finally, we found a marriage record and we found Frances' husband still living here. And we found he had a new wife. He and Frances had parted. She was in Ontario and he didn't know her new married name.

But he knew her mother, now remarried, lived at Ladysmith. But at Ladysmith they said the mother had moved without trace. But they led us to Frances' sister at Sooke. And she gave us Frances' new name and her address and her telephone number in a suburb of Toronto.

When we phoned Frances the long-distance operator told us her telephone was off the hook.

●

And then suddenly our call got through and on the line was the former Frances Yates, now Mrs. Joseph Gogolak.

"For heaven's sake," she said. "I remember him. I have often thought of him," said Frances.

She said she is married to a forestry engineer who came here from Hungary. She said she has a 19-year-old son and is trying to adopt another child.

And she said she's a blonde now. And she said "certainly you can use my name in the story." And yes, she will write to Eddy. "I have a wonderful husband who is not the jealous type and he'll love the story."

She said the dance where she met Edward was at Prince Robert House.

She said that when she got the letter from Edward, breaking off their romance, she was upset but she got over it.

She said she never received his second letter which might have changed both their lives. And she promised to write to the Times. And she said it was wonderful to hear from Victoria again because she misses it so much.

And that's the end of the love story except for writing Edward to tell him how the final chapter came out.

DOUGLAS BROWN
. . . sixth candidate

Oak Bay Official To Try Again In Saanich Vote

At least six persons will be seeking the four vacant Saanich council seats in next month's municipal elections.

Latest to announce his candidacy is Douglas Brown, 38, an unsuccessful candidate last year.

He agreed with the fire marchal's report on the Saanich department but the proposal to more than double the present number of firefighters "certainly creates an argument with me as to the number.

MODERATE

"There is no doubt that our fire department is undermanned and that some provision for a moderate increase in personnel should be allocated in next year's budget."

He supported the planner's recommendation for a University Precinct area at Gordon Head and the building of sewers and trunk lines on a regional basis.

Mr. Brown is purchasing agent for Oak Bay municipality and lives in Saanich.

Other candidates for the Dec. 10 election include Couns. Leslie Passmore, Harold Todd, Edward Lum, Alan Newberry and former Saanich police commissioner Lionel Speller.

Burglar in Underwear Admits Laundry Raid

Youth Caught Trying on Wardrobe

City police nabbed a burglar in his underwear early today.

Officers tipped off by a passing motorist hurried to a John Street laundry about 2:30 a.m. where, peering through a broken window, they saw a figure rummaging through piles of clothes.

A youth bolted upstairs when he saw the police. He was found in his underwear, hiding under a bed comforter in a second floor storage room at Economy Steam Laundry Ltd., 607 John Street.

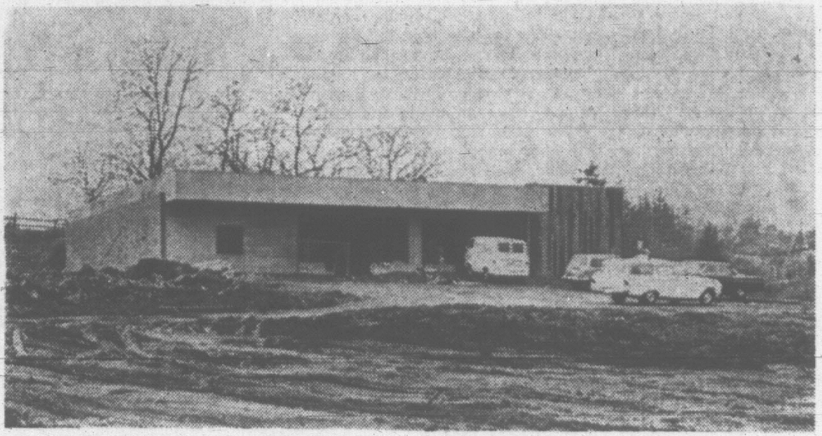
'SHORT OF CLOTHES'

Robert Walker, 19, of 408 Hillside, was remanded to Friday for sentence when he pleaded guilty in central court today to two charges of breaking, entering and attempted theft.

He told officers after his arrest he was "short of clothes."

Walker also admitted breaking into the same firm 11 days ago when a number of garments were taken from a clothes rack, tried on for size and then stolen or rejected.

Police have recovered about $200 of the $300 worth of clothing taken in the first break-in, court was told.



WE KNEW ALL ALONG. Everybody "knew" in fact, that this store being built on Borden, just off Mackenzie, would house the first Saanich liquor store. But the provincial government, the contractors and Saanich municipality all refused comment, until today. LCB chairman Donald McGugan said store will open before Christmas barring serious setbacks.

SERGEANT DOES IT EASY WAY

An alert city police sergeant was responsible for the capture of three young theft suspects Saturday without even leaving his office.

Sgt. James Baxter was completing a report in a fourth-floor room at the Fisgard Street station when he glanced out the window.

He spotted three boys alongside the McPherson Theatre across Centennial Square who were apparently tearing the labels from some clothing.

A fast phone call to the radio room and police nabbed three 15-year-old boys. After questioning, they were charged with theft and possession of stolen goods and will appear in juvenile court.

New Liquor Store In Saanich Open by Christmas

Saanich will have its long-awaited first liquor store in time to catch the Christmas trade.

B.C. Liquor Board chairman Donald McGugan today confirmed earlier speculation concerning a new store being built on Borden at McKenzie in the Lake Hill district.

"That is the place slated for the Liquor Control Board store. We are hoping to get it open before Christmas."

The board will lease the premises.

The building, first phase in a shopping centre, has been under way for some weeks. Neither the contractors nor Saanich municipality would make a statement concerning the building's use except to say it was for retail business.

At the same time, nearby residents all were firm in their understanding it was to be a liquor store. And at least one petition is circulating to oppose the opening.

A spokesman for the contractors, Horizon Construction of Nanaimo, said earlier today, "I'm just building a store. I can show you the plans. They don't say it's a liquor store."

He agreed that people thought it was a liquor store and suggested this was already causing excitement among local "drys."

"A volatile minority can always over-rule a majority," he added.

The store measures about 60 by 60 feet — about the same size as the liquor store at Foul Bay Road and Fort.

Saanich Reeve Hugh Curtis, who had earlier avoided comment on the store, said in a statement:

"Yes, as I understand it an agreement has been reached between a developing company and the LCB to erect a building near McKenzie for a liquor store.

SHOPPING CENTRE

"It is the first part of a two-phase project. I believe the developers intend to construct a second retail store adjoining, so the completed project will be a small shopping centre."

The reeve said the area is suitably zoned for a liquor store and although it is not the reeve's duty to announce the location of a government liquor store, discussions with the developers have been on that basis.

The new building is valued on the building permit at $42,500. The permit is in the name of Canamerico Mortgage Corporation.

YEARS OF WORK

Reeve Curtis said the new liquor store is the result of years of work on behalf of Saanich council, dating back to 1959 when a move to locate an earlier liquor store was defeated.

He said 2½ years ago several thousand people signed a petition asking the attorney-general to open a liquor store in Saanich.

Since the new store was rumored the site has been criticized by school authorities because of the nearby location of the new Reynolds Road Junior-Senior Secondary School. However supporters point out there are schools near other liquor stores and in any event, liquor is not consumed on the premises.

15-Year-Old Arrested After Chase

Colwood RCMP officers arrested a 15-year-old Victoria boy Saturday night after chasing a stolen car along the Malahat at speeds up to 115 miles an hour.

The car, a European sports model, was reported missing in the city about 8 p.m. and spotted by police near Mill Bay an hour and a half later.

In the chase which followed officers said the sports car crossed the centre lines, almost ramming oncoming cars head on and forcing several drivers into the ditch.

SPUN OUT

The stolen car spun out near Hall's Boathouse, turning around twice before stopping beside a rock bluff.

"He was still trying to fire it up when our officers reached him," a policeman said.

The boy was scheduled to face several charges in juvenile court today.

"I like speeding," he told arresting officers.

SECOND TIME LOST

Young Hunter Found 'Starved and Soaked'

An 18-year-old Central Saanich hunter was found "stiff, starved and soaked" early Sunday afternoon after being lost in the woods for 24 hours.

It was the second time he had become lost while hunting.

Douglas Grimsson, 279 Wain, was blue and shaking with cold after a night under dripping wet trees on San Juan Ridge near Port Renfrew.

He had left on a hunting expedition early Saturday without having breakfast. Douglas separated from his father and a friend to go after a deer by himself, arranging to meet them later in the day at their car.

He shot a buck but didn't bring him down and followed the animal's bloody trail through snow until he lost it in a section of woods where the snow had melted.

DEEP IN WOODS

Douglas said he was deep in the woods between Port Renfrew and Shawnigan at that time. He spotted another buck, shot and killed it, and then cleaned the animal.

By this time he had lost his way and darkness was nearing. He left the dead buck and tried to get back to the car. Darkness found him still in the woods, completely confused about his position.

Douglas said his feet were numb. He lay down beneath a tree, and wrapped them in one of the two shirts he was wearing. He also had a sweater and a raincoat but was soaked through within a short time.

Meanwhile, his father raised the alarm, and a search party was organized from Sooke and Shawnigan RCMP detachments and workers from B.C. Forest Products Ltd. plant.

Douglas said he stayed awake through the night and at daybreak got on the move again, trying to spot the slash in the woods that would tell him his position.

He finally saw it and began towards it through the bush. He had hardly entered the slash before he was spotted by the search party.

Douglas was lost once before near Leechtown but on that occasion he got out of the woods the same day.

View Royal Man Hurt in Crash With Police Car

Roy Wellwood, 75, of 529 View Royal Avenue, is in good condition at St. Joseph's Hospital after his car was in collision with an RCMP highway patrol car Saturday about midnight.

He suffered head cuts in the accident at Helmcken and the Trans-Canada Highway in which each auto received about $1,000 damage.

RCMP officers said today their patrol car, driven by Constable Russell Borys, was southbound on the Trans-Canada Highway and Mr. Wellwood's auto was headed west on Helmcken. The cruiser hit the injured man's auto broadside.

It was the second accident involving a police car in 48 hours. A city woman was injured early Friday when her car rammed the rear of a city police cruiser.

Wireless Man To Run As Trustee

A man who believes in "very much more money" for teachers starting work announced his candidacy this morning for trustee on the Greater Victoria School Board.

Joseph Haegert, 1516 Pembroke, said a young teacher with a university degree and family just starting work "should get more than a janitor — no reflection on the janitor."

The retired ship and coast wireless operator has lived in Victoria since 1910.

Although he has not run for public school trustee before, he was for three years a trustee for St. Patrick's Roman Catholic School here.

SPEAK FRENCH

He also said he wants all educated children to be able to speak French.

"I am taking French myself and consider it a very easy language to learn and would like to see all educated people to be able to speak it," he said.

Mr. Haegert is the first person to file nomination papers for school trustee elections to the Greater Victoria board, which includes the city, Saanich south of Royal Oak, Oak Bay and Esquimalt.

Winter Months Construction For $500,000 70-Unit Motel

Work is expected to commence this week on the construction of a half-million-dollar motor-hotel at Douglas Street and Garbally Road.

The new hostelry, to be built by Walter Jensen Construction, is scheduled for opening on June 1, 1967.

Main entrance to the 71-unit building will be off Douglas Street with other entrances off Garbally Road.

Part of the hotel will be of three-storey construction with the front entrance and main lobby two storeys.

A central heated swimming pool surrounded by spacious patios will form the inner core of the complex.

Mr. Jensen said this morning that in addition to the swimming pool the motor-inn would have sauna baths and sunbathing facilities.

A dining lounge, cocktail lounge and coffee shop are also provided for in the plans.

Construction is being financed by Holiday Development Company and the tentative name for the new hotel is Holiday Inn.

AIR STRIKE CALLS HALT TO FUSILIERS

The Royal Highland Fusiliers have been stopped in their tracks today by an impending strike.

Their display of marching pipes, drums and bugles here Tuesday has been cancelled.

Thousands of people who bought advance tickets for the show at Memorial Arena Tuesday will get their money back.

The 150 officers and men were at Portland, Oregon, today and could have reached Victoria before the Air Canada strike deadline at 1 p.m. PST.

But it was feared that if the strike materialized they would be stranded here. So refunds were authorized at all Famous Artist ticket offices.

The last time the regiment came to North America was in 1814. And nothing stayed the advance of the fusiliers until they had burned the White House in Washington.

TWO-MAN ANTI-TANK WEAPON is lined up for firing by riflemen Frank MacDonald (left) and Dennis G. Breckon. While one man loads, the other sights formidable looking weapon. Both are members of "B" Company, 1st Battalion Queen's Own Rifles, which presently has 20 of the Carl Gustavs.

ANTI-TANK GUN LIGHTS THE NIGHT

What would the Victoria-based weathership Vancouver want with an anti-tank weapon on board?

Department of transport officials found out the answer to that one when the Vancouver went on sea trials last week.

In addition to knocking out tanks, the weapon proved to be just the thing for sending up illuminating flares at night time.

Three members of the 1st. Battalion Queen's Own Rifles accompanied the $12 milion weathership off the west coast to demonstrate the capabilities of the newly acquired Carl Gustav anti-tank weapon.

On the assumption a plane had to ditch in the nearby water, the weapon rapidly sent up a pattern of para-illuminating flares to simulate a runway and guide the plane to a safe landing.

Said a local DOT spokesman: "We were very impressed by the equipment."

If officials in Ottawa are equally impressed, the Vancouver could be the first weathership to be fitted with the weapon.

Delivery of some 300 of the 84 mm weapons to regular army units in Canada began recently.

Ask The Times

Q. All press reports I have seen of Montreal's new rubber-tired subway system have been laudatory. Have there been any adverse comments, say in the Montreal papers? O.P.Y.

A. The only gross defect, noted both in the Gazette and Le Devoir, since the subway's opening, is poor ventilation of subway cars. Apparently ventilators are located in the bottom of the cars and ingest air is already heated by brake and tire friction.

TODAY'S GRAIN PRICES

WINNIPEG (CP) — Broad gains on the Chicago market touched off a price upswing in moderate trade on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange today.

Oilseeds were active in evidence of improved shipping demand and the sale of 3,500 tons of flax to Spain and 2,100 tons of rapeseed to Italy.

Oats and barley prices were firm to higher in domestic trade.

Higher Chicago rye and wheat prices pushed Winnipeg rye prices upward.

The Chicago market was influenced by reports of unfavorable weather for the United States winter crop.

Firms Must Think Big Even During Recession

By LEROY AARONS

LAKE SUCCESS (WP) — Bill Levitt is wrapped in a black leather chair behind a brown oak desk he bought in 1934. He tilts to a comfortable 45-degree list, makes Roman arches of his furry eyebrows and issues a crisp statement:

"Ninety-five per cent of the home builders in this business operate like the gas station around the corner."

Which is to say that the minority — notably Levitt and Sons, Inc. — run their shops like General Motors. Rather presumptuous, except that William J. Levitt has the corporate figures to prove it.

HOME SALES

Item: In a bearish market, with housing starts down and mortgage money tight, Levitt and Sons increased home sales 20 per cent this year—and the prognosis is for more of the same in 1967.

Item: With much of the housing industry reporting losses in 1966, Levitt reports gross income up 34 per cent over last year, and net profits up 23 per cent.

"Ninety-five per cent of the housing in America today is being built by the builder who produces not more than five or six houses a year. Somebody recently ran a list of 50 to 100 of the largest builders. When you got down to the 20th largest he was building 100 a year. That means that all the rest — and there are 300,000 total — are building less than 100 houses a year."

Query: How does Levitt do it?

"We try to run a business the same as a good dress or auto manufacturer. The average builder doesn't. He builds a few houses a year, and he and Uncle Louie and a couple of sons have to make a living from it. He doesn't make a profit. We do a lot of volume so we make a decent over-all."

Nice work if you can get it, and Levitt can. Where the small builder has neither the credit nor the capital to think big, the Levitt-size home maker has the credentials to command a favorable financing position even when the money market contracts.

TWO METHODS

Levitt tackles this problem with two methods: A system of anticipation financing, and applying mass production computer technology to the home building business. The former enables him to work from a master plan without worrying about the day-to-day fluctuations of the money market. The latter puts him in a position — he maintains — to offer a more attractive product to the buyer than do his competitors.

WINTERS HOLDS TALKS TO LEARN WHEAT ROLE

WINTERS
. . . new job

WINNIPEG (CP) — Trade Minister Winters arrived in Winnipeg today for talks with the Canadian Wheat Board, the Board of Grain Commissioners and senior officials of grain-hauling firms.

This is Mr. Winters' first official meeting with grain officials since he assumed his role as minister responsible for the wheat board.

At the airport, he described his visit as "primarily a familiarization trip."

"We will be discussing some specific problems, one of which will be the size of initial wheat payments," he said.

MARKET SUMMARY

Profit Bid Cuts Prices

Profit-taking cut into western oil prices in Toronto today while Wall Street was down in moderately active trading.

AT VANCOUVER last week's high flyers were big losers in active trading shortly before noon today.

Highmont, which went over $2 at one time last week, slipped .16 today to $1.81 on 23,850 shares. T. C. Exploration was also a big loser on the mining board, dropping .14 to .30. Brenda was off .30 to $8.05 and Madrona dropped .11 to $1.59.

Dynasty moved up .55 to $7.80 and Atlas climbed .45 to $2.65.

Royal Canadian Ventures led the oils, gaining .04 to .57.

Most industrials ended up in the loss column. North West Life was off .25 to $8.75, Pacific Western was off .25 to $7.50 and Scott Paper hit a new low, also losing .25 to $15.

Volume to 11 a.m. was 478,455 shares.

AT TORONTO Canadian Superior declined 1⅜ to 25⅞, Dome ¾ to 28½, Scurry Rainbow ⅜ to 18¾ and Banff ¼ to 14½.

Industrials were weaker as Texaco retreated 1 to 64, Ford of Canada 1⅞ to 124⅛ and Alcan ⅜ to 28¾.

Analysts say there has been some caution in buying because of President Johnson's surgery due for Wednesday. And as a result volume remained light with only 1,735,000 shares being traded by 2 p.m.

Banks recovered some of last week's losses as Montreal added ¾ at 54, Nova Scotia ½ at 61½ and Royal ⅜ at 67⅛.

Noranda gained ⅜ to 48⅞ in base metals.

AT NEW YORK key stocks lost from fractions to a point or so while some of the higher-priced glamor issues were down several points.

Gulf and Western lost 1 at 30 on a block of 35,800 shares and looked like the day's volume leader.

Profits were taken on that stock and many others as the market entered a period of caution. Some selling apparently was made to realize gains made in last week's advance, while other weakness was attributed to caution in advance of President Johnson's surgery.

Down 4 or 5 points were such stocks as IBM, Polaroid and Corning Glass. Fairchild Camera dropped 3, Columbia Pictures about 3, Xerox, Zenith and International Minerals 2 or more.

Dome Mines gained 1 in Canadians. Hudson Bay Mining and Distillers Seagrams gained ¼ and Canadian Pacific ⅛. Alcan lost ¼ and Massey and Walker Gooderham were down ⅛.

AT MONTREAL banks rallied to higher levels while the other major groups remained fractionally higher near 2 p.m. today.

Bank of Montreal added 1½ points at 54 and Canadian Imperial Commerce and Nova Scotia each firmed ⅝ at 58¾ and 61½ respectively.

Canada Cement and Noranda Mines each won ½ at 35 and 49. Calgary Power was up ½ at 21 and Inco ⅜ at 87.

Among the losers were Massey-Ferguson, off ⅜ at 21⅝, and Cominco and Distillers-Seagrams, each off ¼ at 33¼ and 33⅜ respectively. Among the speculative mines and oils on the Canadian Stock Exchange, Fidelity Mining Investments was up 4 cents at 74 cents. Industrial volume was 193,000 shares and mines and oils 255,000 shares.

AT LONDON renewed buying of gilts was the main feature on the stock market today. Gains ranged from 1-16 to ¼, led by medium-dated funds, where shortage of stock was a factor.

Dollar stocks were mixed. Canadians moved irregularly around one point. International Nickel was up ½ after an initial gain had been trimmed.

In banks, Canadian Imperial and Bank of Montreal were firmer, while Royal Bank of Canada was dull.

Youth Suicides in Jail Cell

LETHBRIDGE (CP) — Donald Enns, 17, of Richmound, Sask., charged with an armed robbery involving less than $2, hanged himself in his cell at Lethbridge provincial jail during the weekend, RCMP disclosed today.

Enns was arrested Friday following the holdup of a Taber area man 30 miles east of here. Roy Easthope said he was accosted outside his home near Taber by a youth who demanded his wallet at rifle point. The wallet contained less than $2, police later said.

Sheppard Case to Jury Tuesday

CLEVELAND (UPI)—The state and defense rested their cases today in the murder retrial of Dr. Samuel Sheppard without the defendant taking the stand in his own defense.

The 12-year-old case could go to the jury late Tuesday.

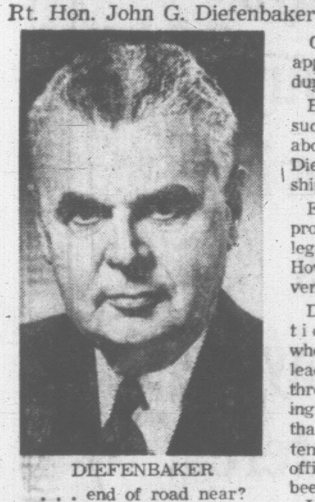
Strike Hits U.S. Defence Plant

BALTIMORE (UPI)—About 2,400 employees at Westinghouse Electric Corp.'s largest defence facility went on strike today after spurning pleas by the company and federal mediators to accept a proposed new three-year wage contract.

The strikers, members of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, represented about one-half of the work force at the company's defence and space centre at the Baltimore Friendship Airport.

Dief Suffers Big Setback At Meeting

OTAWA (CP) — The anti-Diefenbaker faction in the Conservative party won a smashing victory Sunday night that may signal the approaching end of the Rt. Hon. John G. Diefenbaker as party leader.



DIEFENBAKER

MALONEY
. . . agenda changed

On the surface, the victory appeared to be only a procedural one.

But in effect it was the first successful step, after three abortive revolts against Mr. Diefenbaker, toward a leadership convention.

Even before the convention proper opened today, many delegates were asking each other: How soon can a leadership convention be called?

Dalton Camp of Toronto, national Conservative president who seeks a review of the party leadership, announced after a three-hour Sunday night meeting of the national executive that party headquarters' attempt to relegate the election of officers to late Wednesday had been overturned.

Instead, by a "comfortable margin," the 140-member executive had re-scheduled the crucial election of officers for 2:30 p.m. EST Tuesday.

SEEKS RE-ELECTION

Mr. Camp is seeking re-election as president on the understanding that his return would mean a call for a leadership convention, probably within a year.

Arthur Maloney, Toronto lawyer, is opposing Mr. Camp for the presidency as a self-styled Diefenbaker admirer and advocate of an end to factional strife within the party over the leadership question.

The change in agenda means that the some 1,300 delegates will vote by secret ballot on the presidency before the usual vote of confidence in the leader.

It remains to be decided whether the vote on the leadership will be by secret ballot or as in the past, by a standing vote. At the 1964 convention, a move for a secret ballot on the leadership was overwhelmingly defeated.

Mr. Diefenbaker, 71, and party leader since 1956, survived a cabinet rebellion in 1963 and a national executive insurrection last year.

Mr. Maloney said he would support, despite misgivings, a periodic leadership review if a majority favored changing the constitution to this effect.

Mr. Maloney described the agenda fight as a "ridiculous fiasco" and "perfectly disgraceful." If he were elected, it would never happen again.

However, he would not contest the new agenda and knew of no moves to do so.

A smiling Mr. Camp told a press conference that the principal officers of the party voted 6 to 1 with one abstention to recommend to the executive that it change the agenda.

There had been "almost total

'Liberal Eyes Are Upon Us'

OTTAWA (CP) — Conservative Leader Diefenbaker delivered a "blast the Liberals" speech today to a cheering, applauding audience of 300 women delegates to his party's annual meeting.

He came out on the offensive as expected against a group within the party seeking a reassessment of his leadership. And he warned that Liberals want a Conservative party "frozen in reaction."

CONVENTION ALL BUT OVER?

Go-Go Girls Departed After Maloney Defeat

By DAVE McINTOSH

OTTAWA (CP)—Room 380 in the Chateau Laurier was subdued and almost empty late Sunday night.

Room 580, two floors directly above, was boiling with activity, singing and shouting. The party spilled into the corridor.

Room 380 belongs to Arthur Maloney, pro-Diefenbaker candidate for the national presidency of the Conservative party.

Room 580 is occupied by Dalton Camp, anti-Diefenbaker candidate seeking re-election as president.

The stunning contrast developed less than an hour after a smiling Mr. Camp announced that party headquarters' attempt to hold the all-important election of officers late Wednesday had been overturned by the national executive. The election will be held Tuesday.

Only a few hours before, the Maloney faction with girls in mini-skirts and a band had all but taken over the hotel lobby.

After the agenda announcement, Mr. Maloney sat disconsolately in his room with a small group of reporters.

He talked bravely — as bravely, one thought, as Paul Martin when he tried for the Liberal leadership against Lester B. Pearson in 1958.

There was only a handful of delegates in the room. It was littered with empty cups and glasses, discarded papers, soiled tablecloths and crackers ground into the rug.

Mr. Maloney could be heard very easily by the reporters—

Mailmen To Set Walkout

OTTAWA (CP) — A deadline will be announced Wednesday, not Tuesday, for a wildcat strike of postal workers across the country, a postal union leader said today.

Bill Kay, president of the Canadian Union of Postal Workers, said mediation talks with Mr. Justice Andre Montpetit of Montreal likely will continue for at least two more days.

"If we're not successful between now and then we'll set a strike date Wednesday," he told reporters after a morning session with the mediator.

Earlier reports said the strike deadline would be announced Tuesday, the date announced two weeks ago for such action.

Further talks between the mediator and union negotiators were scheduled this afternoon.

The unions are demanding a pay increase of 20 per cent immediately and a further 19 per cent next year. The civil service commission has offered an interim increase of six per cent for the 20,000 post office workers.

Under law, federal employees cannot go on strike. They are subject to dismissal if they are off work for more than a few days without good reason.

Israel Attacks Jordan

JERUSALEM (UPI) — Jordan's Arab neighbors flocked to her side today, vowing to liquidate "Zionist imperialism" in retaliation for Israel's land and air attacks Sunday inside Jordan.

United Nations observers worked frantically to keep the conflict from engulfing the Middle East in war.

UN peace teams arranged a shaky cease-fire along the Jordan border. But Syria, backing its threats with actions, struck back on a second front with a day-long attack on a collective farm near the Sea of Galilee.

Israeli armored columns slashed into Jordan in a four-hour raid starting at dawn Sunday. They smashed a police post, seized one and attacked two others, blew up 40 homes and fought pitched battles with crack Arab legion troops.

AIR DUELS

Overhead Israeli jets fought air duels with Jordanian fighters seeking to repulse the attack. Both sides threw tanks and artillery into the battle.

Both sides claimed to have inflicted heavy blows on the other. Some of the casualties were civilians.

The outburst was the most serious Arab-Israeli confrontation since the Israeli invasion of Sinai in 1956 which brought war with the United Arab Republic and triggered intervention by French and British troops.

Jordan went on a war footing and Arab radios throughout the Middle East filled the air waves with martial music.

FORCES ALERTED

In Jordan, Amman radio said all civil defence forces had been alerted, leaves for military personnel cancelled and doctors and nurses ordered to their posts.

Pakistani President Mohammad Ayub Khan, who flew into Amman for a state visit as the Israeli raiders struck, denounced the attack and pledged his nation would back Jordan against "Israeli aggression" with "all means for reaching final victory."

Sayed Noufal, assistant secretary-general of the 13-nation Arab League, said in Cairo the incident was tantamount to aggression against all Arab nations. He said the league was contacting all its members to appraise the situation.

First Tieup In 29 Years

By Times News Services

The first strike in the 29-year history of Air Canada grounded all planes at 1 p.m. today.

The giant Crown-owned airline was struck by 5,200 maintenance men who ignored a last-minute back-to-work appeal by Labor Minister John Nicholson.

The men, members of the International Association of Machinists, rejected a proposal by federal mediator Richard Geddes for an 18-per-cent wage increase over a two-year period.

The union is demanding 20 per cent in a one-year pact.

As Air Canada crews walked off the job, other carriers which included Canadian Pacific Airlines along with Pacific Western in Vancouver, were making arrangements to fly some of the routes normally served by Air Canada.

4,000 LAID OFF

About 4,000 employees, not belonging to the machinists' union, were laid off as the planes trickled back to their home bases.

Only supervisors and clerical staff remained on the job.

The last Air Canada flight, a Vanguard bound for Toronto, left Dorval airport at 11 a.m.

An international flight from London was expected to land at Montreal's International Airport at 2 p.m., one hour after the strike began.

The work stoppage by the machinists stopped what is estimated to be 80 per cent of Canada's civil air transport facilities. Air Canada's domestic and international services are involved.

LONG STRIKE SEEN

As negotiations fizzled in Montreal during the weekend, the two sides seemed far apart and there were indications of a long strike.

The walkout comes at a time when Canadians are concerned over a possible walkout by the country's postal workers.

The postal unions have told a government-appointed mediator they will set a strike date Wednesday if a pay dispute is not resolved by then.

Mr. Nicholson's telegrams were sent to officials of the machinists' associations and Air Canada Sunday night, calling on them to try again for a settlement as a matter of national interest.

Officials of the publicly-owned airline had no comment on the telegram while the union replied to Mr. Nicholson saying the further negotiations he wanted "would serve no useful purpose at this time."

The union was ready to talk if a "reasonable offer" was made but it would take two days to get the union's negotiating team together again.

The talks that had been going in Montreal collapsed com-

LOCAL TRAFFIC STOPPED

Scheduled air flights in Victoria came to a halt this morning as members of the International Association of Machinists joined the national strike against Air Canada.

But a spokesman for Victoria Flying Services reported an upswing in requests for charter service to Vancouver and Seattle.

Air Canada normally runs six flights to Vancouver and two to Seattle each day.

This morning, there were two flights to Vancouver, one from Vancouver, and one to Seattle. Service ended after the 10:40 a.m. flight to Vancouver and the strike officially began at 1 p.m.

Between 20 and 25 union members are involved locally. They load and unload airplanes but no servicing of aircraft is done here.

600 USE SERVICE

Local Air Canada manager Stan Mooney said an average 300 persons fly from Victoria each day to Vancouver and Seattle with about the same number coming in.

The company also handles freight, air express and mail which is being rerouted by truck over ferries to the mainland.

The Post Office said closing times for trucking mail to Vancouver are 1 a.m., noon and 6 p.m. daily. Closing times for mail going east of Vancouver is 1 a.m. and noon.

Similar arrangements have been made to get mail from the mainland to Vancouver Island.

Victoria Flying Services has 12 aircraft ready for charter use. Each one can carry three to six passengers.

A spokesman said federal regulations allow their use only on a charter basis and not as a scheduled run.

Cost for three persons in one airplane is $8 each, or $12 each if there are only two.

The company also runs a seaplane service from the Inner Harbor to Vancouver Harbor although there was "no upswing" in demand for this service this morning.

Firm Bids to Serve Flights to Victoria

VANCOUVER (CP)—A British Columbia Airlines spokesman said today his company has applied to the Air Transport Board for permission to set up a Vancouver-Victoria route during the Air Canada strike.

Sid Reynolds said BCA wants to use a 12-passenger Grumman Mallard aircraft for the run, with flights leaving Vancouver every 90 minutes.

Some 270 members of the International Association of Machinists struck Air Canada here at 1 p.m. today, throwing 800 Air Canada employees in British Columbia out of work.

Pacific Western Airlines said it has offered two DC 7C airplanes to the Air Transport Board to cover the Air Canada routes as far east as Winnipeg. PWA said also that the union warned the company that if it parallels Air Canada routes, the union might close down PWA's domestic operations.

Canadian Pacific Airlines said it has asked the ATB for permission to carry domestic passengers on Canadian legs of overseas flights, such as the polar flight to Holland, which goes via Calgary and Edmonton.

Spacemen Beat Fatigue Drag

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) Spacewalk champion Edwin E. (Buzz) Aldrin Jr. thrust head and shoulders out a Gemini 12 door today and coolly clicked pictures of the sunrise, Milky Way and earth—the last adventure by a U.S. astronaut outside a spaceship until 1968.

The photo session — most of which was performed out of range from earth tracking stations with a minimum of conversation heard on the ground—lasted slightly longer than the 40 minutes originally planned.

"We've got a little leg room here for a change," command pilot James A. Lovell Jr. said, referring to the fact that Aldrin had dumped unneeded equipment overboard while the hatch was open.

"Keep space clean," Mission Control Centre in Houston, Tex., said.

"NORAD will have a fit keeping track of all those bits and pieces," Lovell quipped. NORAD is the North American Defence Command, which keeps track of all orbiting objects

The pilots used more fuel than expected during Aldrin's time outside, cutting off plans to remain outside over the United States to photograph terrain.

"That was a pretty expensive EVA (extra-vehicular activity) in the way of fuel," reported Lovell.

"We used 20 to 25 per cent."

The U.S. Space agency said Aldrin's hatch opened about 9:53 a.m. EST and closed 52 minutes later.

While outside, however, Aldrin successfully photographed stars and terrain features. The "space stand" boosted his record space exposure time to 5½ hours.

The next U.S. walk is not scheduled until 1968 on the fourth manned earth - orbital flight planned in the Apollo man-to-the-moon program.

Aldrin first did a series of exercises to evaluate how difficult it is to work in a stiff space suit, as Gemini 12 sped at 17,500 miles an hour over Australia.

"I can't get my arms down too far," he said.

The astronaut then began shooting pictures of some stars.

"That's Jupiter," Lovell said.

Although the hatch was opened earlier than planned in the reshuffled flight plan, it was one orbit later than originally planned, a postponement caused by problems with Gemini control jets and two attempts to photograph a high-flying yellow cloud over the glaring Sahara Desert.

As Lovell wrestled with problems caused by two dead Gemini manoeuvring rockets, Aldrin first dumped overboard a bag of debris crammed with the 25-foot lifeline and chest pack used in his record-breaking stroll Sunday.

TRY FOR PICTURE

With split-second timing by control centres on three continents, the Gemini 12 pilots tried twice to photograph—but could not see—a wind-whipped vapor stream spewed by two French Centaure rockets high over the Sahara.

"We saw no cloud," Lovell radioed the second time around "Pictures taken by no observation."

"They've had visual observation from the ground," flight controllers radioed after a second rocket blasted off about 8:07 a.m. EST.

"Wish we could say the same," Lovell replied.

The stand in the spacecraft door was initially set to begin at 8:47 a.m. but the pilots asked for more time.

PHOTOGRAPHIC TARGET

As Aldrin and Lovell flashed overhead at 17,500 miles an hour, the first 19 - foot - tall French Centaure rocket blasted off at 6:28 a.m. from Hammaguin, Algeria, trailing a yellow tail as a photographic target for Gemini 12.

Pictures of the vapor, streaming between 38 and 111 miles above the Sahara desert, will help scientists learn more about high altitude winds that howl at speeds up to 400 miles an hour.

The control problems were caused by the failure of two of Gemini 12's manoeuvring rockets.

"Every time we pitch or yaw, we get roll," Lovell advised controllers on the ground.

On Sunday Aldrin nearly doubled the record time spent outside a spaceship by one man.

Aldrin's success strolling in space for two hours, nine minutes "demonstrated quite adequately that, with proper restraints and aids, extra-vehicular activity can be a very successful thing," said mission director William C. Schneider.

After previous space walkers had trouble positioning themselves outside, Aldrin's activities were tailored to see if leverage and fatigue problems could be overcome.

Throughout his record spacewalk Aldrin remained in constant physical contact with either the Gemini or with the Agena target rocket to which Gemini was docked.

Part of the time he was held stationary as a pair of foot restraints, which look like oversized overshoes with the inside edges cut away. Part of the time he was hooked by straps from his waist to the space vehicles. The rest of the time he used handrails and portable handholds.

These measures let Aldrin devote most of his energy to the task he was trying, rather than fighting to stay in the same place, as other spacewalkers have done.

Aldrin's walk beat by one minute the spacewalk record set by navy Cmdr. Eugene A. Cernan on Gemini 9. Gemini II pilot navy Lt.-Cmdr. Richard F. Gordon, although not completely outside his ship for the entire time, was exposed to space for two hours, 52 minutes.

Saturday and Sunday, Aldrin accumulated a space endurance record of more than 4½ hours.

Trailers Evacuated

ASHLAND, Ore. (AP) — Two hundred persons were evacuated from a trailer camp Sunday night when seven cars of a 59-car Southern Pacific freight train derailed south of Ashland. One of the cars contained propane gas, and it was feared it might start a fire.

. . . ISRAEL

which specializes in commando-type raids, said his group was ready to "carry the battle" inside Israel.

The Israeli column moved across the desert at 6 a.m. into the Hebron area with their main objective the town of Es Samu which lies about three miles north of the border running east from midway along the Dead Sea shore.

Another column split away and hit the villages of Khirbed Martez and Khirbet Jimba.

Israel claims all three have harbored Arab terrorists.

The column first smashed a police post at Rujem Madefa with tank fire. Then it rumbled through Khirbed El Rafa, a town the Israelis attacked last April following other sabotage acts in Israel.

The town was tightly shuttered without a living soul in the streets.

At the approaches to Samoa, a village of 3,000 persons, the Jordanians fought back. Units of the Arab Legion, police and militia joined the fight.

Israeli tanks and half-tracks blasted 15 trucks laden with soldiers, leaving them burning at the approaches to the town.

An Israeli spokesman said the troops picked out 40 houses at random, made sure each was evacuated and blew them sky high.

LITTLE RESISTANCE

The other column sweeping through Khirbet Markez and Khirbet Jimba blasted several buildings in the Bedouin encampments but ran into little resistance. Both are located about five or six miles east of Samoa.

Both columns returned to Israeli soil at 9:45 a.m.

A special Israeli cabinet meeting Sunday heard a report on the action. The Israelis said one of their officers, Maj. Yoav Shaham, 30, was killed and 10 men wounded, only one seriously.

Jordan claimed they inflicted heavy losses of men and equipment, but the Israelis denied this.

The Israelis carried off three prisoners, one of them a wounded major who later died in a hospital. They also claimed to have seized two jeeps and a land rover along with a number of field weapons.

Turks Slam U.S. Consulate In Girl Tiff

ISTANBUL (AP)—Mobs shattered windows of the United States Consulate, damaged American cars and destroyed a night club early today in the southern Turkish city of Adana after eight U.S. servicemen allegedly accosted Turkish women leaving a movie house, press reports said today.

The reports said the servicemen, from the U.S. Air Force base at Incirlik, near Adana, took refuge in a nearby night club. A crowd gathered and asked that the men be handed over.

Police took the men to a police station for protection. The mob shattered the windows of the police station, then about 50 young persons marched to the U.S. Consulate and damaged American cars on the way.

Good Looks and Sincerity Formula for 'New Politics'

By JULIUS DUSCHA
The Washington Post

LOS ANGELES — If there is a new America, it is California. And if there is a new politics, its style has been moded by the California campaigns of Ronald Reagan and George Murphy.

Politicians learned long ago that Americans are not issue-oriented and that the middle road of moderation is the path to success in U.S. elections.

But not until retired actor Murphy was elected to the U.S. Senate in 1964 did it become clear — at least in physical-culture conscious California — that a television image alone may elect a man to office.

Actor Reagan's overwhelming victory in the California election for governor seemed to prove that Murphy was no political accident, and that image may soon become the end-all and be-all of the new California-style politics.

In his campaign, brilliantly managed by the political packaging firm of Spencer-Roberts and Haffner, Reagan mixed a lot of familiar political techniques with a disturbing patina of imagery.

The result was that Reagan, a pleasant, sincere enough man, but a man with no executive or political experience, emerged after the election as an instant, perfectly-packaged national political figure.

But California voters who went to the polls and voted for Reagan had no real idea what Reagan would do if he were elected governor.

Many Californians, deeply disturbed by Reagan's political success, are desperately searching for an explanation, and much of the answer does lie in his films and television shows because that is where he got his good-guy image.

The Reagan campaign against democratic G. Edmund G. (Pat) Brown was cast in traditional adjectives.

Brown had been in office for eight years, and no California governor except Earl Warren, now chief justice of the United States, had served longer as governor.

GRIEVANCES

A governor is a lightning rod; so anyone running against Brown would have used as issues the obvious grievances voters had against him — high taxes, high welfare costs, too much government, student unrest at the University of California.

Brown also suffered from the concern of white voters over the directions taken by the civil rights movement particularly in the aftermath of the Watts rioing in Los Angeles last year. Negro rioting in San Francisco and Oakland this fall only served to remind Californians of Watts.

The Reagan campaign carefully exploited all of these accumulated grievances, and it was also helped by President Johnson.

Both Democrats and Republicans agreed in the aftermath of the Reagan triumph that voters were in part reacting against the increasing power of government, and particularly the relish, if not joy, with with Mr. Johnson has exercised the frightening powers of the presidency.

In this kind of a political climate, it was not difficult for Spencer-Roberts to advise Reagan to concentrate his campaign on the accumulated grievances that voters inevitably build up against a governor and against the government.

But Reagan and Spencer-Roberts produced a new California style of politics by convincing voters that a man like Reagan who looks like a leader and talks like one, but has no executive or political record, could be a governor.

Today most voters see and hear a candidate for public office only on television, and Reagan was the dream candidate for the television age.

In a moment of candor this fall, Don Bradley, Brown's long-time capaign manager, told several reporters that he wouldn't mind fielding a man like Reagan who could perform faultlessly on television.

Brown, an intensely warm, human man, came over as a stumbler and a bumbler on television in large part because of his favorite-uncle looks and his lack of television-training.

But Reagan read his lines extremely well, and managed to project enough sincerity to win the election by a margin of almost one million votes.

As a fresh political face, Reagan also was helped by the traditional politics of the California campaign.

Public opinion surveys showed that voters, who have repeatedly demonstrated a distaste for politics and avowed politicans, are becoming increasingly apolitical and anti-government.

In his campaign, Brown said that if elected to a third term he would give California more government while Reagan's words were the familiar conservative litany of less government, tax reductions and more free enterprise.

— However much Californians are enamored by the new politics of imagery and personality that projects well on television, they also seem to be ready for some new approaches to the frustrating problems of urban sprawl, traffic and smog, of festering slums in the midst of swinging affluence, of the very destruction of the climate and countryside that turned California into the largest state and the new America.

Unfortunately, neither Reagan nor Brown gave the voters any indication that whoever was governor in the next four years would be imaginative enough to take the new approaches needed to solve these problems. And imagery will simply not do it.

"A cheque book with my name in it - what a nice welcome! But it's not the only reason I switched to North West Trust"

It's extremely nice, mind you. What they call a "Personalized" cheque book, printed with my name and complete with a deposit record book. In a very smart wallet, too. But, believe me, I hardly needed any encouragement to switch to North West Trust. Heavens! When I heard they pay 4½% interest on savings - well, that's half as much again as I used to get. And they pay the same interest on current accounts, too - without any charge for cheques. I should have switched to North West Trust long ago!

Highway Snipers as Bad!

So things are too hot in Viet Nam?

Glad you're not crawling through the rice paddies with the snipers' bullets whistling by?

Well maybe it's safer than driving on Canada's highways!

To date the Viet Nam war has cost the lives of about 2,000 American servicemen. Well over twice that number of people died on Canadian roads last year alone.

There were 148,814 traffic accidents in 1965, one for everybody in Victoria, Saanich and Oak Bay. Someone was hurt on the highways every 3½ minutes.

These are the figures the men in the traffic department at the Victoria police station want you to remember when you drive.

Because the wet roads of autumn and winter always bring a jump in the blood spilled on local streets.

Soaked roads become oil-slicked and extremely dangerous, points out Inspector Richard Berry. Rear-end collisions are becoming the force's biggest problem.

The only answer is leaving more space between you and the car ahead, say Sgt. Ron Bentley. A simple formula to remember is one car length for each 10 miles an hour in dry weather, more if it's wet.

Firms Must Think Big Even During Recession

By LEROY AARONS

LAKE SUCCESS (WP) — Bill Levitt is wrapped in a black leather chair behind a brown oak desk he bought in 1934. He tilts to a comfortable 45-degree list, makes Roman arches of his furry eyebrows and issues a crisp statement:

"Ninety-five per cent of the home builders in this business operate like the gas station around the corner."

Which is to say that the minority — notably Levitt and Sons, Inc. — run their shops like General Motors. Rather presumptuous, except that William J. Levitt has the corporate figures to prove it.

HOME SALES

Item: In a bearish market, with housing starts down and mortgage money tight, Levitt and Sons increased home sales 20 per cent this year—and the prognosis is for more of the same in 1967.

Item: With much of the housing industry reporting losses in 1966, Levitt reports gross income up 34 per cent over last year, and net profits up 23 per cent.

"Ninety-five per cent of the housing in America today is being built by the builder who produces not more than five or six houses a year. Somebody recently ran a list of 50 to 100 of the largest builders. When you got down to the 20th largest he was building 100 a year. That means that all the rest — and there are 300,000 total — are building less than 100 houses a year."

Query: How does Levitt do it?

"We try to run a business the same as a good dress or auto manufacturer. The average builder doesn't. He builds a few houses a year, and he and Uncle Louie and a couple of sons have to make a living from it. He doesn't make a profit. We do a lot of volume so we make a decent over-all."

Nice work if you can get it, and Levitt can. Where the small builder has neither the credit nor the capital to think big, the Levitt-size home maker has the credentials to command a favorable financing position even when the money market contracts.

TWO METHODS

Levitt tackles this problem with two methods: A system of anticipation financing, and applying mass production computer technology to the home building business. The former enables him to work from a master plan without worrying about the day-to-day fluctuations of the money market. The latter puts him in a position — he maintains — to offer a more attractive product to the buyer than do his competitors.

WINTERS HOLDS TALKS TO LEARN WHEAT ROLE

WINTERS
. . . new job.

WINNIPEG (CP) — Trade Minister Winters arrived in Winnipeg today for talks with the Canadian Wheat Board, the Board of Grain Commissioners and senior officials of grain-hauling firms.

This is Mr. Winters' first official meeting with grain officials since he assumed his role as minister responsible for the wheat board.

At the airport, he described his visit as "primarily a familiarization trip."

"We will be discussing some specific problems, one of which will be the size of initial wheat payments," he said.

MARKET SUMMARY

Profit Bid Cuts Prices

Profit-taking cut into western oil prices in Toronto today while Wall Street was down in moderately active trading.

AT VANCOUVER last week's high flyers were big losers in active trading shortly before noon today.

Highmont, which went over $2 at one time last week, slipped .16 today to $1.81 on 23,850 shares. T. C. Exploration was also a big loser on the mining board, dropping .14 to .30. Brenda was off .30 to $8.05 and Madrona dropped .11 to $1.59.

Dynasty moved up .55 to $7.80 and Atlas climbed .45 to $2.65.

Royal Canadian Ventures led the oils, gaining .04 to .57.

Most industrials ended up in the loss column. North West Life was off .25 to $8.75, Pacific Western was off .25 to $7.50 and Scott Paper hit a new low, also losing .25 to $15.

Volume to 11 a.m. was 478,455 shares.

AT TORONTO Canadian Superior declined 1⅜ to 25⅞, Dome ¾ to 28½, Scurry Rainbow ⅜ to 18¾ and Banff ¼ to 14½.

Industrials were weaker as Texaco retreated 1 to 64, Ford of Canada 1⅞ to 124⅛ and Alcan ⅜ to 28¾.

Analysts say there has been some caution in buying because of President Johnson's surgery due for Wednesday. And as a result volume remained light with only 1,735,000 shares being traded by 2 p.m.

Banks recovered some of last week's losses as Montreal added ¾ at 54, Nova Scotia ½ at 61½ and Royal ⅜ at 67⅛.

Noranda gained ⅜ to 48⅞ in base metals.

AT NEW YORK key stocks lost from fractions to a point or so while some of the higher-priced glamor issues were down several points.

Gulf and Western lost 1 at 30 on a block of 35,800 shares and looked like the day's volume leader.

Profits were taken on that stock and many others as the market entered a period of caution. Some selling apparently was made to realize gains made in last week's advance, while other weakness was attributed to caution in advance of President Johnson's surgery.

Down 4 or 5 points were such stocks as IBM, Polaroid and Corning Glass. Fairchild Camera dropped 3, Columbia Pictures about 3, Xerox, Zenith and International Minerals 2 or more.

Dome Mines gained 1 in Canadians. Hudson Bay Mining and Distillers Seagrams gained ¼ and Canadian Pacific ⅛. Alcan lost ¼ and Massey and Walker Gooderham were down ⅛.

AT MONTREAL banks rallied to higher levels while the other major groups remained fractionally higher near 2 p.m. today.

Bank of Montreal added 1½ points at 54 and Canadian Imperial Commerce and Nova Scotia each firmed ⅝ at 58¾ and 61½ respectively.

Canada Cement and Noranda Mines each won ½ at 35 and 49. Calgary Power was up ½ at 21 and Inco ⅜ at 87.

Among the losers were Massey-Ferguson, off ⅜ at 21¾, and Cominco and Distillers-Seagrams, each off ¼ at 33¼ and 33¾ respectively. Among the speculative mines and oils on the Canadian Stock Exchange, Fidelity Mining Investments was up 4 cents at 74 cents. Industrial volume was 193,000 shares and mines and oils 255,000 shares.

AT LONDON renewed buying of gilts was the main feature on the stock market today. Gains ranged from 1-16 to ¼, led by medium-dated funds, where shortage of stock was a factor.

Dollar stocks were mixed. Canadians moved irregularly around one point. International Nickel was up ½ after an initial gain had been trimmed.

In banks, Canadian Imperial and Bank of Montreal were firmer, while Royal Bank of Canada was dull.
